HOOVER TO GET LOOK AT NEW SEA PACT TODAY

Treaty Faces Short Senate Inquiry.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.] (Pictures on back page.)

Washington, D. C., April 29.—[Special.]—President Hoover tomorrow will get his first actual look at the three power naval limitation treaty negotiated at the London conference.

Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson and two of his fellow delegates to the London parley arrived in Washington this evening with a certified copy of the new naval agreement. The delegates will be received tomorrow by President Hoover. They will report verbally and present him with the official copy of the treaty at a formal ceremony. The delegates, together with Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow, will have luncheon at the White House. Mr. Morrow was one of the important American figures in the framing of the treaty. It was assumed that its provisions would be thoroughly discussed over the luncheon table, together with the question of when the document should be placed before the senate for ratification.

Senate Investigation Sure.

It became certain tonight that the treaty will be subjected to a searching investigation once it reaches the senate.

An inquiry into its merits will be launched by Chairman Frederick Hale [Rep., Me.] of the senate naval committee, it was announced. The hearings are to be open to the public and the newspapers, so as to give the country the benefit of the expert testimony of naval officers, called as witnesses.

Chairman Hale said tonight that Secretary Adams will be invited to give the committee his opinion of the pact and a history of the negotiations leading up to its formulation. Other witnesses scheduled include Rear Admiral Hilary P. Jones, veteran advocate of the 8 inch gun 10,000 ton treaty cruiser; Admiral Charles F. Hughes, chief of naval operations, and several members of the navy general board.

Navy League in Warning.

William H. Gardiner, president of the Navy League of the United States, issued a formal statement on behalf of his organization, protesting against hasty action on the naval agreement and advocating an exhaustive investigation of all phases of the treaty before bringing it to a vote in the senate.

Several Washington officials were at the station to welcome the Stimson party, which included Secretary of the Navy Charles Francis Adams and Senator Joseph T. Robinson [Dem., Ark.]. President Hoover was represented by George Akerson, his secretary, and his naval and military aides.

New York's Welcome Warm.

New York, April 29.—[Special.]—New York today welcomed four tired American statesmen whose labors in London for the last three months for peace and naval parity caused Henry L. Stimson, the secretary of state and the chief delegate, to "sincerely believe that disarmament will result."

The four American delegates to the naval limitations conference in London—Secretary Stimson, Secretary of the Navy Adams, Senator Robinson, and Ambassador Morrow—came into the harbor on the United States liner Leviathan early in the morning, were taken off on the municipal tug Macom and landed at the Battery for a triumphal parade up Broadway at noon to the city hall, where Aldermanic President Joseph V. McKee greeted them in the name of the city and the United States. Senator David A. Reed, the fifth member of the delegation, remained in Europe for a continental trip.

Morrow Goes to His Home.

From the city hall all the delegates except Ambassador Morrow went to Washington. Ambassador Morrow went to his home in Englewood, N. J., for a brief stay.

Secretary Stimson made it plain that he believed the treaty drawn up between the United States, Great Britain and Japan has qualities which will eventually lead to a program of naval disarmament.

"We feel that we have accomplished a long step on this road to peace," he said. "By this treaty which we bring home competition will be completely ended between the navies of the three greatest naval powers of the world—America, Britain, and Japan—and with the other two powers—France and Italy—we have also reached agreements which, though not complete, are leading in the same direction. Eventually, we confidently hope, competition will be abolished between all five powers."

Two Are Missing In Oil Explosion

FOES OF PARKER CALLED FOES OF SUPREME COURT

Fess, Gillett Reply to Attack on Him.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 29.—[Special.]—Senate regular Republicans today took up the cudgels in defense of Judge John J. Parker with the charge that opposition to his nomination to the United States Supreme court cloaks a Socialistic attack on the court itself.

Senator Simeon Fess [Rep., O.] climaxed a three hour speech in Parker's behalf with the assertion that the North Carolina jurist and his decision in the now famous "yellow dog" contract case are mere incidents while the Supreme court itself is the real issue. The same elements which bitterly fought the nomination of Chief Justice Hughes have seized, he asserted, upon the labor issue in an effort to win votes for Parker's rejection.

Borah's Argument Called Fallacious.

Undertaking to answer Senator W. E. Borah [Rep., Idaho], who today concluded his attack on Parker, Senator F. H. Gillett [Rep., Mass.] declared the Idaho senator advanced a fallacious argument when he contended that Parker, as a Circuit Court of Appeals judge, went far beyond the precedents set by the Supreme court to uphold the validity of the "yellow dog" contract preventing nonunion miners from joining a union.

Gillett pointed out that in the much cited Hichman case, even Justice Brandes, who wrote a dissenting opinion, agreed that the "yellow dog" contract is legal and, he continued, the injunction sustained by Parker as a Circuit Court of Appeals judge merely enjoined workers against the violation of a legal contract.

"Judge Parker is not committed to the 'yellow dog' contract," asserted Gillett, "merely because he based a decision on it. We, here in the senate, are free to express our opinions, to differ with the Supreme court, and to criticize its decisions. But a judge of an inferior court has not that freedom. Neither the senator from Idaho nor I can infer from Judge Parker's decision what his personal opinions are."

De Priest Listens to Reply.

Representative Oscar De Priest [Rep., Ill.], the only Negro member of the house, had entered the chamber and was sitting within six feet of Gillett when the latter turned to charges that during a campaign several years ago Parker displayed racial prejudice.

"On that question," said Gillett, after quoting Parker's alleged statement that the Negro is not yet qualified to assume the responsibility of full citizenship, "I differ absolutely with Judge Parker. I regret that he holds such an opinion. But I recognize that different environments have occasioned different opinions on that question.

"Regretting, as I do, that there should be on the Supreme bench a man whose opinion on that question differs from mine, I recognize there are very few men in the whole south who either the President or the senate would think fit on the bench who would not hold practically the same views as those of Judge Parker on that question."

Traces History of Court.

"There is no use to blink at the facts," declared Senator Fess. "This fight is on the judiciary, that courageous, independent group on the bench who sit and decide issues according to the law, and if they are not independent they are not fit to sit on that bench."

Fess reviewed the history of the Supreme court and declared that the fights on Chief Justice Hughes and Judge Parker are the work of those "who would break down the judiciary."

The latter charge aroused Senator H. F. Ashurst [Dem., Ariz.], who interrupted to assert that he had voted for the confirmation of many members of the Supreme court, including the late Chief Justice Taft and Chief Justice Hughes.

"And yet," said Ashurst, vehemently, "we are charged now with attempting to overthrow the courts because we will not support a weakling." Fess remonstrated at Ashurst's description of Parker as a "weakling" and predicted that the Arizonan would some day apologize to Parker. Ashurst rejoined that it was "ridiculous" to compare Parker with any of the present members of the court.

FATHER HELD FOR KILLING WOMAN TO END HER PAIN

Charles Cutler, 70 years old, was held to the grand jury yesterday on a charge of killing his daughter, Mary Cutler, five years ago by turning on the gas while she was bedridden with heart disease. He recently walked into a police station and confessed the crime, which the police had thought was an accident.

"There is no such thing as a merciful murder in the eyes of the law," said Assistant State's Attorney Frank Mast. "We probably all feel sorry for this defendant, but under the law there is nothing we can do but hold him to the grand jury and allow a jury to pass on his case."

Judge John Sbarbaro in the Felony court entered the order sending Cutler's case to the grand jury. The defendant said he killed his daughter to put her out of her misery. Alienists had reported that he is sane.

LOYOLA STUDENTS OPPOSE DRY LAW BY BIG MAJORITY

Students of Loyola university registered their disapproval of prohibition in a poll conducted by the student initiative committee, Paul M. Plunkett, chairman, announced yesterday. He said 285 students voted for repeal, 119 for amendment, and 16 for enforcement.

Delegates to a conference of the Fourth Illinois district of the American Legion, meeting at 26th street and Crawford avenue last night, voted approval of the stand against prohibition taken recently by Maj. Gen. Clarence R. Edwards before a house committee at Washington. Thirty posts, with a total membership of 3,000, were represented. The resolution upholding Gen. Edwards was introduced by Thomas K. Davey, chaplain of the Englewood post.

GARAGE OWNERS ASK SEIZURE IN NIGHT PARKING

An ordinance empowering the police department to seize automobiles left parked on the streets overnight will be considered by the city council finance committee soon, it was announced yesterday at a conference between the committee and 100 members of the National Garage Owners' association. S. W. Maltz, president of the association, was asked to draft the ordinance and submit it to the committee.

Members of the garage men's association, who for months have complained that the "laxity" of police in permitting auto owners to park their machines overnight in front of their homes, has "ruined the garage business," overflowed the committee rooms.

Mrs. Field Off for Reno; Asks for a Divorce?

New York, April 30.—[Special.]—The Daily News will print tomorrow morning the following copyright story:

"With the assurance of a life income said to be in excess of $1,000,000 a year—one of the largest settlements ever obtained in connection with a divorce suit—Mrs. Evelyn Marshall Field is now on her way to Reno to seek a legal parting from Marshall Field III., 150 million dollar grandson heir of Chicago's late merchant prince.

"Details of the settlement, as well as of the inside story of the break were learned today a few hours after Mrs. Field departed for Nevada on the Twentieth Century Limited.

"In addition to the income settlement, effected in New York by counsel for both sides, Mrs. Field obtains possession of the Field town mansion property at 4 East 70th street, valued at $3,000,000, and custody of the three Field children—Marshall Jr., 14; Barbara, 11, and Bernice, 6.

Retains Country Estate.

"Possession of the Field country estate, located at Lloyd's Neck, near Huntington, L. I., will be retained by Mr. Field, the settlement further provides.

"Virtually the entire settlement was arranged through trust fund assignment from the Field fortune. No especial provision was made for the children, as this was regarded as unnecessary in view of the fact that they are to inherit the bulk of the Field estate on the death of their father, under the terms of their late grandfather's will.

"Joseph R. Truesdale, Mrs. Field's New York attorney, and George B. Thatcher of Thatcher & Woodburn, Reno attorneys, who have prepared the necessary divorce papers for filing a few days after Mrs. Field arrives there and formally takes up her Nevada residence, declined to discuss the situation.

No Announcement to Make.

"'I must insist that I have no announcement whatever to make,' said Mr. Truesdale, in response to questions. 'Anything that is to be said must come from Mrs. Field—and I doubt that she will discuss the matter.'

"A considerable legal research and exhaustive preparation was found necessary before the legal papers of settlement could be finally drafted, so that they could be adjusted to terms of the will of the founder of the Field fortune.

"For instance, the assignment giving Mrs. Field her upward of $1,000,000 annuity is scheduled to run until her husband reaches the age of 50. After he reaches that age, or should his death occur meanwhile, it is provided that a new trust fund for Mrs. Field will then become operative, which will guarantee her at least as much regular income as under the present assignment, and probably even more, because of the expected normal increase in values of the extensive Field properties in Chicago. The Fields were married in 1915."

ASK EPISCOPAL CHURCH CHANGE ON DIVORCES

Charleston, S. C., April 29.—[Special.]—Here in a state that recognizes no law of divorce clergy and laymen of a denomination, the Protestant Episcopal church, that recognizes adultery as the one ground for divorce tonight heard the Episcopal church's position on the question of marriage and remarriage challenged.

The occasion is the annual meeting of the Protestant Episcopal church congress, bringing men of the church from throughout the United States into the unofficial forum to air their views on matters believed to be of vital religious and social importance. The congress is unofficial because it is not administrative nor legislative in its relations to the church; it reaches no conclusions and makes no attempt toward official action for the church.

Speakers were unanimous in holding that the position of the church should be changed relative to marriage and divorce. While the present position was challenged, remedies suggested were few and indefinite.

Dr. John Rathbone Oliver of the faculty of Johns Hopkins university, urged the establishment of ecclesiastical courts to deal with the situation, these courts to have the elastic authority to handle individual cases on their merits.

Blast Causes Refinery Fire; One Is Injured

Two men are believed to have perished, another was severely burned, and three escaped unscathed early this morning when fire, preceded by an explosion, swept through the refinery of the Dabrol Oil Products corporation, 6256 West 66th place, Clearing.

A blast of undetermined origin rent the three story corrugated iron structure housing the refinery at 2 a. m. Within five minutes the building was enveloped in flames and four of the six men on the night force were running for their lives.

Two Believed Trapped.

The two believed to have been trapped are James Fleming of Berwyn and John McGuire, whose address was not learned. Another workman, Jerome K. Sukis, staggered out with his clothing aflame. He was taken to the German Deaconess hospital suffering severe burns to face and body.

The foreman, John McClure, who escaped unhurt with two workmen, Edward Syhora and Frank Jeslis, was certain that Fleming and McGuire had been burned to death. They were working in a part of the plant which, as he fled outside, was already enveloped in fire, McClure said.

Chicago Firemen Called.

Five Chicago fire companies reached the scene at 2:20 a. m. Members of these companies said the only course was to allow the blaze to burn itself out, as the water thrown into the conflagration only spread the burning oil.

Efforts of the firemen were concentrated on preventing a spread of the flames to two huge storage tanks, one fifty feet west of the refinery and another fifty feet east. In these was stored thousands of gallons of highly inflammable crude oil.

Tank cars standing adjacent to the refinery on tracks of the Belt Line railroad were hastily switched to other trackage. There was danger that the flames might be carried to the refining plant of Swan & Fitch, a short distance west.

Fire in Bridewell Shop.

A fire was discovered smoldering early this morning in the carpenter shop at the House of Correction, 26th street and California avenue, where more than 2,000 prisoners are housed. Mont L. Smith, captain of the night guard, upon discovering the slow fire in sawdust on the floor, sounded an alarm which brought several companies.

Three pails of water, thrown on the floor by Smith and one of the guards, quenched the smoldering sawdust before the firemen arrived. Prisoners were unaware of the incident, Supt. Curran of the House of Correction said. The carpenter shop is in a building separate from the cell blocks.

A fire attributed to spontaneous combustion almost demolished the salesroom and garage of the Crandall Motor Car corporation, 535 Madison street, Oak Park, shortly after midnight. Firemen managed to run out seven of the 25 cars in the garage before the roof fell. The president of the concern, Robert B. Crandall, estimated the loss at $100,000.

Canadians Hear Report on 48 Ships Seized by U.S.Drys

OTTAWA, Ont., April 29.—(AP)—A report submitted to the house of commons today said 48 Canadian ships have been seized by United States prohibition officers since Jan. 1, 1922. In four cases protests were made by Canada and in two instances the United States government apologized, the report said. No Canadians were killed or wounded by prohibition officers during the period. One case is still in process of adjudication.

1928 FIGURES GIVEN OUT FOR EACH TOWNSHIP

First Bills to Be in Mail Tomorrow.

The tax rates for 1928 in the city of Chicago were made public yesterday by County Clerk Robert M. Sweitzer. Officials announced that the first tax bills will be in the mail by tomorrow. The bills will be the first that taxpayers have received in more than two years.

The rates are the highest in the history of the city. Each of the local governments was given its maximum rate under the law because their 1928 levies were based on an expected increase in assessed valuation while the assessed valuation dropped approximately $410,000,000 under the reassessment.

Rates of the Townships.

The rates by townships, which will be applied on each $100 of assessed valuation, are compared with those of former years as follows:

Town—	1928.	1927.	1926.	1925.
West	$5.18	$4.86	$4.61	$4.59
South	5.26	4.85	4.64	4.52
North	5.31	4.99	4.83	4.75
Hyde Park	5.26	4.85	4.64	4.52
Lake	5.26	4.85	4.64	4.52
Lake View	5.34	5.00	4.82	4.75
*Jefferson	4.60	4.38	4.23	4.18
*Rogers Park	4.60	4.38	4.23	4.18

*Exclusive of park districts.

"Each taxpayer in Chicago may compute his own bill from this table," Mr. Sweitzer said. "He need only multiply the rate against each $100 of assessed valuation on his property.

"Thus, if the property of a taxpayer is given a full value of $10,000 in the town of Lake View, under the reassessment factor of 37 per cent his assessed valuation is $3,700. He multiplies the rate of 5.34 per cent against $3,700 and finds that his bill is $197.58. If the taxpayer lives in Rogers Park or Jefferson he must add to the rate of the town that of the park district in which he lives."

Rates of Taxing Agencies.

The rates of the principal tax spending bodies for 1928, as compared with those of 1927, are as follows for each $100 of assessed valuation.

	1927.	1928.
State	$ .30	$ .30
County	.45	.46
City	1.63	1.75
Schools	1.52	1.53
Forest preserves	.08	.10
Sanitary district	.40	.46
South park	.47	.66
West park	.48	.58
Lincoln park	.43	.45

The full assessed valuations for the tax spending bodies with the maximums of revenue possible to collect are as follows:

	Valuation.	Tax income.
County	$4,338,889,297	$19,958,870
State	4,338,889,297	13,016,667
City	3,647,757,162	63,835,645
Schools	3,647,757,162	55,810,592
Forest preserves	4,338,889,297	4,338,889
Sanitary district	4,226,710,940	19,442,870
Lincoln park	608,320,658	2,859,107
South park	1,776,024,198	11,831,748

The total for the city includes portions of the townships of Calumet, Maine, Niles, and Norwood Park which lie within the city limits.

Revenues Less Than Budgets.

These totals of the greatest amount of taxes that can be collected for each of the spending bodies are below the estimated incomes in the budgets of each of these agencies for 1928, officials said. Deducting the usual amount for loss and cost of collections, approximately 10 per cent, the 1928 revenue will be approximately 14 per cent less than was anticipated, according to the officials. All the 1928 bills already have been paid in tax anticipation warrants for 1928 and 1929.

The county board passed a 1928 levy of $20,585,378. Deducting 10 per cent from the possible revenue of $19,958,870, taxes will fall short of the budget amount by $2,600,000. This estimate was made by Michael O'Connor, clerk of the county board.

Tells County Situation.

"The county will get $2,690,000 less than it has already spent," President Cermak said. "The same is true of every spending body in the county. Every governing body estimated its expenses on the basis of an increased valuation, which they hoped would be brought about under the reassessment. We in the county anticipated a total valuation of approximately five billion dollars. Instead we actually have less than four and one-half billion.

"I estimate that under the 1928 assessment local governments will lose between $20,000,000 and $25,000,000 in revenue. We were told that the reassessment would increase valuations. It has not done so. I do not blame the reassessment. The fault in my opinion lies in the fact that the assessing bodies do not cooperate with the spenders. If the assessors had taken cognizance of the decrease in valuations and fixed a higher equalization factor than 37 per cent, the situation would not have occurred. I believe that the factor should have been 40 if not 42 per cent of full value."

Others Agree with Cermak.

Mr. Cermak's opinion was concurred in by other officials of tax spending agencies. The local governments have reduced the estimate of the total valuations on which they can levy in the 1929 and 1930 budgets. Officials expressed the belief, however, that even with the reductions the total budget estimates will exceed the final figures of the assessing bodies for those years. This will increase the financial difficulties, it was said.

In opposition to the view held by the tax spenders, Harry S. Cutmore, director of the reassessment, said that the loss and cost of collection in 1928 will not reach 10 per cent. He said that fewer taxpayers will refuse to pay their bills in 1928 because the inequalities of the 1927 quadrennial assessment, which roused taxpayers, have been removed. He added that the 1929 and 1930 assessments will be far greater than that of 1928 because of the building development in those years.

Suburban Rates Out This Week.

County Clerk Sweitzer announced that rates for the county townships outside Chicago will be made public during the week. The aggregate assessed valuation of the territory of each spending body must be determined before the rates can be established, he said. The work of extending taxes, that is, of applying the rate to the assessed valuation for each body, began with the release of the rates for the city.

Mr. Sweitzer said that the rates in the country townships will be far less than those for 1927 because valuations in the country areas have been more than doubled under the reassessment. Because of the increase in valuations the country town taxpayers will pay more in taxes to the county, state, and sanitary district, but approximately the same amount to local governments, he said. In the past the country town areas have escaped a just share of the tax burden by having high local levies and low valuations, according to taxing officials.

Valuations by Townships.

The aggregate valuations by townships for the city are as follows:

West	$740,121,659
Lake View	349,692,506
North	278,628,080
South	946,949,926
Hyde Park	497,171,024
Lake	331,903,248
Rogers Park	93,549,702
Jefferson	328,304,641

In the township of Jefferson taxpayers must add the rate of the park district in which they live to the township rate of $4.60. These park districts, with their rates, are as follows:

Irving Park	$0.34	River Park	$0.34
Old Portage	.54	Jefferson Park	.50
Albany	.39	Sauganash Park	.35
Hollywood Pk.	.19	Ravenswood Manor Gardens	.18
Northwest Park.	.34

In the township of Rogers Park there are two park districts, with the following rates: North Shore, 24c, and Ridge avenue, 17c.

County Treasurer George F. Harding said that the first tax bills may be in the mail this afternoon. Collectors' warrants are to be sent to his office early this morning. If this is done, Mr. Harding said, bills on personal property of banks in south town will be in the mail later in the day, and not later than Wednesday.

BULLETS QUELL PRISON REVOLT; 2 FELONS SHOT

Build a Barbed Wire Corral for Rest.

Columbus, O., April 29.—(AP)—Blood was spilled today in Ohio penitentiary, scene of disorders since Easter Monday night, when a tragic fire took the lives of 320 convicts. Revolting prisoners made a mass attack this morning on the barred doors leading from the White City idle house. Guns in the hands of prison guards sent bullets into the ranks of the mutineers, wounding two convicts, one seriously.

The revolting prisoners quieted immediately, and tonight the situation was in the hands of the Ohio National Guard, the first time in a week that the authorities had all the prisoners under control.

Choose the Wrong Time.

Emboldened by the fact that they had disregarded all prison rules and orders for a week, the "passive resistance convicts" today decided suddenly to mutiny.

Their decision came just as Gov. Myers Y. Cooper had ordered that the revolt be suppressed at once, and prison officials and Ohio National Guardsmen were planning to enter the cell block and force the convicts into submission.

Scores of the revolt leaders, massed on the ground floor range, made a rush for the guardroom door, through which they would have to pass to gain the outside. They threw clubs and other missiles, breaking the guardroom windows. Warned to get back, they refused. Instantly automatic rifles and shotguns sent a rain of bullets down the cell block runway.

The mutineers dropped to the floor until the firing ceased. Then they resumed their assault on the barred door. Again the guns spoke, and the convicts retreated into the refuge of their cells.

End of Outbreak.

As quickly as it started the fight ended. The wounded were rushed to the hospital, one having been shot through the lungs. Two guards who had been held prisoner by the convicts were quickly released.

Col. R. S. Haubrich, Ohio National Guard, took charge shortly after the shooting. He mounted machine guns in the yard and then marched the revolters to the dining halls for their noon meal. They had had no breakfast. When they returned to their cells they were quiet and orderly.

A statement that a prisoner fired the first shot in today's disorder was made tonight by Warden Thomas. The warden quoted one of the guards as saying he saw a convict point a revolver toward the guards and heard the discharge. Thomas said the guard returned the fire.

Within the prison yard guardsmen tonight were erecting a barbed wire stockade with a steel building in the center. Eighteen foot telephone poles were being sunk into the ground Upon these will be strung the barbed wire, and tomorrow morning the revolters are to be placed within this inclosure. Guardsmen with machine guns will patrol the four sides.

The convicts will be kept in the stockade until the idle house cell locks, al- broken by the prisoners, are repaired. Then they will be marched back into the cell block, there to be locked in and disciplined.

Tear Bombs Ready.

No further rioting in the idle house was anticipated, as Columbus city firemen had cut holes in the roof and soldiers were prepared to drop tear gas bombs into the place at the first sign of trouble.

Among those who ran wild in the White City today were seven men condemned to die in the electric chair. All seven were recaptured this afternoon and removed to the city jail for safe keeping.

That George Tonoff, Lucas county, who was shot in the lung, was an innocent victim was the claim of the Rev. Father Albert O'Brien, Catholic chaplain, who administered the last rites of the church to Tonoff. The priest said Tonoff was not taking part in the riot, but was trying to get into his cell when shot. The other convict who was injured was Jewell Joffa, Lucas county. He was shot in the leg.

LEVIATHAN STEERED FOR 25 MINUTES BY SECRETARY ADAMS

New York, April 29.—[Special.]—For perhaps the first time in the history of the United States liner Leviathan, the giant vessel was steered by a ship's voyager, who established that he was in no sense a landlubber by keeping the flagship on her true course for twenty-five minutes. He was Charles Francis Adams, secretary of the navy.

Commodore Harold Cunningham, commander of the Leviathan, was impressed with the knowledge of "theoretical" seamanship displayed by the delegate to the London naval conference, and, recalling that Mr. Adams had been one of those responsible for the defeat of Shamrock IV. by Resolute, he challenged the secretary to take charge of navigating the ship.

Mr. Adams, ordered to steer 268 degrees true, maintained the position of the ship for nearly half an hour, releasing her with the remark, "She's a little lively."

New York, April 29.—[Special.]—Five quiet, demure young women whose outstanding impression of the London naval conference was one of almost unending work, returned on the Leviathan today with the United States delegates. They had no part in the official welcome here, but continued on to Washington on the official train. They were secretaries and stenographers.

"I didn't even get to see the Tower of London," said Miss Hurley S. Fiske, an assistant in the press department. "I did not meet a single Englishman —or any English girls, either. I saw only one play, and all the dancing I did was on the boat going over. Shopping? I didn't buy a thing, but how I wanted to! They have the lovelist clothes."

INSPECTORS FIND COUNTY JAIL IS SAFE FROM FIRE

Infirmary at Oak Forest Wins Praise.

Cook county's new jail and the group of buildings comprising the Oak Forest infirmary were pronounced safe and fireproof yesterday after inspections due to the loss of 320 lives in the Columbus, O., penitentiary fire of a week ago. The Joliet penitentiary was declared to be not so well protected, but Warden H. C. Hill said there was little or no danger there.

Chief Patrick J. Egan of the city fire prevention bureau and P. E. Bertram, deputy state fire marshal, spent the afternoon traveling through seven miles of corridors in the Oak Forest buildings. They declared there were no fire hazards there and they praised Supt. Frank Venecek and the county board for the efficiency of the management and the upkeep of the institution from the viewpoint of fire prevention.

Tells of Boiler Room Fire.

Last fall a fire started in the boiler room, Supt. Venecek informed them, the heat having melted insulation from wires, which then started a blaze. The institution has its own fire department, its own equipment, and its own alarm system, the inspectors were told, all of which proved highly efficient at the time. The men who fought the fire were praised for their loyalty and heroism by Venecek.

While the infirmary part of the institution is overcrowded by 700 inmates, Venecek said, the tuberculosis hospital section has only the allotted number of patients. Instead of putting beds or cots in halls overflow patients in the infirmary are housed in what were formerly sitting rooms, Venecek explained. He said he was taking every precaution and he had recently asked a personal inspection of the institution by James Russell, superintendent of public service, because of requisitions he will make for supplies needed in the interest of greater safety.

Report on Joliet Prison.

The principal faults found at the old prison at Joliet were possibilities of a scarcity of water in the event of a fire, and the fact the fire department of the prison is composed of convicts who would have to be released from cells in the event of a fire. Warden Hill said there would be a few changes made so as to eliminate as many risks as possible.

Ald. Thomas F. Byrne [15th] announced that at the council meeting today he will ask an investigation of conditions at the house of correction which has been called a fire trap.

NEW FEDERAL PRISON WILL BE ERECTED IN VICINITY OF ERIE, PA.

Washington, D. C., April 29.—(AP)—Attorney General Mitchell announced today that the department of justice's prison building program would place the penitentiary for the northeast section of the country in the vicinity of Erie, Pa., either in New York or Pennsylvania.

The attorney general said one of the contemplated federal jails would be at El Paso, Tex., where there are some 400 federal prisoners in county or state institutions.

It was probable that other jails might be placed in Detroit, in Chicago, and other large congested centers, he said.

DR. WALKER SLIGHTLY HURT IN AIR CRASH

Dr. Sydney Walker Jr., a Chicago eye specialist, and Miss Neal Eagleton, also of Chicago, escaped with slight injuries yesterday when the physician's plane failed to clear a fence while taking off from the airport at Morris, Ill., and was wrecked.

Dr. Walker, an amateur pilot since last October, flew to Morris on an industrial accident case. Miss Eagleton had motored to Morris with her brother, Frank Eagleton, an attache of the federal industrial commission, who was interested in the same case.

By chance, the Eagletons met Dr. Walker at the airport, and Miss Eagleton, who had never flown, obtained her brother's permission to take a short flight. Eagleton witnessed the accident. Contrary to early reports that the physician's wife was in the crash, Mrs. Walker was at the Walker home, 6840 Constance avenue, at the time.

MERCHANT DIES IN FALL FROM AN EVANSTON HOTEL

Charles Wesley Allen, 71 years old, a wealthy retired merchant of Shawneetown, Ill., who in recent years has lived at the Georgian hotel, Evanston, was found dead in the rear of the hotel yesterday. He leaped or fell from the fire escape in the rear of his fourth floor apartment, police believe.

"Mr. Allen was subject to dizzy spells," said his son-in-law, G. W. Fargo, 815 Greenleaf street, Glencoe. "The family believe he became dizzy and lost his balance."

Allen's coat was found rolled into a bundle on the fourth floor fire escape while his hat was dangling from a rod on the first floor. The body was discovered by a girl elevator operator who saw it from a window of the hotel.

Mrs. Helen Allen, the widow, was prostrated when she returned from a shopping trip and learned of her husband's death. She said he had had no financial difficulties but that he had been ill for several weeks. A son, Charles Jr., is employed by the brokerage concern of Norris & Kenly, 208 South La Salle street. Another son and a daughter also survive. An inquest will be held at 10 a. m. today at 1022 Davis street, Evanston.

U. S. WILL JOIN CITIES IN WAR ON GANGSTERS

Mitchell Studies Plans to Harass Them.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 29.—[Special.]—A policy of developing closer cooperation between federal and local authorities in warring against the criminal rings infesting the big cities of the country has been adopted by the Hoover administration.

The department of justice has directed United States attorneys to cooperate whenever possible with local authorities in attacking gangsters whose activities make them subject to government prosecution. Under this policy local criminals would be prosecuted not only under prohibition laws but also under the income tax statutes. Methods under which criminals can be harassed by the federal authorities now are being worked out by officials under Attorney General William D. Mitchell.

Deportation Proceedings.

The treasury department is to cooperate in income tax frauds, while the efforts of the department of labor will be enlisted in beginning deportation proceedings against criminal aliens subject to eviction.

According to administration officials, the conviction in Chicago last Friday of Ralph J. Capone, younger brother of the more widely known Al, on charges of attempting to defraud the United States out of income taxes is an example of the type of coöperation local communities can expect.

President Hoover believes that federal coöperation with local officials can be made much more effective by transfer of the prohibition unit to the department of justice. For that reason the President yesterday called upon congress to speed up action on the bill which would centralize both prohibition investigations and prosecutions in the hands of the attorney general's office.

Prisons Are Crowded.

With this bill passed, United States attorneys could coöperate directly with local authorities without having to consider the policy of wishes of a federal prohibition adminstrator responsible to another department, it was pointed out.

The purpose of the government, it was said, is to develop every method possible to assist in launching an attack on the crime organizations.

President Hoover is also anxious for the passage of legislation relieving congestion in the federal courts and providing better living conditions in government prisons. The President considers that conditions in the federal prisons are fairly desperate. He was informed today of the big increase in the number of federal prisons in the last six months. To help in relieving conditions the government took over the disciplinary barracks at Leavenworth, Kas., some months ago. The capacity of this prison is 1,500, and already the government has sent 2,000 men there. Three more army camps have not been taken over.

Pope Gives Raskob Family More Time than Royalty

EIGHTH RAIDER OF CUTTEN HOME GOES TO PRISON

Grain Man Now Hunts Last of Gang.

Captured three weeks ago in Cleveland, O., by agents of Arthur Cutten, prominent grain operator, Charles (Simon) Rosenberg, leader of the nine robbers who looted Mr. Cutten's home in Downers Grove eight years ago, went to Joliet last night to begin serving a sentence of from one year to life.

Mr. Cutten, who vowed eight years ago to spare neither time nor expense to bring to justice the robbers who raided his home and locked him in a vault to suffocate, was in Du Page county Circuit court at Wheaton yesterday when Rosenberg was brought to the bar. There was a short consultation between State's Attorney Chauncey Reed and Rosenberg's attorney, Joseph Roach.

"I plead guilty," the defendant said. The judge immediately pronounced sentence, after which Rosenberg was permitted to bid farewell to his wife and 4 year old daughter before a deputy led him to the car bound for Joliet.

Eight of Gang Captured.

Of the nine masked men who raided the Cutten home on the night of March 27, 1922, eight have been brought to justice. Two of them, Hart O'Malley and Peter Cuda, are now in Joliet, having served half of their eight year sentences. Their appeal for parole was recently opposed successfully by Mr. Cutten.

Of the remaining fugitive, Kasper Rosenberg, brother of the defendant sentenced yesterday, Mr. Cutten said: "I'll spend another eight years if necessary to have him arrested. However, my agents have information which may shortly result in his capture."

Scheme of Former Butler.

The robbery was the scheme of Joseph Vormittag, once employed as a butler in the Cutten home. He enlisted the aid of Paul Graborski and Otto Tempera, Joseph Cornelissen, Gustave Kawell, O'Malley and Cuda.

Only their haste in binding the servants after the robbery saved Mr. Cutten from death, for a houseman wriggled free and unlocked the vault in which his employer had been left to die.

Praises Big Family

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, April 29.—Pope Pius XI. this morning entertained John J. Raskob, chairman of the national committee of the Democratic party. Mr. Raskob and his family were in audience with the pope for 45 minutes, almost double the time the pontiff usually grants members of royal families on formal visits.

The pope had words of praise for Mr. Raskob's family of 12 children.

MOTHER OF TWO KILLED BY GAS.

Mrs. Nancy Cain, 22 years old, mother of two children, was found dead yesterday in the kitchen of her flat at 237 North Laramie avenue. Gas flowed from two burners on the stove. The Irving Park police listed the case as a suicide.

INDICT A BISHOP'S SON; TAKE WOMAN WITH FIREARMS

New York, April 29.—[Special.]—Four hours after James Matthew Maxon Jr., 21 year old son of Bishop James Matthew Maxon of Chattanooga, was held today for the grand jury on a charge of first degree murder, his landlady, Miss Rose Hickey, principal witness against the youth, was arrested on a charge of illegally possessing two guns.

Miss Hickey was arrested in her rooming house in West End avenue as a result of information sent in an anonymous letter to police headquarters. Detectives who made the arrest said Miss Hickey had 100 rounds of ammunition, consisting of cartridges that would fit guns of different calibers.

The police explained that the charge against Miss Hickey is not connected with the case against young Maxon, although they found the two guns in a dresser in the room in which David Paynter met his death at the hands of young Maxon, it is charged.

Miss Helen Kirkland Spencer, 21 year old Vassar student, today refused to comment on reports of an engagement to Maxon.

"I have known Jimmy a number of years," she said, "and would do anything for him now, but what can I do? I don't see where it concerns the public as to whether or not we are engaged."

WAVE OF CRIME IS EBBING, SAYS U. S. ATTORNEY

Johnson Tells Minneapolis About Chicago.

Minneapolis, Minn., April 29.—[Special.]—Great wealth from prohibition and gambling violations was blamed for Chicago gangsters' lawless exploits by United States Attorney George E. Q. Johnson, who addressed the Citizens' alliance here tonight on "Organized Crime and the Remedy."

"From reports that come to me through authentic sources I believe that the tide is turning the other way and that the hoodlum gangs are beginning to break," he said.

The "open town" platform on which, according to Mr. Johnson, Mayor Thompson defeated Mayor Dever, was largely responsible for the era of lawlessness that ensued, he said.

"The hoodlums and criminals from many other cities took this literally, and there was a great influx of violators to Chicago.

Insurance Rates an Index.

"Insurance companies are not sentimental," he continued. "They deal with cold facts as they find them, and in Chicago the premium on robbery and burglary insurance has increased year by year until in eight years it increased from 50 to 100 per cent. Thus, robbery and messenger insurance increased from $10 per $1,000 in eight years to $16.50 per $1,000. And in trade groups such classifications as furs and silks increased from $42 to $100 per $1,000.

"In the same period the murder rate was growing, particularly in the atrocious murders committed by members of various gangs in warring over territory in which they might operate for illicit gains. In a little more than five years the records show more than 200 murders of this type, for which no one was apprehended."

Recalls 1928 Battle.

Mr. Johnson told of the citizens' ticket placed in opposition to the Thompson-Crowe régime in 1928, of the threats his wife received by telephone because Mr. Johnson supported Swanson for state's attorney against Crowe, of the bombing of the homes of Swanson and Senator Deneen, and of the "aroused public sentiment" that defeated "the old machine" by more than a half million votes.

"I am citing these facts to you to bring home the great lesson that the remedy of the evils of city government lies in the hands of the citizens," said the speaker.

The district attorney advocated a rigid enforcement of the prohibition and gambling laws to deprive the gangsters of their resources.

U. S. DICKERS WITH RAILROADS FOR POSTOFFICE SITE

Postal officials are carrying on negotiations with Chicago railroads that may lead to the purchase of air rights for a postoffice directly west of the Van Buren street parcel post station, Postmaster General Walter Brown disclosed yesterday in Washington. A new site for the projected main office has been considered for several weeks.

If this site was agreed upon, Mr. Brown said, the structure would be located on a plot bounded by Van Buren street on the north, Clinton street on the west, and an extension of Congress street on the south.

FORMER PATIENT SUES 2 DOCTORS, SEEKING $50,000

Dr. Max Thorek, head of the American hospital, 850 Irving Park boulevard, was named defendant in the praecipe of a $50,000 suit charging malpractice which was filed yesterday in the Superior court by William Preston Williams, 31 years old, 5900 Ridge avenue, an automobile dealer. Dr. Carl Mahlman, 1011 Winona avenue, is named as a codefendant.

Attorney Charles A. Scott, representing Williams, said that the doctors had operated on Williams for ulcers last May. Later Williams had to go to a clinic at Rochester, Minn., to have a 15 inch incision repaired.

JUROR FAINTS TWICE; MURDER CHARGE REDUCED

Accept Manslaughter Plea to Avoid Delay.

CRIMINAL COURT.

Earl Bell, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary by Judge Harry B. Miller.

James Welton, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in the Pontiac reformatory by Judge Walter P. Steffen.

Henry Knox, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life in the Pontiac reformatory by Judge Philip Finnegan.

Madison Duncan and Peter J. O'Sullivan, embezzlement, sentenced to 1 to 10 years each in the penitentiary by Judge D. J. Normoyle.

Joseph Kadziolka, murder [changed to manslaughter], sentenced to 1 to 14 years in the penitentiary by Judge Daniel P. Trude.

Joseph Kadziolka, 43 years old, 4206 Crystal street, who was charged with stabbing his wife to death with a butcher knife, escaped with a manslaughter sentence of 1 to 14 years in the penitentiary yesterday because Arthur H. Fernwalt, 8119 Harvard avenue, a commercial artist, who was one of the jurors in the case fainted twice during the progress of the trial.

Sooner than to postpone the case indefinitely or to be so frequently interrupted by intermissions made necessary by the illness of the juror when the details of the crime were related or the blood stained garments of the dead woman exhibited the assistant state's attorneys and Judge Daniel P. Trude acceded to the demand of Attorney Thaddeus C. Toudor that the murder charge be waived as a reward for a pela of guilty.

Offer Minimum Penalty.

After the first fainting spell by Juror Fernwalt at the morning session of court while Assistant State's Attorneys Owen West and Harold Keele were introducing in evidence the garments of Mrs. Kadziolka the defendant was offered a sentence of 14 years—the minimum murder penalty—if he would plead guilty.

Attorney Toudor countered with a proposition that the murder charge be waived and a manslaughter charge substituted. His offer was refused.

Faints as Defendant Testifies.

At the afternoon session of court Kadziolka was on the witness stand when Juror Fernwalt had his second fainting spell. The witness was being cross-examined by Prosecutor West about the actual details of the crime. The judge and the prosecutors went into conference and it was then agreed to accept the manslaughter plea. He is eligible for parole after 11 months.

Kadziolka's two sons, Edward, 11 years old, and Matthew, 14 years old, who had given damaging testimony against their father on Monday, were in court when sentence was imposed.

ASKS DIVORCE

Mrs. Alta Warsawsky Shorr, 20 year old heiress, and a former dancer in the Ravinia opera ballet, will appear before Judge Feinberg today to start action in her divorce suit against Maurice Shorr, La Salle street broker. The couple were married in June, 1927, and separated in 1929. Since then Mrs. Shorr has been living with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph D. Warsawsky, at the Belden-Stratford hotel.

FORMER SUITOR SHOOTS WOMAN AND HER SISTER

Taunted by his former sweetheart and her half-sister, Vernon Roberts, 42 years old, a salesman, shot and seriously wounded both women last evening in their room in the Lincoln hotel, 1812 North Clark street. Then he fled to his own apartment, at 731 Briar place, and was reloading his pistol with suicidal intent when arrested, the police said.

The wounded women, Madge Woodhouse, 30 years old, who formerly lived with Roberts, and Martha Nixon, until recently a resident at 1535 East 65th street, were taken to the Augustana hospital. The Woodhouse woman was shot in the abdomen and below the heart, while Miss Nixon was hit in the left arm, left thigh, and in the chest.

All three had been drinking, the police said, and an argument arose when Roberts refused to go out for another bottle, saying he feared he might be arrested for intoxication. The women scoffed, according to the police, Miss Nixon saying: "You always pretend to be hard boiled and carry a gun—why not use it?"

Roberts drew the weapon and fired six shots.

SERUM CANCER REMEDY CALLED DISAPPOINTING

Medical Journal Tells Post-Mortem Results.

The Journal of the American Medical association, in an editorial appearing in the current issue, discusses briefly the results of post mortem examinations made in the cases of thirty cancer patients treated in the Coffey-Humber clinic in San Francisco.

The editorial states that examinations of the cancers in these cases failed to support the hopes that the two physicians, Drs. Walter B. Coffey and John B. Humber, had discovered a cure for the disease.

Their treatment, which has received wide publicity, attracting thousands of cancer sufferers to San Francisco, consists of the injection of a gland extract which is supposed to destroy cancer tissue without harming normal body tissue.

Text of Editorial.

The editorial, written by Dr. Morris Fishbein, editor of the Journal, follows:

"The remarkable publicity accompanying the introduction of the Coffey-Humber method for the treatment of cancer passed briefly into a quiet phase, leaped upward with the eastward jaunt to the congressional hearing, again became quiescent for a few weeks, and burst forth last week in a Sunday supplement feature.

"In the meantime, pathologists and surgeons who have investigated the method express nothing but profound disappointment with both the clinical and the pathologic results. These experts indicate that postmortem examinations, which have been made in at least thirty cases, do not reveal any definite specific destruction of cancer tissue or evidence that the progress of the spread of cancer in the bodies of the afflicted patients has been retarded.

"Several clinicians who have watched the results closely affirm that the patients have been relieved of pain after the first one or two injections, but that it usually requires more opiate thereafter to control the pain.

"These observations are obviously what might be anticipated in any new method of treatment of cancer. Perhaps it may not require the five years emphasized by Geschickter as the limit of time for the determination of the virtue of any new method of treatment of cancer to indicate that this method is not what was earnestly hoped for when it was first presented."

Radio "Goat Gland" Doctor to Answer Quackery Charge

Topeka, Kas., April 29. — (AP) — Charged with fraud, unprofessional conduct, gross immorality and other offenses, Dr. John R. Brinkley, "goat gland" specialist of Milford, Kas., today was cited to show cause why his license to practice medicine and surgery should not be revoked.

The state board of medical examination and registration ordered Dr. Bringley to appear for hearing June 7.

The complaint was prepared by the attorney general's office and signed by Dr. L. F. Barney, former president of the Kansas Medical society.

Dr. Brinkley has operated a hospital at Milford for about eleven years and advertises extensively over a radio station there.

His attorney, Fred S. Jackson, announced tonight that the effort to revoke the doctor's license will be resisted.

The complaint alleges fraud in connection with asserted promises by Dr. Brinkley to elderly patients to rejuvenate them by implanting in their bodies goat glands and human glands.

Other allegations are that Dr. Brinkley obtained his license to practice medicine in Kansas in 1926 through perjury and false representations; that he did not attend the high school that he swore he did; that he is guilty of malpractice, and that he has charged extortionate fees.

The complaint further charges that Dr. Brinkley pleaded guilty in Geary county, Kas., to a liquor violation charge and was sentenced to three months in jail and fined $300, later being paroled; that he recently threatened to shoot a man and was placed under bond; that he has been guilty of gross immoralities, and that he has been drunk and disorderly on different occasions.

CALLS DENEEN, MRS. M'CORMICK TO LIST EXPENSE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 29.—[Special.]—With the two leading Republican senatorial candidates in the recent Illinois primary directed to be present, the new senate campaign expenditures committee will meet on Thursday to decide upon its course of action.

Senator Gerald P. Nye [Rep., N. D.], chairman, announced today that both Senator Charles S. Deneen [Rep., Ill.] and his successful opponent, Representative Ruth Hanna McCormick [Rep., Ill.] have been requested to attend the meeting and submit statements showing who contributed to their campaign funds. Both have expressed their willingness to coöperate with the investigators.

Senator Nye said the committee also had telegraphed J. Hamilton Lewis, Democratic nominee for senator in Illinois, and Newton Jenkins, a third Republican aspirant, to file with the committee statements of their expenditures.

Immediately after the first preliminary meeting of the committee a week ago, Senator Nye made it clear that the committee would not decide to go to Illinois or any other state until after its members had examined the statements submitted by the candidates. It is expected that at the meeting Thursday the committee will consider the advisability of hearings in Chicago.

"Move Over, Mountain — The Middlewest Demands More READING Anthracite"

The demand for Reading Anthracite —that better Pennsylvania hard coal— grows and grows.

To satisfy it, the largest, most efficiently equipped hard coal breaker in the world has just been added to the vast producing equipment of this company.

Near Mt. Carmel, Pennsylvania, Reading engineers found a swampy valley high in the hills but partly filled with a veritable mountain of refuse from old mining operations. So they said, "Move Over, Mountain", and moved it. The valley was filled and levelled. The side of Locust Mountain was stripped bare to expose for miles the Mammoth vein of hard coal to supply part of the coal for the new breaker.

The world's largest hard coal breaker assures a plentiful supply for everyone who wants all the heat his money can possibly buy.

Your coal merchant has Reading hard coal, or can get it. Insist on Reading for your fires.

GANDHI URGES INDIA TO SHED "MARTIAL YOKE"

Flouts Britain with Cry of "Dictator!"

BOMBAY, April 29.—(AP)—With unrest apparently slumbering in India today, no riots or sensational incidents being reported, Mahatma Gandhi took occasion at Bilimoria to denounce "British dictation" in the course of a statement on the revival of the native dress censorship law by the viceroy.

"I hope tame submission to dictation from our British rulers has gone forever," he said. "Whether we realize it or not, we have been living under a veiled form of martial law for some days past."

Mr. Gandhi said new provisions of the revived press censorship act were more severe than the original. He is understood to have told the publishers of his newspaper, Young India, to let the government seize the press rather than deposit the security demanded for permission to continue publication.

Defies Censorship Act.

Addressing a meeting at Machakadi creek, in the Gujerat, he asked his hearers to disregard the provisions of the censorship act.

"I hope the people of India will not be frightened by this ordinance," he said. "If we have decided to hand over our bodies to the authorities, let us also be fully ready to hand over over property to them, but don't let us sell our souls.

"I would therefore urge newspaper men and publishers to refuse to furnish security and, if called upon to do so, either to cease publication or challenge the authorities to confiscate whatever they like. They may confiscate the type and the machinery, but they won't confiscate our pens and still less our speech.

"I recognize, however, that they can confiscate even the last two. But what they never can confiscate, and what, after all, is the thing that matters, is the thought of the nation."

Calcutta Reelects Jailed Mayor.

The strength of the civil disobedience campaign was indicated today in the reelection of J. M. Sengupta as mayor of Calcutta for the fifth time. Sengupta is now serving six months rigorous imprisonment on charges of sedition and conspiracy growing out of the Gandhi campaign.

The mahatma's son, Davi das Gandhi, pleaded guilty to a charge of sedition at Delhi today and will be sentenced tomorrow. In a statement he said that "the moral wrong done my country by Great Britain has no parallel in history and even surpasses the material wrong which requires to be declared from the housetops."

The government's security requirement for papers coming under the censorship is $18,000, and a committee representing the various Indian newspapers in Delhi decided that after tomorrow no papers would be published until further notice.

Bomb Blast Kills One.

[Copyright: 1930: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, April 29.—Khyber pass, a vital gateway to India from the north, has been closed, it is reported here tonight. The famous Jamrud fort, strong British outpost guarding the Indian end of the pass, is only eleven miles from Peshawar, in the disturbed area, where another outrage has been reported.

Cabling from Lahore, the Daily Mail's correspondent says a bomb explosion in Peshawar bazaar killed a Sikh shopkeeper, Sadir Singh. A postmortem examination revealed the bomb was obviously home made, as it contained glass, stones, and needles. The police suspect the Sikh of carrying the bomb which prematurely exploded. This was the first discovery of explosives in Peshawar, and it is suspected other missiles are secreted.

The Indian government's censorship prevented any news of the trouble with its native Garhwal rifles at Peshawar from reaching London tonight.

British Soldier Wounded.

[Copyright: 1930: By the New York Times.]

CALCUTTA, April 29.—Twenty-six arrests were made here today following the wounding yesterday of a British soldier outside the Cossipore arsenal, twenty miles north of here. A closed automobile dashed up to the gates of the arsenal at dawn and the occupants opened fire on three sentries, hitting one in the thigh. The car drove off amid a hail of bullets, but it was not disclosed whether the raiders were hit.

Bishop Abbott Quits Over Failure to Oust Minister

Lexington, Ky., April 29.—(AP)—Because he considered the verdict in the ecclesiastical trial of the Rev. Julius A. Velasco, Dayton, Ky., a reflection upon his integrity as a bishop, the Rt. Rev. H. P. Almon Abbott, bishop of the Episcopal diocese of Lexington, resigned today.

Mr. Velasco was tried last week on charges of violating a preordination agreement with the standing committee that he would not marry a Catholic, conduct unbecoming a clergyman, and using defamatory language to his bishop. The ecclesiastical court, composed of five rectors, acquitted Velasco of the first two charges, but found him guilty of the latter. The sentence imposed was an admonition by the bishop.

Does Not Resign Orders.

It was explained that Bishop Abbott in relinquishing leadership of the diocese does not resign his orders, as retiring bishops are eligible to serve as parish priest.

Velasco, 31 year old rector of St. John's Episcopal church, Dayton, Ky., married Miss Catherine Rogers, Ellicott City, Md., Jan. 24, soon after he was ordained. The ceremony was performed by a Catholic priest.

Bishop Abbott, after asking Velasco to resign and requesting his vestry to oust him, asked the standing committee to bring charges against him, claiming that Velasco had signed an agreement with the standing committee that he would resign his orders if he married a Catholic.

Conducts Own Defense.

Velasco, conducting his own defense, won acquittal on the more serious charges. He claimed the agreement had been revoked before he married Miss Rogers. The court found him guilty of using defamatory language in calling Bishop Abbott "unchristian" because the bishop had requested St. John's vestry to meet without notifying the rector.

Bishop Abbott, in advising the standing committee today that he had sent his resignation to the primate of the church, the Rt. Rev. James De Wolf Perry, bishop of Rhode Island, said he considered the verdict a "reflection upon the integrity of the bishop and every member of the standing committee." He said he could not exercise his Episcopal authority in a diocese "where I would have to recognize a man who has broken his plighted and written pledge as a clergyman in good standing."

Denies Catholicism Is Issue.

The bishop tonight said that "so far as I am concerned the Roman Catholic issue made no difference in the situation. It was merely a question of the honor and integrity of an ordained priest who was undergoing trial. The accused might as well have married a Mohammedan or a Hottentot. Still the primary issue involved would have been the question of the breaking of a solemn pledge to the church powers which allowed the ordination of the priest undergoing trial."

The bishop said that "four-fifths of the diocese is up in arms over the decision of the court."

BISHOP AN EX-CHICAGOAN.

Bishop Abbott was rector of St. Chrysostom's church in Chicago when he was selected to the Lexington diocese. He had succeeded the Rev. Norman Hutton in the Chicago parish only a few months before the house of bishops elected him to the Kentucky episcopacy. Friends of Bishop Abbott in Chicago last night pointed out that he will remain bishop of the Lexington diocese until the house of bishops accepts his resignation at its meeting in 1931, and in the meantime a settlement may be reached which will cause him to withdraw his resignation.

British Police Chiefs Plan Radio Net to Fight Crime

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 29.—A scheme to fight crime with a police radio net around Great Britain is likely to develop as a result of a conference of British police chiefs at Scotland Yard today. There would be three main wireless stations for immediate interchange of information on criminals. This would be relayed to all police substations. The three main stations would be in London, in the Midlands area, probably at Birmingham, and in the northern area, probably at Glasgow or Edinburgh.

ARNOLD TELLS BRITISH VIEW OF REVOLT IN INDIA

Mahatma Gandhi, Nationalist leader of the civil disobedience movement and salt tax revolt in India, does not represent India, in the opinion of Julian Arnold, essayist and lecturer and son of the late Sir Edwin Arnold, author of "The Light of Asia." Mr. Arnold addressed the members of the Chicago Rotary club yesterday at the Hotel Sherman.

"The average American looks upon Gandhi as representing India the same as the viceroy represents Great Britain," he said. "You imagine what Gandhi asks for, India wants. Nothing could be more incorrect and unjust to India.

"The truth is that Gandhi represents only a small group of the Nationalist congress and only 30,000,000 of India's 320,000,000 people. He is a noisy fellow and so you hear the noise."

Mr. Arnold traced the developments in India from the time wealthy merchants first entered the country 300 years ago. He said the inhabitants speak 147 languages and practice 58 religions. He attributed the present uprising, growing since the end of the world war, to the reluctance of the rebel natives to wait for independence.

ADVERTISE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

SCANT RESPONSE AT CAR HEARING FRETS ALDERMEN

Only 11 Appear, Including 3 Not Invited.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

The public hearing yesterday before the local transportation committee of the city council on the proposed transportation ordinance brought forth two advocates of double-decking the loop elevated structure. Another citizen would tear down the loop structure. Another would submit to the voters the indeterminate franchise, together with another ordinance that the voters might take their choice. The last speaker at the hearing pronounced the proposed plan is good, if his constituency gets four promised surface line extensions.

Then the public hearing adjourned until Thursday morning to permit of meetings of the council finance committee and of the council itself.

Only 11 Give Views.

The car franchise ordiance has been in the hands of the council committee for a week. One half day was devoted to reading the ordinance and the other half to aldermanic questions. A day and a half have been devoted to public hearings, with limited discussion of the ordinance proper. It is stated that copies of the ordinance and invitations to appear at the public hearings were sent to 578 civic and business organizations. So far 11 persons have appeared at the hearings, including three to whom invitations were not sent.

Aldermen were wondering yesterday what the explanation is of the scant attendance at the hearings. Ald. Cronson said he thought it indicated that the organizations are not opposed to the proposed franchise. Others believed that the committee had been slow in sending out its invitations, claiming that some of them were not delivered until last Saturday.

Attorney Walter L. Fisher suggested to the committee that they telephone the organizations invited, but this was not done yesterday.

Tomaz Douther of the northwest side chamber of commerce told the committee that 60 per cent of the organizations invited are inactive, less than 5 per cent have offices, and that the aldermen had used an unsatisfactory list in sending out invitations.

Wants Billion Dollar Plan.

George E. Stanford of the People's Utility Plan organization — the first speaker at yesterday's hearing—said he had no comments to make on the details of the ordinance.

"Instead of $200,000,000 in improvements," he said, "we should have a billion dollar transit system. The plan you proposed is pretty good and ought to be adopted, but you will make a mistake in putting only one plan up to the people at a referendum. This indeterminate franchise should be tested out in the courts before it is adopted."

Louis T. Schuberth, a contractor, said that the present elevated loop should be double decked, express trains on the top levels and local trains below.

"If State street wants a subway, let them pay for it," he continued. "Others can't stand the special assessments. Three years ago, I noticed in the paper that Michael Faherty was going to Europe and would come back and dig a subway right away, and I said to myself, what does he know about it?"

L. J. Bates, 5049 Winthrop avenue, said that a subway is unnecessary. "If there is a subway, the city should not build it," he said. "Let the transportation company shoulder that burden. I'll fight against using a single dollar of the $60,000,000 transit fund for subways. Double deck the 'L' structure and you will get much more transportation and at less cost."

Wants Loop Razed

William A. Dudley of the South Central association urged that the loop be torn down and subways substituted.

"The property owners on Wells and Van Buren streets are willing to pay for it," he said, "and I am told that 70 per cent of the Wabash avenue frontage is ready to folow suit. The loop injures property 50 per cent."

F. B. Tauhler of the Crawford Civic association said his organization will favor the ordinance if it gets extensions on Crawford and Cicero avenues, and on Twenty-sixth and Thirty-first streets.

MEDICINE MAKER'S WIFE TESTIFIES AT HER MAID'S TRIAL

New York, April 29.—[Special.]—Mrs. Isaac Emerson, wife of the millionaire Baltimore patent medicine manufacturer, took the witness stand this afternoon in the trial of Mrs. Maria J. Leslie, accused of grand larceny. Mrs. Leslie was formerly Mrs. Emerson's housekeeper and is charged with obtaining nearly half a million dollars worth of jewelry on charge accounts in Mrs. Emerson's name, selling or pawning the goods so obtained and pocketing the money.

Mrs. Emerson testified to the employment of Mrs. Leslie and said she had every confidence in her and gave her authorization to make purchases in her name on charge accounts. But, she added, she did not know anything about Mrs. Leslie's extensive purchases of jewelry until her attention was called to them by various merchants and dealers in gems in Philadelphia and New York.

PRISONER TAKEN IN EXTORTION QUIZ IS FREED

Edwin Bender, 411 South Homan avenue, who was arrested in connection with an extortion plot against Mrs. Lottie Brenner Von Buelow in which the extortionists demanded $5,000, was released when the police learned that he had no connection with the crime. Bender was taken into custody by Lieut. Andrew Barry and his squad when he appeared near the scene where the extortionists demanded that the money be left.

SWANSON OPENS QUIZ ON STORY OF BUILDING BRIBE

Paschen Issues Denial of Civil Suit Charge.

State's Attorney Swanson yesterday ordered an investigation of charges that bribes had been solicited and paid in the office of Building Commissioner Christian P. Paschen.

Assistant State's Attorneys Homer Dodge and Grenville Beardsley were assigned to the inquiry, and immediately issued subpoenas for witnesses named in the charges.

Jules K. Masse, a draftsman whose testimony in a civil suit before Judge Marcus Kavanagh Monday resulted in the investigation, was the first witness sought. William Nichols, described as a salesman for the Wisconsin Lime and Cement company and a friend of Mr. Paschen, who was named by Masse as having demanded at $10,000 bribe to be put into "Mr. Paschen's campaign fund," was also named in a subpoena. Neither witness was found yesterday.

Paschen Issues Denial.

Building Commissioner Paschen issued a statement last night declaring the charges were false and that no irregularities existed in his office.

Masse gave his testimony in a suit he brought against Victor Nelson, a builder, to collect $2,658 on a note given in part payment to the architectural firm which drew plans for Nelson for an apartment building. Masse had worked on the plans and the note was given to him for salary. Nelson's defense was that the plans were faulty, not meeting the requirements of the city building code, and that he had been notified he would have to pay $10,000 before the building department would approve the plans.

Masse then testified that he had gone to Paschen's office with Nichols, that Paschen told him Nichols would get in touch with him, and that the next day Nichols telephoned Masse that the plans would be approved if $10,000 was contributed to Paschen's campaign fund.

Nelson testified that he refused to pay the $10,000 demanded for approval of the plans. Judge Kavanagh, after hearing Masse's testimony, directed the jury to return a verdict acquitting Nelson of the debt.

Attorney William A. Rogan, counsel for Nelson, visited the state's attorney's office yesterday and promised the prosecutors that he would deliver to them today an official transcript of the testimony before Judge Kavanagh. Nelson promised to appear before the grand jury whenever called.

The prosecutors were particularly interested, they said, in Masse's sworn testimony that he had knowledge of the payment of $50,000 to the office of the building commissioner, in 1926 and 1927, made through the architectural firm of Roy F. France & Co., to obtain approval for plans on other buildings.

The prosecutors pointed out that if evidence is presented that bribes were paid subsequent to May 1, 1927, prosecutions may be instigated. The statute of limitations permits criminal action to be taken in felony cases, which includes bribery, within three years after the offense. They declared that prosecution for conspiracy, the customary charge in cases of this type, is out of the question, since the statute of limitations requires conspiracy cases to be instigated within eighteen months of the offense.

Building Official's Statement.

"It appears that the young man [Masse] is suing for his fee as an architect, in payment for plans he prepared in deliberate violation of the building code, the owner refusing to pay him, as no permit for the building could be procured," said Mr. Paschen in his statement.

"The complete answer to this testimony may be found in the fact that the plans for the building mentioned, at 72d street and Coles avenue, were never approved by this department, and that the building is nonexistent, it never having been built, the application for a permit being flatly refused.

"If prospective builders in the city of Chicago are going to listen to salesmen for building material firms who pretend to be able to procure permits in violation of the building ordinances for a consideration, that is their own worry and grief. This office has in its files the plans as approved by this department for the other buildings specified in the statement by Masse, and in every particular they comply with the requirements of the building code.

Calls Statement "Loose."

"I note that Mr. Masse testifies that he 'understands' that $50,000 has been paid to this office and that he does not know by whom or to whom it was paid. This is a very loose statement and is without foundation in fact.

"I am perfectly willing to exhibit the plans of these buildings as submitted by the architect, with his seal and his certificate that they comply with the building ordinance, and suggest also that these buildings themselves be examined.

"The gentleman's entire testimony is a misstatement of facts. He asserts that I was a candidate for office in 1928. That on its face is absurd. I have never been a candidate for office until the spring of this year—1930, when I was elected ward committeeman in the 49th ward."

FORMER GOV. BRYAN OF NEBRASKA WILL TRY FOR RE-ELECTION

Lincoln, Neb., April 29.—(AP)—Former Gov. Charles W. Bryan, running mate of John W. Davis in 1924, and brother of the late William J. Bryan, entered his name on the unofficial political roster today. His announcement of his "present intention" to run for governor in the Democratic primaries Aug. 12 confirmed rumors prevalent for the last four weeks.

Bryan, known as a dry, supported the national ticket in the 1928 elections and sought reelection. He made his campaign chiefly on state issues—taxes and the banking situation. Although he ran ahead of the Democratic state ticket he was defeated by Gov. Arthur J. Weaver, Republican.

NEWTON BAKER HAS BRONCHITIS OF SEVERE FORM

Cleveland, O., April 29.—(AP)—Newton D. Baker, secretary of war in the Wilson administration, is suffering from a severe attack of bronchitis at his home here. His physician said today, however, that his condition is not serious.

The former cabinet member has been ill for a week and yesterday he was considered in a serious condition. His physician said "very much improvement" was noted today, and if it is continued tomorrow "there will remain no cause for worry."

His physician said his ailment had approached the stage of bronchial pneumonia, but it hardly warranted that term.

AIRPLANE ARMY FOR LEAGUE STIRS UP HOT DEBATE

Germany Protests Geneva Plan for Own Fleet.

BY HENRY WALES.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, April 29.—Whether the league of nations should possess a private aviation fleet or hire airplanes from states who are members to insure communications between Geneva and various countries in time of emergency, like a threat of war, was discussed today by the committee of arbitration and security.

The debate ran along two lines, the French still persisting on the original thesis that the league should maintain forceful measures to insure the execution of its dictates and, mindful of the necessity of retaining contact with the Little Ententers on the other side of Germany, demanding that Geneva possess its own aircraft.

The German delegates, on the other hand, insist that the league cannot maintain an aviation corps, but should obtain machines from Switzerland, or an adjacent nation whenever required.

Germany Asks Policing Right.

Dr. Goeppert, chief German delegate, made the reservation that Germany, prohibited from having a military air force by the Versailles treaty, would require a certain number of policing machines to control the league's aircraft flying over its territory.

Lord Cecil, his arm in a sling from neuritis, tried to muffle the discussion over the league ownership of an aviation fleet, remarking:

"It is not proposed that the league shall organize an air force tomorrow. It may be in ten years, and then every one will own an airplane like they do automobiles today."

France Likes Yank's Idea.

The French, supported by Spain and Poland, are seeking to utilize the International League of Aviators, which was organized by Col. Clifford Harmon, the Pittsburgh millionaire and New York realtor, who interested the French foreign minister, Aristide Briand, and the late dictator of Spain, Primo de Rivera, in a scheme to place his organization at the disposition of the league. Col. Harmon believed adoption of the scheme would be merely the forerunner of the creation of an international air force, with the various countries contributing their quotas of planes and pilots for coercive measures and sanctions against an aggressor state.

Col. Harmon's scheme embodies bombing bridges, strategic railway centers, mobilization points, and any concentration of military activities by a trouble making power refusing to arbitrate its differences in accordance with league dictates.

The league committee's proposal provides for striping the fuselage of Geneva planes black as a distinguishing mark, so members will not shoot them down. The committee postponed discussion of the model treaty to strengthen the means to prevent war until Lord Cecil receives complete instructions from his government in London.

Postpone Loan Discussion.

The diplomats have prepared half a dozen plans to insert teeth in the Kellogg anti-war treaty and urge measures to enforce the abandonment of war by waging war against any one attempting hostilities. Examination of the proposed plan for financial assistance to any state which is the victim of aggression or fearful of being attacked was postponed until Monday owing to the absence of Dr. Edouard Benes, Czecho-Slovakian foreign minister.

The league figures the new international bank at Basle an ideal organization to deal out the money to enable an apprehensive state to buy munitions when trouble is brewing.

Encouraging Reports Cheer Convention of Commerce Men

BY ARTHUR CRAWFORD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 29.—Encouraging factors in the business situation brought comfort today to several thousand delegates in attendance on the eighteenth annual convention of the chamber of commerce of the United States.

Speeches in general sessions this morning and tonight and at group meetings in the afternoon centered around the general theme of "What's Ahead in Business." The speakers, including prominent men from a variety of fields, assigned many reasons for their optimistic outlook.

Lamont's Report Cheers.

Progress in business activities stimulated by the White House conference called by President Hoover were reported at a general session tonight by Secretary of Commerce Robert P. Lamont, Julius H. Barnes, chairman of the board of the chamber of commerce, and chairman of the national business survey conference, and Fenton B. Turck Jr., chairman of the national building survey conference.

"Out of reports received from 24 governors, 18 show that a considerably greater value of highway contracts was added during the first quarter of this year than during the first quarter of 1929," said Secretary Lamont. "The actual totals for the 24 states as a group were $84,000,000 this year, as compared with $32,500,000 a year ago.

"A tabulation of construction contracts shows 334 million dollars for public projects in the first three months of 1930, compared with 248 million dollars for the first three months of last year, or an increase of 35 per cent. In the same period municipal bond issues increased by about 8 per cent."

A New Business Philosophy.

Mr. Barnes told the convention that American business "is weathering a storm of peculiar origin and unusual stress."

"Business leadership is attempting the restoration of stability by a new philosophy, probably possible in no other country or in any other era," said Mr. Barnes. "The underlying philosophy is that America has reached such a stage in its development that recovery of stabilization could be attained by individual action guided by mutual counsel. In such an effort there must be the most intelligent and sympathetic coöperation between government and industry."

Mr. Barnes, referring to the stock market crash, pointed out that the average price of industrial stocks on the New York stock exchange had fallen in exactly two months, from Sept. 3 to Nov. 3, 1929, from 381 to 199, but that in five months this average has advanced to 293, and is now higher than the average a year ago.

William Butterworth of Moline, Ill., president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, in his annual address this morning said that "business of late has been face to face with realities which could not be brushed aside with a gesture, and it is still confronted with conditions which challenge its intelligent leadership."

"Worst Is Over."

W. L. Cooper, director of the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce, said:

"There is evidence that business is slowly emerging from a recession which has been world wide. Many of our foreign customers have had their purchasing power reduced. However, their standards of living have not been generally lowered; their industrial equipment is intact; efforts are being made to control production within reasonable limits; prices are becoming stabilized, and money is easier. There is reason to believe that the worst is over."

Gov. Roy A. Young of the federal reserve board and Controller of the Currency John W. Pole emphasized advantages toward business stabilization in the trend toward group and branch banking. Mr. Pole said that "there is no lack of strength, soundness, and stability in the commercial banks in our large centers," and that these institutions "possess a vitality and a progressiveness in point of view which we have not heretofore witnessed."

Illinois delegates and members of the Illinois congressional delegation in congress were guests this morning at a breakfast given by the Illinois Chamber of Commerce. Both Senator Deneen and Representative Ruth Hanna McCormick were present.

HOTELS SPURN DRY'S PLEA TO SNOOP FOR RUM

But They Tell Sufferings Under Prohibition.

When it was suggested that they become telephone snoopers in an effort to trap bootleggers, a dozen representatives of north side hotels rose in revolt last night and condemned such a practice as beneath their dignity. At the same time they complained bitterly of the damage done their furnishings since the coming of Volsteadism.

The Near North Side Hotels association met at Ireland's restaurant, 632 North Clark street. Deputy Prohibition Administrator C. Edson Smith had been invited to explain how they might help the dry agents.

The Telephone Suggestion.

"Since you say that you are troubled with bootleggers coming into your hotels," Mr. Smith told the hotel men, "you might put a confidential person on the switchboard to reveal their identities. Of course I know the operators are not supposed to listen in, and that is a problem you will have to work out among yourselves. I don't know of a single instance, however, of a hotel being closed for liquor violations when the violations were reported by the hotel itself. We want your help."

Elbert H. Lloyd, one of Administrator Yellowley's legal battery, followed Smith with an explanation of "observation evidence," used to close night clubs which allow their patrons to drink openly. He also told of the "unfavorable sentiment" created against prohibition by Chicago newspapers.

Assistant State's Attorney George Lavin, another invited guest, took exception to Lloyd's latter statement. "The newspapers have the full right to advocate the abolishment of this contemptible law," he asserted. "And, furthermore, I detest snoopers. You hotel men should keep hoodlums out of your places, and if you can't do it yourselves—let me know."

Hotel Men Tell Woes.

Waiting until the drys had left Benjamin Cohen of the McCormick hotel told of hotel woes from prohibition.

"Smith would have us turn stool pigeons," he said. "In some places they stand that kind of people against a tree and shoot them. We won't be snoopers."

Another member spoke his thoughts: "If you oust the liquor violators from your hotels you're bound to lose some of your best guests."

"I know," Cohen broke in. "They go to bed drunk and set fire to the furniture, or they turn the fire hose down the corridors for a little fun, or get so stiff they try to jump out the windows. We can't listen in on their private conversations—they'd move out if we did."

E. J. Neelbush of the Cass hotel, president of the association, and others voiced sentiments similar to those expressed by Cohen and the members agreed to vote on a resolution favoring the repeal of prohibition at their next meeting.

ROBINSON ONLY SENATOR ON HAND FOR LOBBY QUIZ

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 29.—[Special.]—Speculation as to indefinite postponement of the appearance of Bishop James Cannon Jr. of the Methodist church, south, before the senate lobby investigation committee was augmented by the lack of a quorum today at the committee's first weekly session.

Only Senator Arthur R. Robinson [Rep., Ind.] was at the meeting.

Bishop Cannon may escape questioning altogether or at least until such time that it will save him from some embarrassment. Senator Blaine is anxious to examine him, but his friends say Cannon will ask for postponement until a later date so he may attend "a church meeting."

The general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, meets in Dallas in May. Bishop Cannon and three other bishops are expected to face charges of dragging the church into politics in the last presidential campaign when they assailed Methodists who supported Gov. Smith.

U. S. CHURCHMEN QUESTION VALUE OF WORK IN CHINA

Plan Probe to Find Why Mission Work Fails.

BY JOHN POWELL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, April 29.—The heads of various American missionary organizations stationed at Shanghai, who for many years have expended $1,000,000 a month contributed by the American people for missionary work in China, are beginning to question whether the American people have received value received for their money.

The Chinese Recorder, recognized organ of the foreign mission boards in Shanghai, in its April issue recommended the immediate appointment of a committee on Christian research for the purpose of finding out what is the matter with China and Christianity. Some of the questions which the editor of the Recorder, Dr. Frank Rawlinson, a prominent member of the American board of commissioners for foreign missions, asks are:

"Is there any truth in the assertion that our efforts of the last century and a quarter have failed of what was anticipated?

"Does Christian unity halt in China because of something in the imported organizational life of Christianity?

"Why has the Chinese Christian church not as yet produced any outstanding evangelist?

"Would the Chinese Christians, if left free, choose an Episcopal, a Presbyterian, or Congregational policy?"

Wants to Get Facts.

Then, after explaining that "western Christians have spent millions in helping to set up Christianity in China," the editor suggests that, in view of the present discouraging prospects, "a few thousands of the millions now being invested in China be set aside for the creation of a 'commission of inquiry' for the purpose of getting at the facts."

Recently there have been certain incidents which undoubtedly have had an effect in precipitating this new attitude on the part of the heads of the big mission boards which handle the expenditure of the large sums contributed by the American people for the "Christianization" of China's 400,000,000 people.

In Nanking, the capital of the Chinese Nationalist republic, the municipal authorities suppressed and confiscated a religious film, "Ten Commandments," on the grounds that it was "imperialistic" Christian propaganda. In Canton the officials confiscated the film "Ben Hur" for similar reasons.

Compulsory Teachings Barred.

Of more far reaching effect have been the enforcement of the national government's regulations for the operation of colleges and universities regulations require all missionary schools to register with the governmental ministry of education, but in order to register the directors of the schools must agree not to make religious instruction "compulsory."

Heretofore these schools, while providing a general education for hundreds and thousands of Chinese girls and boys, at moderate cost or entirely free, have always required the students to take courses in Christian religion. These compulsory courses in religion must now be placed on the "voluntary" list.

Another phase of the governmental regulations which have greatly disturbed the missionaries is that the regulations have the practical effect of abolishing all schools which have been established for the purpose of training Chinese preachers. Obviously, a strictly theological school must have compulsory courses in religion, otherwise the school would not fulfill its purpose.

Lose Respect for Missionaries.

A further problem which the Christian missionaries have had to face has been that of the kidnaping established in China by missionaries, chiefly American and British. These and murder of missionaries stationed at interior places in the country. Largely due to the "anti-Christian" propaganda which has been spread throughout the country, the rank and file of the Chinese people have largely lost respect for the foreign missionary. Bandits have learned that the friends of kidnaped missionaries often will put up considerable sums to secure their release. In many cases where the ransom has not been forthcoming, the missionary has been murdered. A leader of one of the American Catholic orders said recently that more than twenty of their priests and nuns had been murdered in the last three years. The number of Protestants who have been kidnaped or murdered probably exceeds the Catholic missionary figures.

Persons familiar with conditions in China generally attribute this situation to the teachings of the soviet Russians, who have propagated their "anti-Christian" doctrines in China for several years. They point out that there was little interference with Christian missionary work prior to the Russo-Chinese alliance of 1926, which brought many soviet advisers into China who immediately began telling the Chinese, particularly the student classes, that the Christian missionaries were "running dogs" of the so-called "imperialists" and that this was the direct cause of all of China's political and economic ills.

Thousands of Chinese who had been converted to Christianity have been the subject of severe persecution.

LINDBERGH'S SPEED DESTROYS BAROGRAPH AND OFFICIAL RECORD

Washington, D. C., April 29.—(AP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh went so fast in establishing a new transcontinental speed mark Easter day that he destroyed his official record.

A barograph installed in the plane and turned over to the bureau of standards by the National Aeronautic association for certification was found today to have been broken by excessive vibration.

Long before the flying colonel and his wife made their stop in Wichita, the instrument revealed, the bolts holding the drum on which is traced the time and altitude record of the flight became loosened.

SLAYERS' SANITY TRIALS A FARCE, PROSECUTOR SAYS

Asks Change in Law on Eve of Vogel Hearing.

A movement is to be started for a change by the legislature in the law which allows a condemned murderer such as August Vogel, so-called "whim" slayer, to claim insanity on the eve of the time set for his execution, Assistant State's Attorney Charles J. Mueller announced yesterday.

In view of the Supreme court decisions, the situation that confronts the prosecution every time such an insanity petition is filed can be remedied only by the legislature, Mr. Mueller believes. He advocates repeal of the present statute and the enactment of another which would give the prosecution the right to examine a defendant for his sanity.

The Vogel insanity trial will start today before Judge Walter P. Steffen in the Criminal court. Vogel was convicted of slaying Lyle Perrenoud after their automobiles brushed fenders and was sentenced to die in the electric chair. On the eve of his execution the defense contended that he had become insane and the insanity hearing was ordered.

Sees State at Disadvantage.

The case shows the prosecution's disadvantage under the rules announced by the Supreme court in the similar cases involving Gene Geary and Russell Scott, Mr. Mueller said. Since the filing of Vogel's insanity petition the defendant has refused to permit state alienists to examine him, and Judge Steffen has ruled that under the law he is powerless to compel such an examination.

The state's attorney's office will have to depend on such testimony as can be obtained from jail guards to combat the expected expert testimony from the defense, according to Mr. Mueller.

"The only thing to do is to change the law," the prosecutor said. "When a man has pleaded guilty or been found guilty of murder he has forfeited his rights, in my opinion.

Objects to "Farcical Trials."

"We should not be forced to go through a farcical trial as we do under present conditions. A defense alienist can delete parts of his testimony derogatory to the defense, leaving nothing on which the state alienists may base an opinion."

Under the present law it has been said that the state can neither have alienists examine the doomed man nor have them present when the defense examination is made. This would be a violation of the defendants's constitutional rights, it is pointed out. The state can only have alienists in court to observe the defendant as he sits in his chair.

When the state alienists take the stand they cannot be asked about the defendant, but only about a hypothetical person corresponding to the defendant.

The state alienist can have placed before him only such facts in a hypothetical question as are produced at the trial. Most of the facts set forth in such questions are testified to by defense witnesses, Mr. Mueller said.

Four condemned killers have escaped the death penalty by insanity pleas. Gene Geary was the first, then Russell Scott. David Shanks, who killed Miss Jenny Meta Constance in Evanston, and Henry Hauke were the others sent to the asylum instead of the gallows.

GRUNDY STANDS UNALTERABLY IN FAVOR OF DRY LAW

Candidate Comes Out for Enforcement.

Philadelphia, Pa., April 29.—(AP)—Senator Joseph R. Grundy, breaking his silence on the prohibition issue, announced in the course of a campaign speech here this afternoon that he stood "unalterably" for the eighteenth amendment and all enforce ment legislation in connection with it.

Senator Grundy, one of the four candidates for the Republican nomination for senator in the May primary, took up in detail two questions put to him. One dealt with his stand on prohibition and the other with his attitude toward world war veterans.

"I have been asked concerning my stand on prohibition," the senator said. "I was delegated to the Kansas City convention. I participated in the convention which decided on the prohibition plank in the platform on which President Hoover was nominated.

"Of course, having been a part of that convention, I feel that the prohibition plank in that platform is a binding one on me. If the present committee now investigating this matter gives a report in harmony with the Republican party platform I will stand by the report.

"I now stand unalterably by the constitution and its amendments—and this holds for the eighteenth—and for all enforcement legislation enacted as the result of the eighteenth amendment."

MOTHER WINS HER CHILD, CLAIMED BY ANOTHER WOMAN

Superior Judge Caylor yesterday granted the petition of Mrs. Catherine Grecco, 25 years old, 1034 South Racine avenue, for the custody of her daughter, Shirley Dolores Cunningham, 5 years old.

Shirley was taken from Mrs. Hattie Tobin, 4817 Dakin street, with whom she had spent all but the first six months of her life. Mrs. Grecco, who has married since her child was born, was supported in her plea by her husband. She offered evidence that she is a fit custodian for her child.

Mrs. Tobin declared that she should have the child because that mother has failed to pay an $800 board bill. The judge held that the board bill could not prevent a reunion of the mother and daughter.

MANDEL'S 75th YEAR

MOVE TO DEPOSE HUSTON UNLESS HE WILL RESIGN

Threat by Chairman Is Denied by Him.

Washington, D. C., April 29.—[Special.]—A movement to oust Claudius Huston as chairman of the Republican national committee if he refuses to resign is gaining headway. It is proposed to circulate a petition among members of the committee to request Mr. Huston to call an early meeting of the full committee. Those sponsoring the movement believe that a majority of the committee will sign the petition and that Mr. Huston will be compelled to call a meeting.

If Mr. Huston continues to show a reluctance to resign the proposal is that the committee shall elect a successor.

Won't Quit Under Fire.

Disclosures before the senate lobby committee regarding Mr. Huston's activities in connection with Muscle Shoals have impaired his usefulness as chairman of the national committee, his opponents think. Mr. Huston has contended that to resign under fire would seem an admission of improper motives.

One of the factors in the demand for Mr. Huston's retirement is said to be a difficulty in raising campaign funds while he holds the chairmanship. Joseph R. Nutt of Cleveland, treasurer of the national committee, is said to have reported that some of the large contributors are demanding the resignation of Huston.

Huston Denies Any Threat.

Mr. Huston today issued a statement taking notice of reports that he might see fit to make disclosures relative to other Republican leaders.

"Recent publication," he said, "that I am aware of and have threatened to expose conduct on the part of the Republican party leaders or organizations leading either to the nomination or election of President Hoover which were in the slightest degree reprehensible or violative of any law are wholly without foundation.

"The implied knowledge or approval of any such acts is a gross injustice to the President, to the Republican party, and to me, and it is only because of the far reaching importance of such insinuations that I feel called upon to repudiate them."

KILLS HIMSELF BESIDE CEMETERY.

Seating himself under an elm tree at Dakin street and Natchez avenue on the border of Mount Olive cemetery yesterday, Michael Fleming, 79 years old, 5555 Wilson avenue, committed suicide by slashing his throat. Relatives said he had been morose over his feebleness.

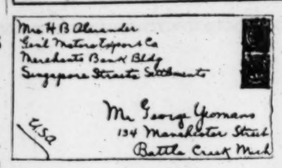
FROM SINGAPORE



Letter received by George Yeomans, 134 Manchester street, Battle Creek, Mich.

This letter was written by Mrs. H. B. Alexander, wife of an American business man who is stationed at the Singapore office of his company. Mrs. Alexander tells her friends in Battle Creek that conditions in this far away land are not quite to her liking after having spent the greater part of her life in Michigan.

"A tennis court adjoins our house," she writes, "but we can use it only about an hour a day. For from dawn until about an hour before sunset the heat is too intense for any activity, and as soon as the sun gets below the horizon darkness falls. There is no twilight in the tropics.

"We have more servants than we know what to do with, but we can easily afford it, as their wages amount to only about 15 cents a day each.

"The English community in which we live is quite pleasant, but one must belong to innumerable organizations, such as golf, swimming, dancing, card, and cricket clubs."

The city of Singapore is built upon an island of the same name, located a little less than a mile off the southern tip of the Malay peninsula. Its position, directly in the paths of commerce, makes it one of the most important business centers of Asia and its splendid harbor is filled with ships from all parts of the world.

The first English settlement was established here in 1819 and the government bought the island from the sultan of Johore five years later.

PURPLE MARTINS A BIT LATE, BUT THEY'RE HERE

The purple martins have arrived with their promise that spring is really here. Two of them appeared to claim their summer quarters in Washington park last Monday, and yesterday a dozen were seen by park officials. The martins are arriving unusually late, according to records of recent years. Last year the first were observed in the western suburbs about April 1, as was true in 1928. In 1927, the martins were seen as early as April 11, but in 1926, they waited until April 23.

E. E. ARMSTRONG FOUND DEAD IN AUTO IN GARAGE

The body of Edward E. Armstrong, 47 years old, vice president of the Thomas Charles company, manufacturers of school supplies, was found under unusual circumstances yesterday at the wheel of his car in a garage at his summer home near Kenosha, Wis. He had apparently been asphyxiated by fumes from the motor, which was still running.

The caretaker, L. M. Hughes, who found the body, told Coroner A. B. Schmitz that the driveway doors of the garage were closed but not locked, while the service door was locked with a padlock he had never seen.

ACTION STARTED TO CUT $4,000,000 FROM DRUG BILLS

A campaign to cut $4,000,000 from Chicago's annual bill for medical prescriptions was launched last night when committees representing the Chicago Medical society and the Chicago Retail Druggists' association met at the Bismarck hotel.

The plan is to effect wider use of drugs of standard therapeutic value in preference to medicines patented for commercial purposes.

SHINING OR SAVING WHICH DO YOU DO?

Are you shining your teeth or saving them? Many tooth pastes help clean and whiten. But PEBECO goes further—definitely helping Nature retard decay by stimulating the flow of saliva which counteracts the mouth acids. Pebeco tastes different because it performs that extra function. Try Pebeco one week—then ask yourself if your teeth don't look better and your mouth feel more comfortable, more refreshed, than ever before.—Advt.

His lighter did a surprising thing

"Every time that bridge club meets, my dinner is late," complained Mr. Grumpley. "And now, when I ask for a match you hand me this worthless lighter."

"Have you tried it?" asked Mrs. Grumpley.

Mr. Grumpley looked puzzled. "No, I . . . . Why, yes, dear," he said, meekly. "It does work, doesn't it?"

Mrs. Grumpley was a poor bridge player. But for once she had been lucky. The consolation prize that afternoon was a can of Shell Lighter Fluid.

Shell Lighter Fluid is entirely free from the oily, greasy elements which in ordinary fluids cause charred wicks and clogging deposits. Carefully refined to insure a light at the first spark and to burn with a strong, clean flame.

TRUCK CARRYING CHILDREN HIT; 1 KILLED, 7 HURT

Driver of Sedan Is Held After Crash.

A 9 year old girl was killed, another child critically injured, and six other persons were hurt last night when a small truck was struck and partially demolished by a sedan on Lawrence avenue near Phillips road. This death raised the Cook county motor toll for 1930 to 291.

KATHERINE FLORIAN.

Katherine Florian, 4336 North Campbell avenue, is the dead victim. The injured are:

Irene Giel, 6 years old, Wilson and Harlem avenues, Norwood Park. Near death from skull fracture.

Rose Giel, 12 years old, sister of Irene.

John Giel Jr., 8 years old, brother of the girls.

John Giel Sr., 35 years old, father of the children.

Gerhardt Block, 8 years old, Norwood Park.

Edward Sienkiewicz, 21 years old, 6040 Higgins road.

George Florian, 8 years old, cousin to Katherine.

The father, driver of the truck, told Sergt. Walter Pizygodda of the Morton Grove county police that his truck was struck by the sedan, driven by Frank J. Gaida, 21 years old, 5017 North Mead avenue, a signal tender for the North Western railroad, as he (Giel) made a left turn from Lawrence avenue into a driveway at the home of Sig Nielsen.

Gaida, who was taken into custody pending an inquest today, was driving at a rapid rate, witnesses told police. Sienkiewicz was riding with Gaida. All the others were riding on the truck. Katherine Florian was killed instantly.

Col. Weeks Injured.

Lieut. Col. W. C. Weeks, chief engineer for the government in the Chicago district, was injured severely when a large sedan in which he was riding at Ottawa, Ill., collided with a taxicab and was overturned. Col. Weeks was rushed in a semi-conscious condition in an ambulance to the Ryburn-King hospital, at Ottawa.

In the sedan with Col. Weeks were W. F. Mulvihill, chief of the Illinois State Waterway department; L. D. Cornish, chief state waterway engineer; C. R. Andrew, an aide of Col. Weeks, and Mr. Mulvihill's son, Stewart Mulvihill, who was driving. All the occupants of the car, except Col. Weeks, escaped with minor bruises.

Col. Weeks received a severe cut upon the back of his head, a badly wrench back, and severe bruises. The engineers were on their way to Starved Rock, near Ottawa, to make an informal inspection of the dam there across the Illinois river.

Driver Is Freed.

Clarence Jones, 20, 4733 Lowell avenue, driver of an automobile which a month ago struck and injured Harold Mitchell, 9, 3733 Sunnyside avenue, was freed of a charge of reckless driving when arraigned before Municipal Judge Freeman L. Fairbank.

Miss Irene Roesch, 26 years old, a secretary residing at 2322 Lincoln Park West, was injured when the auto in which she was riding collided with a street car at Adams street and Wabash avenue.

ASSAIL SCHOOL BOARD FOR DELAY ON AIRPORT LEASE

Civic Groups Urge Action to Carry Out Project.

BY ROBERT WOOD.

Two organizations engaged in promoting public projects criticized the board of education yesterday for its delay in acting on the proposed long term lease of school lands to the city to make possible the expansion of the Municipal airport. The criticism followed the meeting of the school trustees on Monday, at which the airport matter was sent back to the buildings and grounds committee, where it originated.

Officials of both organizations pointed out that their support of the $450,000 bond issue for improvements to the city field, passed at the April 8 election, was given because of assurances from President Caldwell and other members of the board that the trustees would act promptly on the projected lease of 600 acres to the airport.

Landis Criticizes Trustees.

"It is outrageous that a small group of the trustees and the agents of a few selfish interests are able to override the wishes of the people," declared Maj. Reed Landis, secretary of the Chicago Aero commission and chairman of the aviation advisory committee of the county board. "The attitude of the public was clearly indicated by the vote on the airport bond issue. The objections of the Aero commission to the bond issue were withdrawn because of assurance that the airport tangle would be straightened out promptly so that the necessary expansion could be accomplished."

Commends Lease Plan.

Eugene S. Taylor, manager of the Chicago plan commission, which has supported the plan for the long term lease since it was first suggested, emphasized the soundness of the terms offered to the school board by the city. "It is unfortunate that the matter should be delayed so long," Mr. Taylor said. "The proposed lease is a good business proposition. The Clearing property is not a gold mine as some would have us believe. Its possibilities of increasing in value are limited. Certainly the property will gain its highest value if it is used as the site of an airport."

A PROSECUTOR GETS DOWN TO BRASS TACKS

Mrs. Brown Tells Him What's What.

Assistant United States Attorney Alfred Wallington Bosworth yesterday learned a French word from a woman whom he was attempting to prosecute on a charge of evading a census enumerator, a woman who professed to be the descendant of a line of daughters of the American revolution.

Mrs. G. B. Brown, 28 years old, 1100 North La Salle street, who was clad in a smart broadcloth spring coat, and a close fitting black hat and who wore pince nez, was before United States Commissioner Walker on complaint of Miss Estelle Geyer, the enumerator.

Mrs. Brown Explains.

Mrs. Brown leaned over the bench, and in a scarcely audible voice informed the commissioner why she had not responded to Miss Geyer's knock at the door. "I was en deshabille," she said.

Mr. Bosworth moved up. "I didn't get that," he said. Mrs. Brown repeated that she had been "en deshabille."

"What did you say?" said Mr. Bosworth.

Mrs. Brown turned and gazed at her questioner. Mr. Bosworth was well aware, he said later, that his education was being questioned.

"Well, if you insist upon the vulgar expression," said Mrs. Brown, "I was virtually undressed."

She Denies the Charges.

She declared she was at home only once if Miss Geyer, as was alleged, called daily for almost two weeks, and that in addition to being "en deshabille" she was giving an electrical treatment to a woman friend. She denied having hung up the receiver on the speaking tube when a policeman sought to assist Miss Geyer.

Mrs. Brown was released on condition that she give Miss Geyer the desired information for the census, which she did, after remarking on "the humiliation of being arrested on such a charge, the daughter of four generations of the Daughters of the American Revolution."

THE HOOVER JAILS.

President Hoover has called the attention of congress to its delay in giving the administration the statutes required for law enforcement. By law enforcement the operation of the Volstead act is understood. Other laws present no well defined emergency. The President in his special message again recommended the concentration of prohibition administration in the department of justice and noted the congestion in the federal courts and the stockyards conditions in the prisons.

"There must be extension of federal prisons," he said, "with more adequate parole system and other modern treatment of prisoners. We have already 11,985 prisoners in federal establishments built for 6,946. The number of federal prisoners in federal and state institutions increased 6,277 in the nine months from June 30, 1929, to April 1, 1930."

The federal courts cannot find time to try the cases. The federal prisons cannot find room to confine the convicts. State prisons and many county jails are in the same condition. The Ohio state penitentiary where over 300 men lost their lives in a fire had a roll call of over 4,000 in a prison built for 1,500. The federal government farms many of its convicts out to state and county prisons and jails. Overcrowding in federal penal buildings is not the whole story of federal law enforcement. Leavenworth's normal capacity is 1,640. It has over 5,000. The spillover is sent wherever there are bars and locks.

These are the conditions, and nevertheless the prohibitionists say the Volstead act has not been given a fair trial, that it has not been enforced and that violators are not punished. President Hoover asks for speedier justice and more prisons.

An administration marked by such phenomena cannot escape the peculiar distinction which they will confer. The scene is extraordinary. The United States never before in any of its uncertain or critical moments presented such a picture or such a problem. It never found its courts helpless before the herds of the accused or its prison walls insufficient for the droves emerging from these congested courts convicted of felonies.

The character of the American people has not changed violently in the short period of these strange occurrences. Their normal habits are about what they were before the chief concern of their government was to build enough penitentiaries to hold them. No other President has had to impress congress with the necessity of providing enough cells to domicile the increasing number of citizens who are sentenced to imprisonment.

Mr. Hoover's term of office will be distinguished as the one of this jail era. It is a record too astonishing to be forgotten. It will be stranger as it goes into the distance of history. Then its outlines will be clearer. The period will have its peculiar value in the study of democracy and the lesson will be admonitory. Mr. Hoover indorses the cause of this felonizing of the American people. Neither he nor the law enforcement commission which he appointed has given evidence that the cause is being studied to discover whether the jail policy is a proper method of government. It has been accepted as unerring wisdom and, that being the case, the multiplication of jails and prisons, with the speeding up of the convicting processes, follows inevitably.

Mr. Hoover may be remembered in later years as the President who built the jails, in years when, with greater sanity prevailing in the United States, the structures put up to contain the violators of Volstead are empty shells, monuments of the great American folly.

Other rulers have been remembered for their devotion to duty as they saw it. Torquemada had a conscience in the matter which gives his administration of the inquisition a record of 100,000 wrecked families. Philip II. served the code of law he knew in making a charnel house of the Netherlands. No one would question the sincerity of Innocent III. in his policies. The extirpation of nonconformists, whether they wore the garb of Jesuit or the frock of a Covenanter, has been a work of righteousness to the person possessed of authority and inspired by zeal.

George III. was a virtuous and amiable man with the law on his side, and the slave owner who crossed the Ohio looking for an escaped black had back of him the constitution of the United States, the decisions of the Supreme court and the legal power of the country to be upheld by its uttermost force.

As history looks at these episodes they lack the sanction which must abide in statutes passed by men and enforced against fellows.

WAY FOR THE STEPLADDER.

Among the more prominent craft plying the Chicago river is the stepladder. Its length is twenty feet, more or less, and its beam is the same. Vertically it is also twenty feet or so, enough to make the bridges rise as it moves up and down the stream. Though it should classify as an ancient derrick on a raft, it is ship enough to hold up the land traffic and block with successive bridge openings thousands of busy men. Whistling for way, a tug towed it down the stream yesterday morning lashed to the side, and motor cars at rush hour stood blocked back to Grand avenue. Five thousand private cars and buses at various bridges were blocked by the old stepladder, or by the daily sandsucker, or the ancient tug.

So long as the contractors or a few shippers are closer than the public to the engineers in bridge control, this public nuisance will continue.

WHERE STREET ACCIDENTS OCCUR.

Automobile deaths are again increasing in Chicago. Last year there was a marked decline in the motor death rate, but the gain was only temporary. In the first three months of this year 189 persons were listed as killed by automobiles. Last year the corresponding number was 131. The increase is more than 44 per cent.

The figures must make particularly unpleasant reading for the police and the coroner, who have taken much credit to themselves for the favorable showing of last year. So far as we know, the police have not relaxed any of the measures which they undertook to lessen the number of accidents. If the increase has not raised suspicions in the official mind of the insufficiency of those measures the official mind is not very bright.

The police have concentrated attention upon the enforcement of the motor code, giving equal attention to all its provisions. The code was written for the most part a good many years ago. Some provisions are intended to prevent traffic congestion and others to prevent accident. Of the accident preventives some probably are useful and others considerably less so. No one knows which are the more useful provisions, and hence the ones to be more strenuously enforced, because no one has troubled to determine what are the principal causes of accidents. Until action is based upon an investigation of causes nothing by way of permanent reduction of the motor toll is to be expected.

This much is known: Of the 189 fatal accidents in the first three months this year, 132 occurred at street intersections, and of these 30 occurred at intersections guarded by traffic lights. Common sense suggests that the attention of those who are trying to prevent accidents should be concentrated, temporarily at least, upon the intersections where more than two-thirds of the accidents occur. Why do motorists, even at crossings guarded by traffic signals, fail to see pedestrians and other automobiles in their path? What do pedestrians do or fail to do which is most likely to result in their injury? These facts should be determined by a careful study of accident data, but meanwhile a good deal might be accomplished by forbidding parking within fifty or a hundred feet of an intersection. The parked cars at the crossings make it difficult for the motorist to see the pedestrian and pedestrian to see the approaching automobile. With better visibility some accidents might be avoided.

PAY THE SOUTHERN BONDS.

Though the legal obligations of the United States do not include payment of the defaulted southern bonds, there are other reasons no less urgent for America's assumption of this indebtedness. The bonds here referred to were valid debts before the civil war began and, though the buyers, many of them from humble homes in England, had a just grievance, several of the southern states protected their default by legal measures of repudiation. The eight defaulting states, Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, and South Carolina, have defaulted debts of some $400,000,000, and of these bonds a good part are held in England. So far as the flotation or the default of southern bonds is not involved in the rebellion, aided by Great Britain, from 1861 to 1865, the United States should take measures for their payment. A deduction from the British war debt to America, so Great Britain in turn can pay the bondholders, would be the obvious procedure.

Though the United States cannot legally be held for debts which she had no part in making, she protects the debtors, on the other hand, by the eleventh amendment to the constitution from even an application to the Supreme court of the United States for redress by an enforceable judgment. By a kind of internal Monroe Doctrine the United States tells lenders to the states that they must take their own risks. But the fact remains that in the name of good feeling, if not in law, this country should give help.

In Mississippi, for example, bonds were floated largely in England, according to Lord Redesdale in the British house of lords, amounting to $7,000,000 between the years of 1831 and 1838, for banks, docks, railways, and canals. In 1841 Mississippi defaulted on both loans. Before 1853 the state repudiated both loans on the ground that the investments had proved unremunerative. Clearly the civil war had nothing to do with these loans and their repudiations. Clearly the matter is, as Theodore Roosevelt said, a "shameful and painful record."

The southern bonds should be studied by congress with a view toward early and fair repayment.

The Other Side

BILLBOARDS.

[Akron, O., Beacon-Journal.]

For several years organizations in Akron interested in protecting the beauty of local streets have been protesting against the billboard which is obtruded into the foreground at the north approach to North Hill viaduct. For all the fact that civic interest was on their side they made no headway with their effort. The billboard remains as a squalid object lesson in how to mar the scenic resources of a city.

What Akron pride and ingenuity failed to do in behalf of Akron's esthetic interest THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE is striving to do for the whole country. It would rid every country highway of uncouth and obstructive billboards.

"Why the billion dollar road systems of America should be a nesting place for signs and billboards that settle down in flocks like buzzards along the right of way can be laid only to the citizen's good nature and his willingness to stand punishment," it says. "Americans probably would protest at billboards on the congressional library. Chicagoans probably would object to signs on the Field museum. In the Yellowstone advertising is prohibited. But great public roads built at least in great part to give motorists a chance to come in contact with our lovely countryside are burdened with signs from one end to the other. The hillside and the turn are plastered with them. The crabapple that blossoms in the spring is hidden by them. The serene stream reflects posters, bills, signs in illiterate confusions."

Here is a reform that will hardly prevail. If a city as progressive as Akron cannot get rid of a billboard at the very approach of its main street, our Chicago neighbor will rail in vain against the same manner of offending upon a national scale.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

THEY'VE GOT TO LOOK LIKE BIG BUTTER 'N' EGG MEN.

They were wondering on board the good ship Leviathan why Ambassador Morrow didn't come to his meals or walk the deck with his colleagues of the American delegation to the late lamented naval parley in London. The reporters hoped against hope that Mr. Morrow was peeved about something and would blow up before the ship got to land. But now it's been discovered that Mr. Morrow refused to shave all the way over and insisted on wearing decrepit shoes and baggy old trousers. So he took his meals in his stateroom and if anybody knocked on the door and said to come up and see the whale or the dolphins or be a fourth hand at bridge, Mr. Morrow told him to go chase himself.

Some of the eastern papers think Mr. Morrow is trying to get in right with the proletariat of New Jersey whose senator he wishes to be after next fall's election. Well, if that's it Mr. Morrow is all wet. We used to love our statesmen when they wore old clothes and tore off their coats when they spoke on the hustings. And when they ripped off their neckties and collars the common pee-pul went mad with joy

But that doesn't go any more. If a statesman was born in a log cabin and stayed under the barn when visitors came to the house because he didn't have anything on but a hickory shirt and his pa's old overalls he doesn't brag about it any more. He just tries to live it down. The Big Butter 'n' Egg men have spoiled us. We like our statesmen now to look pretty stylish and wear fur overcoats and to have it whispered around that they own a silk hat and a car with a chauffeur who wears a blue uniform with some braid on it.

Going unshaved four days and wearing old baggy trousers and busted out shoes won't help you a bit with the voters nowadays, Mr. Morrow. That sort of thing went great in Abe Lincoln's day, but not any more. Gosh, how times change!

SONNET 37.

Catlike, he glides across the deep blue floor with egg-shaped body and an oval mind.
Pompous man, he never looks behind but pivots silently, till as before a graven image who will shortly roar one stands in awe of elegance defined.
Perhaps his dreams are even all refined, and surely his soul unblemished to the core.

Now here, now there, now in the other room like a genii growing from the air he stands before me, with his silver hair and steely eyes upon me in the gloom.

(Be still, my heart. What is your courage for?
We're out of his domain beyond that door!)

JEANNE DELAMARTER.

THE SLUMP IN STOCKS Monday was probably due to the eclipse of the sun. The bulls had their smoked glasses on (bulls love to look at things through smoked glasses) and those smart bears went after the stocks with their hammers and the bulls couldn't see what they were doing.

Y'SEE, BOB, THINGS ARE DIFFERENT THIS YEAR.

Old Bob Becker says in our sprightly contemporary, the w. k. Trib., that it's time to build pretty little homes for the wrens to build their cunning little nests in. Robert tells all about constructing bungalows, but he leaves out some very important things. If you had taken note on our April weather, Robert, you would have discovered that this month is not what it used to be. Yet April is the time when the dear little wrens move into the bird house and commence light housekeeping without a cunning little furnace in the basement or a steam heating plant. When you build your wren boxes again do not forget to put in some warm, red woolen unawares, cunning little goloshes, and also some fur overcoats. The little beds for the wrens should have plenty of blankets, and also there must be hot water bottles ready so the little visitors will not suffer from cold feet. Nothing makes a wren so sore as to sleep with cold feet, and if you haven't looked out for his comfort while he is living in the home you have provided for him he is quite likely to go back down south and knock you and your wren house all over the place. It seems warm and spring-like right now, but it may snow tomorrow.

MRS. McCORMICK and Senator Deneen are both preparing their statements of expense accounts, and Col. Lewis, whose expenses were confined to having his whiskers curled every day he made a speech, is now figuring out just how much the campaign set him back.

DELUSION.

Hey, you cunnin' little feller,
What makes your dimpled chin so yeller?
You been a-kissin' daffydils
Out on the April-scented hills
An' got some powder on your nose
Right where them two big freckles grows!
You'd best be careful, sonny-lad,
This flirtin' business 's kinda bad;
These modern Janes ain't to be trusted,
They'll steal your heart an' leave it busted.
Come now, an' let your daddy see
Jest what them yeller stains might be.
Why, that ain't daffydill, you sinner,
It's jest the egg you had fer dinner!

LAGNIAPPE.

THE NEW gas mask that the army has invented for horses is partly to save the horses during battle, but it is also to prevent their giving the horse laugh to those trustin' souls who insist there will be no more wars.

ANOTHER RIOT and more tragedy at the Ohio State prison yesterday. If they have three more the idea is going to gain ground in Ohio that there's something wrong in that place.

THE STOCK MARKET, and especially the didos it cut yesterday and the day before, fascinates us. And it always fascinates us most about the time we ought to be writing the last line. We've decided that we cannot write a last line on account of "fundamental conditions." Neither do we, but it's something that certainly knocks 'em out of the stock market.

DIET AND THE TEETH.

THE discovery that the gums can be kept in good condition and the teeth can be prevented from decaying by eating an antiscorbutic diet each and every day has renewed interest in vitamin C. The latest and best book on the subject is that by Hess, but this work is more than ten years old. It needs to be revised because, meanwhile, new facts about the harm done by vitamin C deficiency have been discovered; new methods of proving the existence of mild scurvy have been worked out; and new procedures for measuring the vitamin C content of foods are being used.

The scientists now say that if the daily diet contains one pint of orange juice or its eqivalent in vitamin C the teeth and gums will be kept in good condition. This fact as a basis is liable to be accepted. A long time ago the British naval authorities taught the world the advantage of requiring a basic anti-scorbutic diet, and we are trained to follow directions on that point.

The new discoveries prove that the old requirement was too low, only about one-half what it should have been. At the present stage the teaching throws too much of a burden on orange juice. Vitamin C is widespread. Fresh fruits and vegetables, in fact, most fresh foods, contain it. It should be an easy matter to work out diets containing the vitamin C equivalent of one pint of orange juice and avoid the expense and monotony of the orange juice requirement. For that, experimentation is urgently needed. We know the quantity of vitamin C in only a few foods and this new rule is based on quantity as well as quality.

Dr. Hanke says tomato juice is equal in value to orange juice, but children will not drink a pint a day of it. A good plan is to use as much tomato juice as they will take, and make up the difference with something else.

Dr. Eddy's experiments indicate that bananas are valuable sources of vitamin C. One hundred and fifty grams of banana a day will protect the teeth of a 10 ounce guinea pig. A man weighing 150 pounds should require about 240 times as much banana as a 10 ounce guinea pig. In sufficient quantity, banana is as good as orange juice. If a person will not eat the required amount he should have a mixed diet, bringing up the quantity of vitamin C to the required level. Lettuce is rich in vitamin C, but how much is needed has not been worked out. We need to know the quantities supplied by lettuce, cabbage, sauerkraut, apples, cider, grapefruit, and many other appealing foods. Especially do we need this information as spring vegetables and fruits come into market. We should also know the requirements per pound of weight of children compared with that of adults.

CARE OF DIABETES.

M. E. K. writes:

1. What causes diabetes?
2. In diabetic patients do we look for a high or low blood pressure?
3. May there be an excess of sugar in the blood with no sugar in the urine?
4. Is a blood pressure of 212 caused by sugar, or is it from some other cause, and what?
5. Is it dangerous to be doing light work with a persistent blood pressure of 175?
6. How is sugar in the blood eliminated when the kidneys failed to filter it? I am 50 years old.

REPLY.

1. Among the causes are: Heredity, excessive use of sugars and starches, obesity, and shock.
2. High blood pressure is quite likely to develop during the progress of diabetes.
3. Yes.
4. It is due to the secondary changes in the blood pressure walls. This is also the basic cause of gangrene.
5. Other things equal, it is not.
6. A person with diabetes should join a diabetic class, be seen by a physican periodically, should have a diet made out for him, and then should follow directions meticulously.

GRAPEFRUIT AND ORANGES.

A reader writes:

1. Are grapefruit as rich in vitamins as oranges? I have not been able to obtain good oranges lately and wondered if grapefruit would serve the same purpose.
2. Is it harmful to use sugar on grapefruit?
3. Is lettuce harmful in any way if served twice a day?

REPLY.

1. I think so, but I have not found proof.
2. Some think so. I do not, assuming it is used within limits.
3. No.

2. That was a contributing cause.
3. I don't think so. Proper exercise may help a little.

RUSHING THE TENNIS SEASON.

DUTY ON BRITISH BOOKS.

Chicago, April 26. — [Friend of the People.]—I am thinking of purchasing in England a copy of the war history of the British regiment with which I served. This is being sold to ex-members of the corps at the courtesy price of 42s [$10.20].

Would there be any rebate on the duty [a kind of compliment paid to an allied veteran] or should I have to pay the usual charges?

In any case will you kindly, if possible, let me know the amount of duty I might expect to pay?

H. S.

Under the present tariff law books in the English language, if entirely of foreign authorship, and not bound wholly or in part in leather are dutiable at 15 per cent ad valorem; if bound wholly or in part in leather, or if not entirely of foreign authorship, the rate of duty is 25 per cent ad valorem.

It may be that the above rates will be changed in the revision of the tariff law now under consideration by congress.

On imported books, duty is assessed on their foreign wholesale value, or export value, whichever is the higher.

In the assessment of duty the law does not permit any deviation from the above "value" on account of the status of the importer, or for any other reason.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

65 YEARS AGO TODAY

APRIL 30, 1865.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Generals Grant, Sherman, and Meigs arrived here from North Carolina. Further details of the surrender of Gen. Johnston's rebel army are learned. As soon as Gen. Grant reached the front he caused a dispatch to be sent to Gen. Johnston informing him that the armistice entered into between him and Gen. Sherman would be terminated in 48 hours from the time when the notification passed the pickets. Gen. Sherman then sent a telegram to Gen. Johnston that he could surrender on the same terms that were granted Lee at Appomattox. After some further interchange of messages the surrender was effected. The forces surrendered number 25,000 or 30,000.

NEW YORK.—The Commercial's Washington special says: "The surrender of Gen. Johnston to Gen. Sherman is regarded as marking the termination of the war. It is not apprehended that any great difficulty will be encountered in disarming the rest of the insurgents."

MEMPHIS, Tenn. — Gen. Washburn's order declaring that after April 25 the confederate soldiers taken within his district would be regarded as felons and not as prisoners of war is having a salutary effect. Great numbers have surrendered.

NEW YORK.—The Post argues editorially that the plot for the murder of Lincoln, Seward, Johnson, Stanton, and Grant was known and approved by Jeff Davis and other rebel leaders. It says that at the very time when the assassins in Washington were preparing to do their work Davis opened negotiations with Sherman, in which he dealt with that general as if Sherman were in fact chief officer of the United States government, the others being supposed to have been killed.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

APRIL 30, 1900.

CHICAGO.—Desk Sergeant Timothy O'Connell of the Woodlawn police station was found shot to death on the 18th street viaduct. He had drawn his revolver but had not fired a shot. In his hand was clutched an old hat, evidently belonging to his assailant. O'Connell was widely known in police circles.

WASHINGTON. — Admiral Dewey and his party left for Chicago at noon to participate in the second anniversary celebration of the victory of Manila bay over the Spaniards. The train is scheduled to reach Chicago at 11 o'clock tomorrow forenoon. Mrs. Dewey is in the party.

CHICAGO.—THE TRIBUNE prints on its first page a photographic reproduction of its exclusive story by E. W. Harden of May 7, 1898, giving details of the battle of Manila.

CHICAGO.—Admiral Dewey will become Chicago's guest today for a three days' celebration. Mayor Harrison, George Goodwin Dewey and the members of the general executive committee will meet Admiral Dewey's train south of South Chicago and accompany the Dewey party to the city. On arrival here Mrs. Dewey, accompanied by Mrs. Bryan Lathrop, Mrs. Carter H. Harrison, and Mrs. Charles A. Plamondon, will go direct to the Auditorium Annex. Large crowds arrived throughout yesterday for the three day celebration.

CHICAGO.—Fire destroyed the Atlas Brewing company's plant, 680 to 706 Blue Island avenue. The loss was estimated at $125,000.

LONDON.—The Times says under a Mafeking date of April 28: "The Boers celebrated the inception of the investment of Mafeking six months ago today by a heavy shellfire. The Mafeking garrison celebrated the day by inspecting horses selected for human consumption."

10 YEARS AGO TODAY

APRIL 30, 1920.

WASHINGTON.—Plots against the lives of more than twenty federal and state officials have been discovered by the department of justice as part of radical May day demonstrations, Attorney General A. Mitchell Palmer announced. Planned assassinations, attacks and strikes, Mr. Palmer said, make up the May day program of the communist labor party and other radical elements. It is said the disturbances are intended by the radicals as an effort in behalf of peace with soviet Russia.

NEW YORK.—A brilliant assembly attended the wedding of Miss Rachel Littleton and Cornelius Vanderbilt Jr. at St. Thomas church. In point of attendance it broke all records, the guests numbering over 3,000. At the reception at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Martin W. Littleton following the church ceremony there were about 700 guests. The value of the wedding gifts is estimated at $1,000,000.

RESPECTING THE LAW.

Chicago, April 25.—I am a dry if our "noble experiment" could be enforced, but after eleven years of experimenting conditions are unendurable, hypocritical and do not lead to real temperance. There is no use in exhorting people to respect the law merely because it is the law. The duty of the people to respect the law is no greater than the duty of their representatives to make the law respectable. A very extensive demand for liquor undeniably exists which cannot be abolished by statute. To ask whether this demand shall or shall not be supplied is idiotic. In the very nature of things the demand will be supplied somehow.

Why can't we retain some of the benefits of prohibition and eliminate its evils by favoring the manufacture, distribution, and well regulated sale of liquor in original packages by the federal government? The benefits would be improved social and living conditions, abolition of the saloon, and additional revenue to the government. Corruption, the rise of gangs, wholesale assassination of citizens and the consumption of poisonous concoctions would pass out of the picture.

F. O. A. CARLSON.

RAILROAD INITIATIVE.

Chicago, April 21.—I understand that one of the important trunk line railroads out of Chicago has under consideration a plan for the construction of a superhighway for motor traffic over their present right of way. Revenue would be derived from tolls.

Considering the staggering cost of making any sort of cut through the present day closely built city for a new right of way, it would clearly be impossible for the city independently to construct any such straightaway artery to the suburbs that would avoid all cross traffic at intersections.

It seems to me that it is time we were giving a little more credit to the railroads for forward looking management in this day when rail disparagement is the style.

RAILROADER.

FINISHING THE PANAMA CANAL.

Chicago, April 20.—You have today a well written but incomplete editorial, "Finish the Panama Canal." For, as you draw attention to the lack of roads in the Zone, I draw your attention to the lack of a road or bridge across the canal itself.

At the time of the treaty with the newly created republic of Panama we were to construct a roadway across the canal; that is, in the form of a bridge somewhat on the order of the Chicago river bridges here in the city. To this day that promise has never been fulfilled, another reason for the general antipathy of Central and South American countries. One crosses the canal on an ancient ferry, and it's pretty bad at best.

PEGLER.

Chicago, April 19.—No influence that has ever entered newspaper sports writing has been as potent for the good as that of Westbrook Pegler. He is unquestionably the most intelligent and accurate sports writer and commentator of the time. I doubt whether his ability, courage, and vision are equaled by any other writer in any department of news writing.

CHARLES GRANT.

HOSPITALITY INDEED.

Battle Creek, Mich., April 24.—On my way west with an invalid I had to wait several hours in Chicago. I supposed we should have to go to a hotel so that the patient might lie down. But I learned that there was a hospital in the Chicago and North Western station, from which we were departing. Here I found a pleasant rest room and a hospital for men and one for women. There were numerous beds and cots and everything was fresh and spotless. A matron and a nurse gave such care as was needed. There was no charge. So far as I know there is nothing to equal this in any other city in the world. Doubtless many others who have found ease and comfort here in hours of suffering will join in grateful recognition of this fine manifestation of Chicago hospitality.

HENRY M. STEGMAN.

THE FALL OF A CLASSMATE.

Maywood, Ill., April 24.—When a blind man is led by a mangy dog the dog must scratch, even though his master kneel by the dead; and the fact that THE TRIBUNE'S news account on Tuesday of the terrible Ohio prison tragedy was captioned by and made the vehicle for the day's usual ballyhoo for the legalization of intoxicants caused more nausea than surprise.

But that Bob Clancy, class of '97, University of Michigan, and a Michigan congressman, as reported in a Washington dispatch, should likewise attempt to play upon the shocked sensibilities of the nation while its reason was yet numb to further his political ambition to secure legal booze for the thirsty, fills me with shame for my class, my university, and my state.

L. S. HARMER.

THE QUEEN OF SHEBA'S BABY.

Chicago, April 12.—In your issue of April 12 Mr. H. H. Miller of Torreon, Mexico, attempts to cast doubt on the fabled wisdom of Solomon. Perhaps he does not know that a month in Solomon's time consisted of only 28 days, or what is now known as a lunar month, and ten lunar months are approximately equal to nine of our months.

Thus it seems that Solomon knew his business, after all, and he perhaps remembered what had occurred three weeks before the Queen of Sheba left for home.

M. L. O.

SUPERIOR BUSES.

Chicago, April 22.—Your contributor E. Clark, speaks of trackless trolleys operated in Toronto ten years ago. He states that these use a single trolley pole and "the same overhead wire as the street cars." He neglected to mention how this trackless trolley completed the electrical circuit, as without a second trolley wire or rails it would never run—even in Canada! If what he says is true, then they really were "a much better bus than we have here in Chicago today"!

L. B. WELLER.

A PRECEDENT.

Chicago, April 26.—President Hoover made a protest to Russia because of its interference in China. Now a similar protest to England is in order because of her interference in India. India is making the same fight for freedom that our colonists did, but during the next few weeks our press will do some grumsomersaults so as to make India appear as the aggressor.

CAPONE FLIES TO HAVANA AND PLAYS A JEST

Arrival Creates Flurry in Cuban Hotel.

In a mood for play and a change of scenery, Al Capone and a party of six hopped the Florida straits in a chartered plane yesterday, landed in Havana, and, according to dispatches, essayed a prank on the staff of the Sevilla Biltmore hotel and the Cuban police.

The hotel register listed the Capone entourage as follows: Harry Reed, realtor; Albert Prepeano, banker; Nicholas Carew, salesman; R. A. Gordon, retired; A. J. Bertram, physician; Fritz Gordon, attorney, and Alphonse Capona, retired. The hotel groeter's smile changed to a gape as he read the last name.

The Police Are Notified.

When the chuckling visitors were on their way to rooms above, distributing $5 tips to the lackeys, the clerk discreetly signaled a house detective, who perused the register and telephoned Havana police headquarters. A few minutes thereafter the cables hummed between the Cuban capital and Miami.

"Capone, his brothers, Albert and John, his physician and lawyer, and two unidentified body guards left Capone's Palm island place secretly at 4:50 a. m.," was the message from Miami. "City Manager Claude Renshaw of Miami Beach regrets report that Capone party reached Havana safely. Hope was that Capone had departed Miami Beach permanently for Chicago."

Indications last night were that Havana authorities contemplated no action against the gangster. He and his followers passed the day secluded in their third floor suite of the Biltmore, having won the approval of waiters, barbers, and manicurists who served them in their rooms and departed with bank note tips.

Body Guard Has Bad Luck.

Meanwhile, one of Capone's reputed body guards, Michael Spranze, 1240 Taylor street, fared not so well in Chicago. Spranze spent the afternoon in a detective bureau cell, due, it appeared, to the fact that his associates who saw him arrested were ignorant of his real name and named him as "Mike Kelly" in application for a writ of habeas corpus.

Spranze was seized by Detective Sergeants John Howe and John Drury when he halted in obedience to a red traffic light at Wabash avenue and Roosevelt road. The sergeants drew a pistol from beneath a cushion of his automobile.

"A guy obeys a traffic signal and gets pinched. Anyway, it's a borrowed car and the gun isn't mine," Spranze grumbled.

Spranze was booked for carrying concealed weapons and his friends last night were seeking $1,000 for his bond.

Druggan-Lake Trial Postponed.

Other developments of the day, involving characters listed on the "public enemy" roster of the crime commission, were as follows:

The trial of Terry Druggan and Frank Lake for income tax frauds was postponed to June 5 by Federal Judge Wilkerson.

James Belcastro, alleged bomb maker and thrower, was dismissed from a disorderly conduct charge by Judge McCarthy; Mike "de Pike" Heitler, pander and gunman, was dismissed from the same charge by Judge Immenhausen.

Frank McErlane, scheduled to go to trial this morning for disorderly conduct, was reported at the Wisconsin retreat of Joe Saltis.

DOYLE NEW HEAD OF G. O. P. STATE COMMITTEEMEN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., April 29.—[Special.]—C. J. Doyle of Springfield was selected today as chairman of the Republican state central committee. F. J. Stransky of Savanna was named secretary.

Doyle was the unanimous choice for chairman from the beginning, but the Cook county members were divided on the selection of a secretary. Late in the afternoon an agreement was reached.

DEMOCRATS GET TOGETHER.

Differences among Cook county Democrats, which in 1928 prevented the election of Michael L. Igoe to succeed the late George E. Brennan as national committeeman, have been healed to the point where it is predicted Igoe will be elected to that post when the state central committee of the party meets at Springfield next Tuesday.

President— Hoover says "A CITY OF DESTINY"

New Orleans' Skyline just ten years ago.

In enduring stone the city graphs its growth—the skyline today.

New Orleans of 1950 . . . a city that can be visualized only by those who are cognizant of the "dominant industrial and economic influences" at work for the city.

PRESIDENT HOOVER has said: "New Orleans is a city of destiny which will almost certainly double its population in the next quarter-century. Removal of the flood menace, which is now certain, and development of a great system of water-transportation are two powerful factors which will contribute to the rapid growth of your great port.

"Dominant industrial and economic influences which I have seen at work in favor of New Orleans must be taken into account nationally.

"New Orleans is making many improvements through the cooperative spirit fostered by its public agencies. Regardless of what the city does itself, however, the development of waterways transportation on the Mississippi will have a powerful effect, as New Orleans is the one city which will benefit most from improvement of the river."

To learn the definite place here for your industry to grow with New Orleans, send for the interesting and concise "Survey of the New Orleans Industrial Zone."

EGYPT BALKS AT BRITISH PLAN TO IRRIGATE SUDAN

Fears Scheme to Grab Off New Desert Colony.

BY ROBERT SAGE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 29.—The plenary meeting of the Anglo-Egyptian conference, which convened here today to take action on the proposed treaty between the two countries, adjourned until Monday because the courier who was bringing the Cairo parliament's response to Premier Mustapha Nahas Pasha by airplane had not yet arrived. Te is expected to be here when the new plenary meeting opens.

The Egyptian premier intends to present to Foreign Secretary Henderson Egypt's claims not only to have a share in the waters of the White Nile in the Sudan but also to participate in the cultivation of 1,000,000 acres of land in the Sudan, which it is proposed to equip with new irrigation works.

Fear British Colonial Aims.

These claims are not likely to simplify the already difficult Sudan question, since it is aimed to prevent the British from gaining a foothold in the Sudan. The Egyptians fear the Sudanese are unable to undertake such a vast agricultural enterprise and that the British colonists will gain control of the territory, with the result that the Sudan will pass out of Egyptian control and become an English colony.

The Egyptians resent the strictness of the Sudanese immigration authorities, who have made it practically impossible for an Egyptian to get past the boundaries. Even if he succeeds in penetrating the territory, they say, an Egyptian settler is unable to get sufficient water for cultivation purposes. They complain that the Sudan administration has been carried on since 1924 in an anti-Egyptian manner.

Peril to Egypt's Prosperity.

The premier asserts that if well cultivated, the Sudan would be a serious rival to Egypt's agricultural prosperity, as Sudan cotton can successfully compete with Egyptian and be controlled by elements interested in outbidding Egypt. He desires, therefore, to secure a guarantee covering immigration, land, alienation, irrigation and transport facilities.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: Preparation

College Choir Gives Radio Fans a Treat

Verdi Program Is Paised by Critic.

BY ELMER DOUGLASS.

Unquestionably the headliner among last evening's serious programs was the concert by the A Cappella choir of the Southwestern college of Winfield, Kas. Their program was broadcast over WLS from 7:30 to 8 p. m. The choir's selections, the tonal quality of the voices, and the style of singing fits these singers for unusually effective work over the radio.

Incidents in the life and works of Verdi were treated dramatically on the New York program, broadcast through W-G-N from 8 to 8:30 o'clock. One fine episode was that depicting the circumstances which led the composer, on commission of the khedive of Egypt, to compose "Aida." The musical numbers included selections from "Aida," "Il Trovatore," and "Rigoletto."

In the concert by the W-G-N Greater orchestra from 8:30 to 9 o'clock the violin choir played a prominent part. "Auld Lang Syne," "I Love You Truly," "Londonderry Air," and "Always" [Berlin] took on tones such as no other combination of instruments could give them. The orchestra closed the program with a pleasing piece, "Children's Paraphrase," a creation of Alfred Wathall of the station's staff.

Eusebio Conciaidi, baritone, soloist on the W-G-N Symphony orchestra concert from 9:30 to 10 p. m., was perhaps even more pleasing than he was in his concert a week ago. The dramatic "Largo al Factotum" and Marie Dreier's "Alchemy" were repeated by request.

LAKE COUNTY VOTES $1,250,000 FOR HIGHWAYS

Citizens of Lake county by a majority of 474 yesterday voted a $1,250,000 bond issue which will result, highway officials declare, in the construction of thirty-seven miles of additional hard roads in the county during the next four years. A total of 4,541 votes were cast for the bonds and 4,067 against.

County Highway Superintendent R. M. Lobdell said that construction upon the new projects would begin within a month. One of the new stretches will extend three miles between Half Day and Diamond Lake and serve to relieve much of the persent traffic pressure of Milwaukee avenue near Libertyville, it was said. Another two mile stretch extends between Long lake and Fox Lake, and a third will be a new through artery from the Wisconsin state line to connect with Elmhurst road at the Du Page county line.

SAYS MASTODONS ROAMED U. S. FEW CENTURIES AGO

Washington, D. C., April 29.—(AP)—The theory that giant mastodons roamed this country fewer than 1,000 years ago, a clock of practically unerring accuracy, and a novel method to teach music were among the subjects discussed today before the National Academy of Sciences.

Dr. W. B. Scott, professor of geology and paleontology at Princeton university, said recent evidence tended to show that the mastodon, a species of the elephant, did not become extinct as far back as 50,000 years, as many scientists hold. A complete skeleton of a mastodon found near Quito, Ecuador, he said, provided convincing proof to him that the animal had been killed by Indians not earlier than the fourth century.

REPORT CZARISTS TO SUE IN U. S. FOR RUSSIAN OIL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, April 29.—A group of prominent Russian émigrés living in France are reported to be about to sue the Standard Oil company of New York for profits accruing from soviet oil concessions of which they were formerly owners.

It is understood that the émigrés, whose names have been kept secret, have already turned the documents in the case over to a well known New York lawyer, who will file the case in an American court within a few days. The émigrés base their claims on the theory that, since America does not recognize the bolsheviks, the court will decide that the concessions have been illegally confiscated from their rightful owners, and virtually constitute stolen goods.

If the case actually comes to trial, the court's decision will set an extremely important precedent. If it is decided in favor of the émigrés, it will be a severe blow, not only to the Standard Oil company, but to the soviets. It is recalled that American courts previously proclaimed the illegality of soviet confiscations, deciding in favor of Russian depositers in the Moscow branch of the National City bank. The Russians in this case obtained a good settlement from the bank in their suit to recover funds confiscated by the reds. The émigrés are counting heavily on this decision to win the oil case.

ASK RULING ON PLAN FOR ROAD ON OLD CANAL BED

Hayden Bell, attorney for the county board, was requested yesterday by a subcommittee on grade separations to give an opinion on whether the county can legally construct a depressed boulevard on the bed of the old Illinois-Michigan canal from Western avenue to the Palos forest preserves.

The proposal for such a highway with continuous grade separation has been made by President Cermak of the county board. County Highway Superintendent Quinlan estimates that it would cost $1,200,000. The county has this amount due from the 1927 gas tax, and a citizens' advisory committee has recommended that this money be used for grade separations.

A provision of the state constitution, which may interfere with the Cermak plan, reads: "The Illinois-Michigan canal or other canal or waterway owned by the state shall never be sold or leased until the specific proposition for the sale or the lease thereof shall first have been submitted to a vote of the people of the state at a general election and have been approved by a majority of all the votes polled at such election."

WILLIAM J. WOOD, CHICAGO MARINE ARCHITECT, DIES

William James Wood, for nearly 40 years a marine architect in Chicago and an expert witness in the investigation of the Eastland disaster, died last night at his residence, 4733 North Paulina street, after three months' illness. He was 63 years old.

A native of England and a graduate of technical schools at Kensington, England, Mr. Wood came to Chicago before the Columbian exposition and for 13 years was adviser to the Goodrich lines in the remodeling of their vessels.

As adviser to the owners of the Eastland in remodeling of the vessel in 1908, Mr. Wood was regarded as the most important witness in the investigation following the disaster. A. BOSWORTH, ELGIN BANKER, IS DEAD AT 84

Alfred Bosworth, president and chairman of the board of the First National Bank of Elgin, died yesterday at his winter home at Pasadena, Cal. He was 84 years old.

Mr. Bosworth was a son of Increase C. Bosworth, pioneer merchant and banker of Elgin. In 1876 his father's banking firm acquired control of the First National, of which Mr. Bosworth was cashier for 35 years.

In 1895, at insistence of the directors, he became president of the bank, but stipulated that he be paid no salary and be permitted to spend his winters away from Elgin. He is survived by his widow, four daughters, two sons, and a brother.

MOVING DAY RUSH IS OUT OF DATE, COUNCIL REPORTS

Crusade Spreads Movers' Over Whole Year.

The moving season no longer presents the mad scramble of many thousands of families all striving to move during a few days out of the year. This is stated by L. L. Newton, executive secretary of the Chicago home economic council, in a report made yesterday to the Chicago Real Estate board.

Mr. Newton said that due to the campaign waged during the last three years by the Chicago home economic council, aimed at inducing landlords and tenants to have leases expire at other dates than May 1 and Oct. 1, moving has now been spread generally throughout the year.

This year, he declared, the families moving in Chicago on account of May 1 leases will total only 11 per cent of all families moving during the year.

Moving Spread Over Year.

"The other 89 per cent of Chicago families are moving during the other eleven months of the year," Mr. Newton said. "Forty thousand families have moved during April this year which is 9 per cent fewer families than moved during the same month last year. About 33 per cent fewer families are moving in April this year than moved in that month three years ago, when we started our campaign.

"This year moving has been going on since Jan. 1, with 16,116 families changing during the first month of the year, 23,743 in February, and 28,047 in March."

Campaign Brings Results.

Mr. Newton said that last year the first real effects of the campaign were felt, and that only 22 per cent of the moving was done during April and September, the usual rush months, because of May 1 and Oct. 1 leases. He issued the following table on the number of families moving in 1929:

January	17,661	July	31,336
February	18,673	August	36,232
March	27,458	September	37,347
April	44,221	October	37,197
May	42,518	November	24,540
June	31,045	December	17,861

"The old semi-annual moving rush was not only an annoyance to tenants and a handicap to renting agents wishing to clean apartments and give the best possible service," Mr. Newton said. "It was also very costly to almost all lines of business."

HOUSE YIELDS HOOVER HIS WAY ON VET RELIEF

Reverses Stand and Passes Bill Intact.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 29.—[Special.]—President Hoover's plan to bring all the governmental agencies dealing with war veterans under one administrative head won approval in the house today when that body passed the Williamson bill establishing a new administration of veterans' affairs.

Reversing its action of last week, the house restored to the bill a vital section giving the President power to make the consolidation effective by reorganizing the agencies affected. This section had been stricken out by an amendment of Representative A. H. Gasque [Dem., S. C.], which would have permitted a nominal consolidation but tied the President's hands as to reorganization.

If enacted the Williamson bill will transfer to the proposed administration of veterans' affairs all of the functions of the present independent veterans' bureau and the National Home for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers, as well as the pension bureau, which is now a part of the interior department.

It will create as head of the consolidated agency an administrator of veterans' affairs whose salary shall be $12,000 a year. He will be appointed by the President.

Representative F. H. La Guardia [Rep., N. Y.] was responsible for the vote knocking out the Gasque amendment. He demanded a roll call at the last moment, after the bill's sponsors virtually had agreed to accept the Gasque proposal in order to get the bill passed.

Administration supporters have contended that the consolidation will result in an immediate saving of at least $1,500,000 a year, and eventually of $12,000,000 or $13,000,000, through coördination of soldiers' homes with veterans' hospitals and reductions of personnel.

WAVES AT CROWD FOR A TIME, THEN JUMPS TO DEATH

New York, April 29.—[Special.]—For several minutes today a man stood on the sill of a window on the tenth floor of the Wurlitzer building, on 41st street, just off Times square, waved good-by to persons in office buildings across the street, and startled pedestrians. Then he jumped to death, scattering pedestirans who had converged on the sidewalk near the spot.

Half a dozen policemen fought a way through the jam for an ambulance crew, but the man was dead when it arrived. Papers in his pocket identified him as Harry Drapkin of the Bronx.

RAILROAD RATE BILL HEARINGS TO START SOON

Washington, D. C., April 29.—[Special.]—Senator James Couzens [Rep., Mich.], chairman of the senate interstate commerce committee, has referred to a subcommittee headed by Senator Hamilton Kean [Rep., N. J.] a bill introduced a year ago by Senator Key Pittman [Dem., Nev.] forbidding the railroads to make rates in competition with water carriers operating in the intercoastal service through the Panama canal. Senators Kean, Pittman and S. W. Brookhart [Rep., Ia.] make up the subcommittee.

Senator Kean is planning to hold early hearings on the bill, which will revive the fight carried on unsuccessfully by the late Senator F. R. Gooding [Rep., Idaho] to have written into the law a provision taking from the interstate commerce commission the discretion it now has to permit railroads to charge less for a longer than a shorter haul over the same route.

Transcontinental railroads now are not permitted by the interstate commerce commission to meet the competition of the intercoastal lines by charging lower rates on shipments to Pacific coast terminals than to such points as Spokane, Wash., or Salt Lake City, Utah. Supporters of the Pittman bill, however, wish this prohibition by the commission to be made permanent by law.

SENATORS SEEK AGREEMENT ON WATERWAY BILL

Deneen, Vandenberg Talk It Over.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 29.—[Special.]—Negotiations designed to iron out difficulties over the Illinois waterway project were commenced today between Senators Charles S. Deneen [Rep., Ill.] and A. H. Vandenberg [Rep., Mich.]. Senators Deneen and Vandenberg, both of whom are members of the senate commerce committee, held a long conference over proposals to change the language of the proviso with reference to water diversion which is in the rivers and harbors bill as passed last week by the house.

William R. Dawes, president of the Mississippi Valley association, and Robert I. Randolph, president of the Chicago Association of Commerce, also took part in conferences over the situation.

Hearings to Start Friday.

The senate commerce committee has decided to hold hearings on the rivers and harbors bill commencing on Friday. Maj. Gen. Lytle Brown, chief of engineers, and Brig. Gen. Herbert Deakyne, assistant chief of engineers, will be opening witnesses.

The hearings will deal with the provision in the house bill authorizing the federal government to take over the Erie and Oswego canals from New York state. Senator Vandenberg, who is leading the fight on both the Erie canal and the Illinois waterway items, said he will insist upon a full hearing upon the Erie canal proposal.

If it is possible to reach an agreement on a modification of the Illinois water diversion proviso, Senator Vandenberg said he would withdraw his opposition to that feature of the bill.

Senator Vandenberg insists that the proviso shall be amplified to limit the ultimate diversion to 1,500 cubic feet per second as provided in the Supreme court decree. If there is any greater diversion Senator Vandenberg proposes that it shall be by a compact of the lake states.

The Illinois waterway sponsors object to specifying any limit for water diversion in the bill.

THESE "DOCTORS" discover a relief for this serious engine ailment

CARBON is more than merely a nuisance. Actually, carbon is a serious engine ailment and the unseen cause of a lot of grief to your motor and to you.

The most accurate laboratory tests show that New Iso-Vis Motor Oil deposits at least 50% less carbon than the average of various high-grade oils tested. One large company, whose cars run more than 2,000,000 miles a year, has already reported a huge saving on repair bills. They have found that with this new oil, their motors run 5 or 6 times as long before carbon removal becomes necessary.

Made by a new refining process, New Iso-Vis is completely distilled. It gets its heavy body through careful refining and not by the addition of undistilled parts of the crude oil from which excess of carbon is bound to come.

New Iso-Vis not only deposits less carbon, but it is the only motor oil that will not thin out in your crankcase. It is as heavy and oily when you drain it off as the day you put it in. This complete freedom from dilution trouble means added safety to your motor, and less wear on every moving part.

You will find that this prevention of wear and tear results in noticeably better performance from your car, and lower repair costs.

New Iso-Vis is sold at all Standard Oil dealers and service stations. You cannot make a better investment in driving comfort than the regular use of this new type oil.

THESE engineers are shown here with a "listening post device". The proof that they have developed an oil that deposits far less carbon is seen below. Each of these carbon tests was made under the same conditions. The carbon deposited by New Iso-Vis is on the left. Compare it with the carbon deposited by three other premium-priced oils.

THE BALL AND BOTTLE TEST—you can see it at any Standard Oil service station. The speed of each ball as it drops to the bottom of the oil-filled bottle shows the heaviness of the oil. The less the speed, the heavier the oil. Comparing "used" New Iso-Vis and fresh New Iso-Vis proves that this new oil does not thin out.

New ISO-VIS 30¢ a quart

The New Polarine also is produced by our new refining processes—giving it a degree of lubricating efficiency which we believe is exceeded only by the New Iso-Vis. The price is 25c a quart.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Even a six run lead isn't enough to inspire the Cub hurlers to step out and do things in a big way. An advantage of such proportions was given Sheriff Blake yesterday, but he tossed it to the winds in the sixth inning and let the Pirates accumulate a cluster of runs that eventually put the champions out of business by 13 to 9.

Before Blake set forth on his distressing blowup the Cubs had accomplished a few things far more heroic. They had pounded old Ray Kremer for three runs in the first round and had shot four more over the plate in the third when Lester Bell crowded a homer on top of a full house. Thus far the Buccos owned only one run, but they grabbed one more in the fourth, two in the fifth and then seven, with which they clinched the verdict in the sixth. Two tallies they scored after this were excess baggage.

Nelson Has Trouble.

One thing can be said in behalf of Blake. All of the seven runs in the sixth are not charged against his record. He can be blamed for six. The other goes to Lynn Nelson. The rookie, however, had a far more exciting time than the lone tally might indicate. He stepped into the battle after four had scored and two were on base in the unlucky inning. He walked a man to fill the sacks and George Grantham promptly cleaned them up with a double. After this the Cub hurling was handled by Moss and Bush.

The Cub attack after the first three innings wasn't what could be termed ferocious. The seven early runs caused the removal of Kremer in favor of Erickson, and he remained for two sessions without allowing a hit. When he got into difficulties in the sixth Swetonic took charge. He not only mopped up satisfactorily for Erickson, but stayed to the finish without being annoyed except by two runs in the seventh. Only four Cub hits were produced in the last six rounds.

Today Pat Malone will draw the pitching job. Heinie Meinie is in line for the Pirates.

Start with Three Runs.

The Cubs got their start on three runs in the first inning, principally because Grantham insisted on going into territory belonging to Paul Waner. English opened with a pop to short right and it fell behind Grantham, whereas Waner could have snared it easily if let alone. English made two

In the WAKE of the NEWS

FUTURE BOOKS.

THE WAKE always has felt that future or "winter books" stimulated interest in early turf fixtures like the Kentucky Derby and Preakness stakes. Whether or not you take a chance in these "play or pay" speculations, quotations of odds on the horses which you fancy are like reading the market price of some stock which you hold or wish to hold.

While the public at large feels it receives a short price in these books, considering that your horse may not start or may suffer an injury in training, it seems surprising there are not more of them. There are only two of which we have heard this year, Kearney's in St. Louis and Shaw's in New York. Emil Herz and Bob McCluggage, who formerly operated, retired, saying the worry and chance of loss were not commensurate with the profits.

Difficulties of future book operators lie in the fact the public is not a big player, both because it is hard to get quotations and because of lack of confidence. When many books were conducted, as in American Derby time, too many irresponsibles with thin bank rolls "went over the fence" if their book ran into the red.

Without a diversified public play the future books receive principally "wise money." Now wise money not always is as wise as it thinks, but suppose you were a bookie and accepted $10,000 at 10 to 1 on a horse which its owner and trainer figured a sure starter? You have a $100,000 potential payment to think about. Obviously, this horse must lose or you must take in $100,000 against others of the field, or you quit loser.

So it comes that wagering in future books is not as heavy as it was many years ago. The Wake for the first time in years has not such a ticket. This is largely because we have yet no pronounced choice. Our last winning ticket was on Reigh Count in 1928 at 6 to 1, three times as good a price as procurable at post time. Last year it was Blue Larkspur, beaten in the mud by Clyde Van Dusen, but later champion 3 year old of the year.

CHEAP HORSE IS BEST OBJECT OF POOR MAN'S LOVE

Sandy Ford Too Valuable for Sentiment.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 29.—The victory of a common ordinary horse named Sandy Ford in the Dixie handicap at Pimlico has caused a bit of a stir, not that there is any particular interest in the horse, which is just a betting device after all, but because the fellow who owns him had not been doing very well for some years and then, suddenly, and against his expectations, won a stake of $25,000 and about $6,000 in mutuel money.

The fellow's name is Willie Shea and he is a little New Yorker of the familiar cap wearing type with no real call to the horse owning business.

This is a business for very rich people who can profit by their losses. I am not familiar with the evasions which the income tax laws provide for rich people, never having been put to the necessity of looking up the laws on this, but it is the understanding down in the steerage quarters at the horse tracks that a man with a big income can charge off as a business loss the deficit on his horse farm and stable, including his racing operations, excepting bets, and thus make the government pay some of the cost of his sporting distinction and his fun.

The rich ones do not really aim to make any money on their horses and if they, with their advantage, find their racing expenses out-dollaring their earnings, it is manifest that a little fellow whose life is one constant hustle to obtain enough scratch for common living expenses for man and beast, has only a distant gambling chance in the big stakes, such as the Dixie. He can hope to buy only the horses that the rich people don't want and, inasmuch as the rich people employ experts to determine which horses they do want, very few worthwhile horses are available to the little fellows and those only by the accident of some expert's mistake in judgement.

So this Willie Shea, who is strictly a New York pavement boy, with a record of long and loyal devotion to Tammany Hall, really has no call to be entering horses in the big stakes nor to own any horse at all since progress motorized the draying business. He has no farm, save and except every New York citizen's share of one undivided six-millionth of Central park. He had to borrow the thousand dollars which he paid for his horse and go on borrowing to pay the horse's board, haulage, fees and one thing and another. And the odds of 33 to 1 at which Sandy Ford was held in the Pimlico mutuels gave only a conservative notion of the weight of expert opinion against Willie Shea's optimism.

Gets New Start.

Now, with his earnings and winnings and the sale price of his horse, which will be around $40,000, Willie will start all over again. He will buy cheap, inferior horses which the rich people don't want and he will lose the money back because racing is a sucker's game and a sucker is a man with a big income.

Naturally, Willie will sell the horse that did all this for him, because a little fellow cannot afford to own such a good horse. There is no percentage in being sentimental about Sandy Ford, and while it undoubtedly would make a nice piece for the papers if One Horse Shea were to cleave to him, a horse is only a critter, after all, and as comfortable in one barn as he is in another.

I was a bit put out one day last winter in Havana to hear the same idea expressed by a man who used to work in the moving pictures, even before the day of Bill Hart, as the original cowboy of the movies, and in this line of work did much to create the popular illusion of love and

Knack of Pivoting Essential to 2d Baseman, Hornsby Says

BY ROGERS HORNSBY.

Pivoting is one of the things a second sacker must master before he can consider himself successful. It is the knack of pivoting that is called upon when you are suddenly put in the middle of a possible double play on a ground ball. It involves not only a hurried twisting of the body but a throw suited to the conditions prevailing.

When a ball is grounded to the left side of the diamond [third base or shortstop] and there are men on bases to make a double killing possible, the second sacker's first thought is to get to the sack. The shortstop will do the same on a ball grounded to the opposite side of the diamond. The shortstop, however, approaches the bag at an angle that will leave him in position to throw to first base the instant he has put his foot on the middle bag.

When the second baseman hurries to the base with the idea of being the middle man in a double play his stride should be such that he will land squarely on the bag with one foot. The throw, if properly timed by the fielder starting the play, will reach the second baseman just as he steps on the base, or a bit before. The throw should be directed to the base. If the second baseman is alert he will be there when the ball arrives.

The next move is the pivot. Unless the batter going down to first is unusually slow there is no time to make a complete turn and set yourself for an accurate throw. As you take the ball and step on the bag you are facing a point well back of third base. Time is so important that without turning more than your head toward the first base, you will make the throw. The throw is with a side arm motion, which is important.

You probably have noticed that certain big league teams have double play combinations that work better than those of teams far higher in the standing. Usually the answer to this is that they have a middle man who has developed the side arm throw. It helps in two ways. First, you lose valuable time if you turn and draw back the arm for an over hand peg. Second, a side arm throw will be far enough to one side so that the runner coming down from first base can't run into it and thus break up the double play.

Rajah to Reward Pupil Who Shows Best Form at Bat

Boys, here is some good news! Rogers Hornsby who will be in charge of THE TRIBUNE baseball class at Wrigley field Saturday morning, will reward the boy who shows best form in the batter's box.

After he has concluded his demonstration of hitting and fielding the Rajah will call ten boys out of the stands to show him what they know about hitting. Each will be given three swings at balls thrown by a Cub pitcher. The one who in Hornsby's opinion has the best form will receive a bat with the star's name inscribed and two autographed baseballs.

Hornsby is one of baseball's immortals. He is regarded as the greatest hitter the National league has had in 20 years.

This is your chance to learn how to bat from a master teacher. Class starts at 9:30 Saturday morning.

GRIFFITH FIGHTS GAGNON TONIGHT; EXPECT 19,000

Tuffy Seeks Vengeance for Knockout.

Tonight's Card

Tuffy Griffith vs. Jack Gagnon [10]; heavyweights.
Joey Medill vs. Stanislaus Loayza [10]; 140 pounds.
King Levinsky vs. Al Keegan [6]; 175 pounds.
Buster Mallini vs. Johnny Cline [6]; 158 pounds.
Joe King vs. Hugh Gibson [6]; heavyweights.
Tom Jones vs. Jack Barry [4]; 175 pounds.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Tuffy Griffith is prepared for his most important fight. Jack Gagnon, Boston heavyweight, is his opponent at the Stadium tonight.

Gagnon may not be the greatest fighter Tuffy has met, but he stopped Griffith's succession of victories. That makes him all important to Tuffy.

Tuffy finished his training yesterday. He did no boxing, but he unlimbered with a long walk. Tuffy weighs 184 pounds, three less than when he fought Gagnon in Philadelphia. Since that six round defeat a month ago Tuffy has trained intensively. He began at Twin Lakes, Wis. and has continued here for ten days.

Tuffy Has Trained Hard.

"I'm ready and I expect to whip Gagnon," was Griffith's prediction yesterday.

Before Gagnon endangered Griffith's future, Tuffy won twelve fights. These were in the heavyweight division. Tuffy outpointed Johnny Risko, Al Friedman and Paulino Uzcudun. His knockout list includes Big Boy Peterson, Sandy Siefert, Dr. Ludwig Haymann, Jim Stanley, Jack Murphy, George Cook, and Jack Costello.

The wagering on tonight's fight favors Griffith. Tuffy is a 6 to 5 choice, although many are asking even money.

Officials of the Stadium predict 19,000 will watch the fight. They say no bout has equaled this in advance ticket sales. Six thousand seats remained unsold last night. The capacity of the Stadium is 22,000.

Joey Medill meets Stanislaus Loayza in the semi-final bout. The Chilean regards his fight with Medill as an opportunity to reestablish his reputation. Medill is returning to the ring after three months' rest. In his last fight he won a decision over Gaston Le Cadre.

Levinsky vs. Keegan.

King Levinsky's six round bout with Al Keegan shares interest with the topliners. Both are Chicagoans. Levinsky is from the Maxwell street district. The west side has divided its support between him and Keegan. Naturally, Al has the Irish fans rooting for him.

Hugh Gibson, who boxes under the name of "Ug," is a former Baylor university athlete. He was a teammate of Ted Lyons, now of the White Sox. Gibson will box six rounds with Joe King.

Buster Mallini of New Orleans is matched with Johnny Cline of Fresno, Cal., in another six round bout. The preliminary bout will be four rounds between Tom Jones and Jack Barry.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich., April 29.—Carl Reynolds for the third successive day this afternoon took the hero role in Donie Bush's slugging cast. Carl's first contribution to an 8 to 6 White Sox victory over the Detroit Tigers was a homer in the sixth, which started a three run rally at a time when the Sox were behind, 4 to 1. And in the next inning he knocked out a bigger and better homer to break the tie. This was his fourth in three games.

Bill Cissell also entered the home run circle at the earliest possible moment. He knocked George Uhle's first pitch of the afternoon over the wall.

The game had its tense moments even after the Sox took the lead. In the ninth Marty McManus knocked the ball over the fence with a man on base—his fourth trouble making hit of the day. Alexander followed with a double and Funk with a single and the Tigers thought themselves back in the ball game. But old Red Faber pitched with the determination and stamina of youth and survived the nine innings for his first victory of the year.

Blankenship Pitches Today.

The Sox will wind up the series here tomorrow and Ted Blankenship will make his first American league start in many months. He will be opposed by Hogsett.

If the White Sox had lost in St. Louis Sunday or here yesterday Manager Donie Bush would have benched Jim Moore for Dave Harris. The time worn managerial superstition against "breaking up a winning combination" kept Moore in the lineup. But today Harris got in as a pinch hitter, then continued in the game in left field.

In three trips to the plate Harris drove in the tying run with a sacrifice hit in the sixth, singled, and later scored in the eighth, and in the ninth he singled and drove Hunnefield from first to third, whence Hunnefield later scored.

Harris to Bat Third.

"I got him in there without losing a game," Donie chortled tonight. "Tomorrow Mr. Harris will play left and bat third. Clancy will bat fifth."

Moore, a fence buster in the Texas league last year, didn't make a hit in his twelve times at bat and was able to get the ball out of the infield only twice. He's probably a better outfielder than Harris, but Bush stands willing to make many fielding sacrifices in exchange for base hits.

Harris made his first appearance in an American league as a pinch hitter in St. Louis last Friday and made a homer. His batting record to date is

MAKING GOOD IN BIG LEAGUES

Thumbnail sketches of new major league baseball players of promise—where they were developed and their attainments.

It's a long jump from a newspaper composing room to the big league, but Charley Engle, now doing surprisingly well as a third sacker with the Pirates, made the leap successfully.

While the training jaunt was in progress this spring Engle was generally regarded as just another one of the boys who would be leaving shortly. He had been picked up in the draft, so couldn't amount to much. At least, he was treated that way.

Engle didn't mind the neglect. He played second when he had the chance. He played short at times. And he also made a few appearances at third. Gradually he opened the eyes of his manager, Jewel Ens, and when the moment arrived for the picking of an opening day lineup there was the young newcomer on third base.

Outside of a couple of trips to the majors Engle spent the better part of the last three seasons at Memphis. He'd still be there if the Pittsburgh owners hadn't put in a claim for him via the draft route. The Memphis club knew he was good and could have sold him for more than the draft price, but preferred to wait and thus not only have his services for another season, but build him up sufficiently to attract a hatful of coin from some major magnate. The Memphis owners moaned when they lost the lad at bargain rates.

Engle worked on a New York paper until he began to take baseball seriously, and then hired out to one of the independent hard coal league teams in Pennsylvania. From there he crept into organized ball, and it now looks as if he might be going to stay a while. He is 23 years old, a right handed hitter, fairly fast on his feet, and about as handy in the field as at bat.

KENTUCKY DERBY CANDIDATES

Something about the starters in the $50,000 race at Churchill Downs which will be renewed for the 56th time on May 17.

GONE AWAY—Until recently it was believed that William Zeigler Jr.'s strongest Derby candidate was Spinach. Now comes word that Mr. Zeigler will depend on his colt Gone Away to do well by his silks in the Derby. Mr. Zeizler made enough money in the baking powder business to own Derby colts.

Gone Away wasn't a howling success last year. He won two races in six starts. But he did turn in one powerful performance at Belmont Park on Sept. 7 when he was second to Whichone and a half length in front of Boojum in the Champagne stakes. If he repeats that effort in the Derby some man's colt is going to know he's been in a horse race.

Gone Away is a son of Runantell-Sisaga. He was bred by Dr. Archie Randolph, a grandson of John Randolph, the Roanoke statesman of several generations ago. Gone Away wasn't a particularly attractive yearling and brought only $3,000. His dam Sisaga is by Sunflower II., an English horse. Thus Gone Away, on his mother's side of the house, is closely related to Mr. Jinks, a Richemont and St. James Palace stakes winner in England; Manners, the winner of the 2,000 guineas stakes in England in 1925, and Hollister, a horse which raced with some success both in the United States and France.

Runantell, the sire of Gone Away, is a son of Broomstick. On this side of the house is the famed Ben Brush, carrying the most noted of American blood lines. Runantell was small, but better than the average race horse. Gone Away also is small, but is consistent. For after his first start last season he never was out of the money.

Mack Garner will ride him in the Derby. Mack was the leading money winning jockey of last year. Gone Away is trained by W. J. Spiers, noted for having his horses in fine condition early in the season.

CARL REYNOLDS HITS 2 HOMERS; SOX BEAT TIGERS

Hose Check Ninth Inning Rally; Win, 8-6.

a homer, two singles, and a sacrifice hit in five trips to the plate.

In the game this afternoon J. Smead Jolley continued to crowd Reynolds for the slugging honors. The big boy accomplished two singles and a triple in four times at bat. Two of the blows were a big factor in the production of needed runs.

After Cissell's precipitate homer at the start of the game, Reynolds popped to Akers and Clancy was out, Alexander of Uhle. Polley singled to left, but Kamm fouled to Hargrave.

In the Tiger half of the first the leadoff man, Stone, scored a run, but it took him longer to do it than it did Cissell. He singled to center, watched Gahringer pop to Cissell, went to third on McManus' single to right and ran home while Smith was throwing out Alexander. Rice flied to Reynolds.

Things were placid on both sides in the second inning and in the first of the third. In their end of the third, however, the Tigers took the lead. After Stone had flied to Kamm, Gehringer doubled off the left field wall and went to third on a passed ball. McManus singled to left, scoring Gehring, and went to second when Moore kicked the ball. McManus went to third while Cissell was throwing out Alexander, but died there, because Rice flied to Moore.

Tigers Make Trouble.

There was nothing doing in the fourth and the first half of the fifth. But in the last of the fifth the boys at the top end of the Tiger lineup acted vigorously for the third successive time. Stone popped to Smith, then Gehringer tripled off the left field wall. McManus' third successive hit was a double which scored Gehringer. McManus stayed on second while Smith was throwing out Alexander, stopped on third on Rice's single to left, and scored on Funk's single to right, Rice going to third. Funk stole second, then Akers struck out.

Going into the sixth the Sox were trailing, 4 to 1, so manager Bush gave the signal to do something. Reynolds caught the signal right away and knocked the first of his homers over the left field scoreboard. Clancy singled to right and scored when Jolley slammed out his gigantic triple to center field fence.

Kamm walked. Metzler batted for Moore and popped a foul to McManus. Harris batted for Smith and lined a sacrifice fly to Stone, which scored Jolley with the tying run. Autry fouled to Alexander.

Reynolds Scores Again.

The Sox waited until two were out in the seventh before breaking the tie. After McManus had thrown out Faber and Cissell had popped to Gehringer, Reynolds knocked out his second homer in two innings, a great smack which hit the top of a house across from the scoreboard in left center. Clancy again singled to right and went to third on Jolly's single to center.

Clancy and Jolley staged a double steal, Clancy scoring. Harris' single in the eighth, a sacrifice fly by Autry and a single by Cissell produced another run, and in the ninth still another came across on a walk to Hunnefield and singles by Harris and Autry.

In the ninth Cone beat out an infield hit and went to second when Kamm threw away the ball. Gehringer flied to Harris, then McManus got his homer, Alexander doubled, Rice fanned. Cissell made a fine stop to knock down Funk's single. Watwood was sent to right field and caught Rogell's drive.

Oak Park Triumphs Over University High, 5 to 4

Queen of Courts Likes White Best for Tennis Wear

PARIS, April 29.—(AP)—Paris style and tennis circles learned today on the arrival of Mrs. Helen Wills Moody that the "queen of the courts" turns thumbs down on colored dresses for tennis wear.

Informed that some girl players intended wearing pastel shades at Wimbledon in June, the world's champion replied, "After all, white's best."

Mrs. Moody added that she is bringing no new styles to the courts this year. In fact she will continue wearing the simple pleated white skirt and blouse worn every year for tennis since she was 12 years old.

"Queen Helen" expects to buy some Paris frocks while here, however. She was especially pleased with the new style long skirts for evening but does not believe they can be adapted for afternoon and sports wear.

On her arrival today, Mrs. Moody was greeted at the station by delegates from the French Tennis association and by personal friends.

Cubs Give Up Six Run Lead; Lose, 13 to 9

bases on it. The next two fellows did nothing, but just when it looked as if there would be no developments Wilson walked.

Cuyler stepped into the opening with a single which went romping past Grantham. English scored and Wilson waddled to third on the blow. The outfield shifted over to the right in anticipation of Capt. Grimm hitting in that direction. Charley crossed up the strategy by aiming a fly close to the extremity of the left field line. It plunked to earth for a double, scoring Wilson and also Cuyler, who loped home from first so speedily that the Pirates didn't even have a chance to make a play on him. Bell then walked and Hartnet made an effort to slam the ball out of the park but fanned in the attempt.

Blake's lack of control made it possible for the Pirates to eke out a run for themselves in the second round. The session opened with both Comorosky and Suhr walking. Bartell's hopper to Hornsby forced Suhr at second. Barteil in turn was forced by Hemsley and a double play would have occurred if Hornsby's pivot throw hadn't pulled Grimm off the sack. This gave Comorosky time to score. Engle then produced the only hit of the inning—a bounding billiard off Blake's glove—but three strikes for Kremer halted further activities.

Waner Loses One.

Arrangements for Bell's housecleaning homer in the third started with Hornsby getting a single on a fly lost in the sun by P. Waner. Wilson singled through short on the first ball pitched to him. Suhr made a great dive for a drive by Cuyler and got his man. A pass to Grimm loaded the sacks. Then Bell, after making two healtny swings in vain, took another and this time arched the ball into the left center field corner of the four bit seating space for four runs. This was followed by a pass to Hartnett. but Blake and English flied out.

The first three men clipped Blake for singles and there was another hit after that in the fourth, but the Pirates gathered only one run out of this. Hemsley started the flurry with an infield hit. Engle scratched a single past Hornsby back of second. Brickell was requested to bat for Kremer, and he answered with a single to left, filling the bases. Three strikes finished Flagstead. Grantham hoisted a tall one to right center, and Wilson intended to catch it, but Heathcote came charging along with the same idea. The result was a fluke single. Hemsley scoring and the bases remaining filled. Waner's pop foul and a strikeout for Comorosky ended the round.

Pirates Creep Up.

Two runs let the Buccos creep a bit closer in the fifth. Suhr walked and Bartell escaped capture when English booted a grounder. Suhr hiked to third and Bartell to second on the error. Hemsley's single over short sent the two men home. The next two batters were set down and Flagstead then bounced to Hornsby who fumbled. The error helped instead of hindered. Hemsley tried to race home from second on it and was nailed easily when Hornsby recovered the ball and pegged to Hartnett.

Here's what happened in the sixth, when seven Pirates crossed the counter. A scratch hit by Grantham started it. P. Waner was hit. Comorosky singled Grantham home. Suhr fanned and Bartell scratched a hit to Bell, loading the corners. Hemsley walked, forcing P. Waner to score. Engle singled to register Comorosky and Bartell. This was where Blake departed. Nelson stopped Erickson on a pop foul, but walked Flagstead to load the sacks again. Grantham cleared 'em up with a two bagger to right. Then Moss was hustled into the party and he spiked the guns of the next batter.

The Cubs made use of three hits to put themselves within two of a tie in the seventh. The first of this trio of blows was a single by Grimm with one out. Bell lined wickedly to Engle, but Grimm didn't know whether to run or hold his base, so when Engle dropped the drive he had plenty of time to recover and throw out Grimm at second. Hartnett put Bell on third with a two bagger to left. Then Stephenson was drafted from the hospital squad to bat for Moss. He tore off a hit on which Bell and Gabby scored.

The Pirates tapered off with two runs in the ninth off Bush. A couple of passes, a single by Hemsley, and a double by Engle accounted for these.

Knee Injury Puts Dedicate Out of Derby

Lexington, Ky., April 29.—[Special.]—Dedicate, one of the early future book choices, is out of the Kentucky Derby.

An X-ray examination this morning revealed a bunchy growth on the fleet colt's left knee and a short time later trainer John Ward announced the firing irons will be applied to the ailing knee and that the colt will be turned out on Mr. Ward's farm near here. He will not race again until fall.

Dedicate is owned by Fred A. Burton of Chicago, and he is the second formidable Derby prospect to go wrong on the Chicagoan almost on the eve of the Derby. Back in 1924, Wise Counsellor, a pronounced favorite for the Derby, was declared out of the race less than a week before it was run. Wise Counsellor later recovered and raced on to greatness.

MAROONS MEET MICHIGAN TODAY AT ANN ARBOR

Ann Arbor, Mich., April 29.—[Special.—Michigan will resume defense of its Big Ten baseball title tomorrow when the Chicago Maroons come to Ferry field for a conference game. Coach Ray Fisher expects to send Dick Montague to the mound. The right hander has not pitched since he lost Ohio to a 3 to 3 score last Wednesday.

FLEET BAND TO GO IN AURORA'S OPENING STAKE

Stars from Four Winter Tracks Clash.

BY FRENCH LANE.

A good healthy mixture of sprinters from the four winter turf centers will be represented in the Inaugural handicap, feature of the opening of the Chicago district racing season, at the Aurora course tomorrow afternoon.

Nominations for the first day's feature were made yesterday. Jack Howe and Playfellow's Dream, stars at Miami, are to take part in the combat. Jack Haskell, Trieze, Andromeda, and Tonto Rock are here fresh from Agua Caliente and will go into action in it. Then there are Old Kickapoo and Tommy Lad from Havana. The New Orleans delegation is headed by Taddywawa and includes First Mission, Old Dutch, Nora D., Film, Charm, and Nostaw.

Probably you never heard of this horse Nostaw, but most race track regulars have made and lost a few wagers on him. About a year ago it was being written and whispered around that a Derby colt known as Lord Braedalbane was a bright prospect. He was owned by Desha Breckinridge, Lexington editor, and was showing so much speed the Kentuckians were beginning to predict a Derby victory for Editor Breckenridge.

Name Is Changed.

Lord Braedalbane didn't win the Derby. Mr. Breckinridge sold him to Miss Blanch Watson of Cincinnati. Miss Watson didn't like the name Lord Braedalbane, so she spelled out Watson backwards and hung the handle on the one time pride of the blue grass country.

So Nostaw, alias Lord Braedalbane, goes in the inaugural handicap tomorrow afternoon and if he can run this spring like he could just a year ago there's going to be a sizzling pace cut out. If his heart has grown a bit since last spring Nostaw may still be going great guns at the finish.

Other Fast Sprinters Eligible.

Twenty-two were named for the opening feature which is a dash at six furlongs, and others which at times have shown much speed are Morsum, Break of Dawn, Jack Rankin, Little Gyp, La Bolotte, The Dago, Cabildo, and Nora D.

The entries for the other six races on the opening card will be made today.

In the meantime the business of dusting off the binoculars, brushing up on the different systems of picking the winners, renewing acquaintances with owners, trainers, jockeys, and stable boys was going merrily along among the Chicago racegoers all day yesterday and last night.

WILLIAMS GIVES MILNE LESSON ON STANCE AND GRIP

Teaches Novice Golfer Back Swing Also.

Tom Milne yesterday learned the stance, the grip and the backswing of a good golfer in his first lesson from Frank Williams in THE TRIBUNE'S novice golf contest. The Skokie professional started the lad with a spoon, since it lifts the ball more easily than any other wooden club.

TOM MILNE.

Milne didn't have a chance to hit a ball in his first lesson, however, for the time was devoted entirely to getting him started on the right track. Williams started with the stance, then taught the boy the grip and wound up with teaching him the backswing as the foundation of a good golf stroke.

Teaches Stance First.

First, Williams had the boy take a stance natural to his build and planted him solidly on both feet. He taught him a square stance, with both toes in a line parallel to the line of flight, with his weight evenly distributed between both feet and between the heel and ball of each foot.

Williams emphasized the importance of keeping both feet on the ground and even went further in keeping his left heel down on the backswing. This is merely temporary, to give Milne a true pivot, and later Williams said he would change to letting the left heel come up.

In moving on to the grip, the professional stressed the importance of gripping the club in the fingers and not in the palms. He put Tom's left hand to the grip with the shaft running from the base of his little finger diagonally across the fingers to the first joint of the index finger. Tightening the boy's fingers around the shaft, with his thumb on top of the shaft he turned the hand inward enough so the boy could see his knuckles. Then Williams put his right hand on the shaft in the same position as the left, except the thumb crossed over the shaft instead of extending down it.

Starts on Backswing.

With the stance and grip impressed in the boy's mind, Williams started him on the backswing. He told him to relax his knees as a foundation of a relaxed swing and to start the club back with the left hand, but to start it back with a dragging not a lifting, motion. At this point he told Tom the left hand controls the club, while the right hand carries the hitting power.

Dragging the club back, but with the club head leading the hands, Williams taught Tom the natural "opening" of the club face by the turn of the wrists. As the club starts back, the wrists naturally turn, so that when the club shaft is waist high and horizontal, the club face is turned toward the direction the player is facing.

At the top of the swing Milne turned the shaft of the club should extend across the upper part of the back, between the neck and the right shoulder. At the same time he was taught to keep his eye on the ball, looking down at it over his left shoulder as he turned his body.

Milne developed a strong tendency during the lesson to arch his back in standing to swing at the ball. Williams corrected it by telling him to imagine that he was standing against a rail fence with the top rail across his waist, and to lean over that rail slightly. Putting it thus concretely, he had caught the idea quickly.

MOON MULLINS—THE VIBRATOR

YOUR HUSBAND TELLS ME HE IS THINKING OF RESIGNING HIS NIGHT WATCHMAN JOB AND GOING INTO BUSINESS FOR HIMSELF, MAMIE.
OVER MY DEAD BODY HE WILL, BUT THAT'S WILLIE ALL OVER. ALWAYS LOOKIN' FOR A BIG BUSINESS WHERE HE CAN START NEAR THE TOP AND LOAF HIS WAY UP
HE'S GOT A NUTTY IDEA NOW THAT HE CLAIMS WILL MAKE HIM A MILLIONAIRE. CAN YOUSE IMAGINE, MISS SCHMALTZ, HE WANTS TO SPEND THE SUMMER CATCHING FIRE-FLIES AND THEN SELL THEM TO BEE-KEEPERS SO THE BEES CAN SEE TO WORK AT NIGHT AND DOUBLE THEIR OUTPUT OF HONEY! BAH!

U. S. Women Golfers Land in England for International Tilt

SUNNINGDALE, England, April 29.—(AP)—The liner which brought Glenna Collett and her team of women golfers to England docked at Southampton at 1 p. m. today. Three and a half hours later the Americans were out on the fairways at Sunningdale, where the Anglo-American team match will be played Thursday.

The speedy boat trains from the south coast are supposed to halt only for prime ministers, princes and such, but Miss Collett wirelessed the railway company, and the boat train stopped at Woking, 25 miles from London.

In threesomes and foursomes they started out, but nobody attempted a full circuit to test the course. They cut across the fairways and limited play to eight or ten holes.

Gallery Follows Players.

The American's arrival at Sunningdale drew the club members from their teacups and the "big four"—Miss Collett, Maureen Orcutt, Virginia Van Wie and Helen Hicks—soon had little galleries trailing their matches.

One of Miss Hicks' followers was Ted Blackwell, long driving wonder of other days, who is still in tournament play at 63.

Miss Collett, Miss Van Wie and Miss Hicks hit the ball particularly well today despite a stiff northwest wind. Miss Van Wie and Miss Hicks played a round with Mrs. Stewart Hanley.

Arrange Order of Play.

The arrival of Miss Collett's party, which is called the biggest invasion of women golfers from America of all time, was received with unusual attention by the English newspapers, not only because of the international match, but because of a threat to the English women's championship tournament at Formby May 12.

Miss Collett told the Associated Press that she is leaving with most of the team for Formby early next week, while the others are going to tour the Shakespeare country before taking seriously to golf.

The rival captains, Miss Collett and Molly Gourlay, met at Sunningdale and arranged the order of play, which finds them arrayed against each other in foursome as well as singles, the pairings follow:

FOURSOMES.

Glenna Collett, New York, and Marion Bennett, New Britain, Conn., vs. Molly Gourlay and Enid Wilson, England.

Virginia Van Wie, Chicago, and Virginia Holzderber, Baltimore, vs. Mrs. J. B. Watson and Jean McCulloch, England.

Maureen Orcutt, Englewood, N. J., and Rosalie Knapp, New York, vs. Miss D. Pearson and Phyllis Lobbett, England.

Mrs. Lee Mida, Chicago, and Fritzi Sifel, Wheeling, W. Va., vs. Doris Park and Diana Fishwick, England.

Mrs. H. A. Martell, Hartford, Conn., and Peggy Wattles, Buffalo, vs. Miss E. Corlett and Mrs. Latham Hall, England.

SINGLES.

Miss Collett vs. Miss Gourlay.
Miss Orcutt vs. Mrs. Watson.
Miss Van Wie vs. Miss Wilson.
Miss Hicks vs. Miss McCulloch.
Mrs. O. S. Hill, Kansas City, vs. Miss Corlett.
Edith Quier, Reading, Pa., vs. Miss Pearson.
Bernice Wall, Oshkosh, Wis., vs. Miss Park.
Mrs. Stewart Hanley, Detroit, vs. Miss Lobbett.
Mrs. Leo Federman, New York, vs. Miss Fishwick.
Louise Fordyce, Youngstown, O., vs. Doris Chambers.

The foursomes are scheduled for the morning and the singles for the afternoon.

SEWELL STARTS HIS 1,101ST GAME IN SPITE OF FLU

St. Louis, Mo., April 29.—(AP)—The name of Joe Sewell, the Cleveland Indians' third baseman, appeared in his 1,101st consecutive box score today despite the fact the veteran infielder has been running a temperature of 101 and 102 degrees for two days. His illness was described as similar to influenza.

Sewell's appearance was brief as he took his turn at bat in the first half of the initial inning and rolled out. Burnett went to third when the Indians took the field. Manager Peckinpaugh said he would have to wait until tomorrow to learn whether Sewell could continue his assault on Everett Scott's record of 1,307 straight games. Sewell has missed only one game, that in 1922, since joining the Indians on the death of Ray Chapman, in 1920.

Appetite of Trout Offsets Cold Weather

BY BOB BECKER.

Although fishing for trout early in May, when it is apt to be cold and stormy, has its drawbacks, the bold, biting tactics of the fish more than make up for the discomforts of the weather. This is the conclusion to be drawn from our experiences in recent years when we have visited northern Wisconsin trout waters during the first ten days of May. The fish are hungry, strike hard, and battle as if the combination of extremely cold water and hunger gave them pep to spare.

Last spring we struck a spell of weather so cold that for the first time in our fishing experience we saw a man don a pair of fur lined gloves in order to get some comfort while handling a nine foot rod. We were fishing Jones creek at the time, a stream that has its full share of good sized brook trout. The water in the creek could not have been many degrees above freezing, because the night before ice had formed on the small pool along the main stream. The wind was cold out of the north and only occasionally did the sun come through to contribute a little warmth to the occasion.

But the trout were on the rampage and it took but a comparatively short time to fill a creel. Show them the flash of a spinner [the fish were deep around snags and in sandy bottomed holes] and bingo! the fun was on. Moreover, scores of these red spotted fighters were assembled in favorite holes in the stream. We couldn't see them, of course, because the water was deep and dirty. But when it is possible to stop in one location and by careful work take not one but a number of 10 and 12 inch fish from a pool, it stands to reason that the gathering of the clan is of fair size.

Because of the fact that trout invariably bite more freely early in the season and also are more widely distributed in a stream during the spring hunt for food, it is easy to see why the early season fisherman will accept the unseasonable fishing conditions of May 1 with a smile. And there is another consolation for the May 1 angler. He doesn't have to worry about no-see-ums and mosquitoes that early in the year.

Motorcraft in Parade Down Chicago River

Ten motor boats, small cruisers, runabouts, and outboards which are on exhibition in the water at the Navy pier took part last night in a marine parade down the Chicago river to the Union station and back. In the leading boat were Capt. David W. Bagley, second in command at the Great Lakes Naval training station, and Capt. Edward S. Evers of the United States Naval reserve in this district.

Directors of the National Outboard association, meeting yesterday at the pier, decided to refer the selection of a site for the national championship races to the racing commission which will meet here next month.

Because of the sudden death of Maj. L. M. Woolson, marine engineer who was killed last week in an airplane accident, Gar Wood last night decided to remove Miss America VIII from the motor boat show in order to give other engineers an opportunity to start to work on her motor in preparation for the Harmsworth Trophy races which are to be held in Detroit later this summer. Maj. Woolson had taken over the task of remodeling the motors of the world's fastest boat before his death.

understanding between man and horse.

The day before I arrived in Havana an unknown filly by the name of Miss Fountain had dropped down in front in one of those running broad jumps of six furlongs, winning at a very long price in the name of somebody calling himself G. M. Anderson.

Finds Broncho Billy.

Nobody seemed to know who this G. M. Anderson was, as he had not gone in for any social activities around the town or in the clubhouse, but Mr. Charlie Foster, the press agent for the horse track, thought the name stirred some recollection and he set out to identify the unknown horseman whose filly had paid such interesting odds. He inquired around the barns for a while, but the best he could learn was that Mr. Anderson had a little cabin off somewhere yonder and lived alone, and it took him some time to find him.

"Finally," he said, "I came to a place where there was an old $12,000 automobile standing in the weeds beside a little house. The paint on the car was all faded away, due to the action of the tropical salt mists at night, and there was a little Negro boy tinkering with the insides of it. I reckoned that only a horseman would have such a car standing out in the open, so I went in and discovered that G. M. Anderson was the old original Broncho Billy of the movies. You ought to look him up, as there is probably a very touching story in this, remembering how he used to love horses, man's best pal, in the old days."

I found Mr. Anderson on a bench in the shade down by the paddock with a lot of exercise boys and hostlers, just sitting and squinting off at the horses which were going to the post in some unimportant race. He had aged a bit since he vanished quietly from the movies, but the face was unmistakably the face of the cowboy and sheriff of the Essanay westerns of twenty years ago.

Calls Up Memories.

A hundred times I had seen Broncho Billy, in his hair pants and his straw cuffs such as cowboys and butchers wear, with his head laid against that of man's best pal and expressing understanding too deep for any words as the sun went down on the plains of some Chicago suburb and the picture faded to a close.

"Well, I'll bet there's one horse you aren't willing to sell," said I hopefully, after some reminiscent suggestions which had failed to stir the strong silent man.

"Yeah?" Mr. Anderson said. "Why not?"

News and Gossip of Stock Marts

Basis for Enthusiasm.

There are just as many bulls around on Niagara Hudson as ever, most of this enthusiasm being based on the story that United corporation interests have acquired control of the company. The annual report which appeared a short time ago said that the corporation had pledged itself to develop the 1,000,000 electrical horse power available from the St. Lawrence river project or to consider other plans in the line of development of a state owned corporation.

Woolworth Sales.

F. W. Woolworth's sales during Easter week set a new record for that period, but the increase proves little or nothing so far as general business is concerned. In times of depression, people go to Woolsworth's to effect savings on purchases. They seem to patronize this big chain in times of prosperity as well. Probably Woolworth should be put down in the list of so-called "depression proof" stocks.

Dominating Influence.

Dominating influence in the Pacific Coast Biscuit situation is the outlook for the company's absorption by National Biscuit. It would fit in very nicely with the latter's scheme of expansion, and according to officials of the Pacific company, the story is more than hearsay. However, details are as yet lacking.

U. S. STEEL'S NET FOR 3 MONTHS IS $49,615,397

Report Tops Wall St. Expectations.

BY O. A. MATHER.

The United States Steel corporation again yesterday lived up to its reputation as bellwether of industry and the stock market. It turned out a quarterly earnings report that surprised a number of prophets and may prove a bulwark against a stock market storm.

Net earnings of the Steel corporation for the first quarter of this year were $49,615,397, which was equivalent after charges and preferred dividends to $2.44 a share on 8,570,876 common shares outstanding. About the best that had been predicted in Wall and La Salle streets was earnings equivalent to $3 a share.

While earnings were smaller than in the preceding quarter and the same period in 1929, due to business depression, still they were nearly double the common stock dividend requirement. Net earnings for the final quarter of 1929 were $56,385,334, or $4.14 a share on 8,132,840 shares, and for the first quarter of 1929 were $60,105,381, or $5.04 a share on 7,116,135 shares.

Ratio of Operations.

As for the near future, the officers of U. S. Steel are not at all pessimistic, as evidenced by a statement issued by the finance committee, of which Myron C. Taylor is chairman. It said that the corporation now is operating at 80 per cent of capacity.

"The present indication is that this ratio will be fairly well maintained through the second quarter," the statement continued, "and while it is impossible to estimate at the moment as to the third and fourth quarters, general indications are that there will be a satisfactory volume of business during the last half of the year.

"During the first quarter, shipments to the trade equaled about 81 per cent of capacity, compared with 74½ per cent in the fourth quarter of 1929 and 94 per cent in the first quarter of last year. Earnings for the first quarter of 1930 were 20 per cent below those for the corresponding quarter of 1929, with an output which was 14 per cent less than last year. Prices averaged about $1.45 a ton less than a year ago as to domestic business but on export business the average prices showed an increase."

The repeat did much to assuage uneasiness over reports of a slight slackening in operations this week and rumors of impending price reductions. One Wall street estimate was that steel mill operations now are at 77½ per cent of capacity, compared with slightly above 78 per cent last week and full capacity a year ago.

Inland Steel Profit.

The Inland Steel company reported first quarter net profit of $2,721,317 after all charges. This was equivalent to $2.26 a share, compared with $3,007,242, or $2.50 a share, in the first quarter of 1929.

The oil industry produced less favorable news, with an increase in production. The daily average gross crude oil output last week totaled 2,590,100 barrels, a gain of 29,200 barrels a day from the preceding week, according to the American Petroleum institute.

A comfortable amount of construction work this year is predicted by W. A. Starrett, president of the Starrett corporation. The company and its subsidiaries for the fiscal year ended March 31 completed work amounting to $32,700,000 and still had unfinished business in excess of $50,000,000.

Good Inquiry Seen.

"The business depression of the fall of 1929 has some effect on the building industry but, as nearly as can be observed, not as great as in many other lines of business," Mr. Starrett says. "We observe a very healthy and substantial inquiry for large and necessary construction projects."

Net earnings for the fiscal year were $2,124,318, equivalent after preferred dividends to $3.51 a share on 380,000 common shares. The balance sheet shows current assets of $16,257,152, current liabilities of $3,117,695, and total assets of $48,590,218.

Says Anti-Trust Acts Make Business Men Law Evaders

BY SCRUTATOR.

Some legal absurdities involved in following the letter and the spirit of the Sherman law and the Clayton act, which were designed to protect American consumers from people who sell them goods, were discussed last night at a dinner meeting of the Illinois Manufacturers Costs association by Saunders Norvell, president of the Remington Arms company.

"The Sherman law," he said, "can be summed up in three dont's—don't kill competition, don't fix prices, don't build up a monopoly. If you draw up trade practice rules and steer clear of these three, you do not need any approval on the part of the federal trade commission. Industries going down to Washington and submitting their rules to the learned gentlemen there show a funny side. Each rule submitted is tested by the three dont's.

Tells of Evasions.

"The Sherman law and the Clayton act encourage merchants to become law evaders. You cannot agree with a competitor to fix a price, but if he sends out a circular on Monday at a certain price, there is no law against your sending out a similar circular on Tuesday at the same price. It is up to the government to find out whether this was a result of agreement or whether the second man simply followed suit.

"Again you can tell a retailer that you have a resale price and inform him that if any of your customers cut this resale price you will refuse to fill further orders for him. That is legal. But if you should say to him: 'Here are my resale prices and I want you to maintain them,' you are entering into a conspiracy with your customer and are subject to the penalties of the Sherman law."

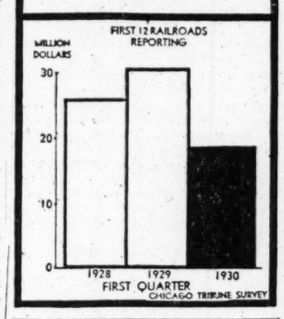
Mr. Norvell then asserted that if three competitors sat down together and admitted to each other they were going broke because all were selling their goods at cost, and one got up and remarked that he was going to raise his prices 10 per cent, regardless of the others, nothing illegal was accomplished. On the other hand, if all three agreed to make a raise of 10 per cent, no matter if the price was still reasonable, all three would be lawbreakers.

Says Seller Needs Protection.

The law did not prevent the merchant, Mr. Norvell added, from paying fixed rates on water, gas, electricity, rent, freight, and passenger rates, but forced him to sell in a market where only the buyer is protected. He declared that manufacturers needed some law that would permit them to sell at a reasonable figure and maintain fair profits for retailers. It was impossible now, he said, to prevent mail order houses from cutting prices and from "bootlegging" standard goods when the maker refused to sell to them.

Dr. David Friday, president of a New York investment company, also spoke at the dinner on "The Rising Tide of American Industry." He quoted figures showing that the industrial output of this country more than tripled between 1899 and 1929, while the population was going up only 60 per cent, and indicated his belief that further expansion would occur in future. The present depression reached its worst about the turn of the year, he said, and upward progress may be expected to continue the rest of 1930.

NET INCOME OF RAILROADS — SHARPLY LOWER FOR FIRST QUARTER



BELIEVES DEAL FOR INGRESS INTO CHICAGO WOULD BE APPROVED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 29.—The proposal to purchase from the Burlington the line from the Twin Cities to Aurora, Ill., and the lease of trackage rights from Aurora to Chicago by the Northern Pacific and Great Northern railways probably would gain the approval of the interstate commerce commission, in the opinion of Northern Pacific.

When directors of the Northern Pacific meet in New York tomorrow for their regular monthly session the status of the proposed merger again will be gone over in detail, Mr. Donnelly said. The managements of the roads still are hopeful that a decision can be reached within a month, but announcement of the intentions of the Northerns must come from the deposit committee, Mr. Donnelly said.

Mr. Donnelly believes that the proposal to acquire by purchase and lease the line from the Twin Cities to Chicago would not in any way adversely affect the proposed separate Burlington system, and that it would give the Northerns the necessary approach to Chicago, without which, he has stated, the merger would be ineffective.

Insull Jr. Tells Electric Assn. of Untapped Wealth

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

Fight saturation with saturation was the advice which Samuel Insull Jr. gave some 600 members of the Electric association during an address on "Practical Coöperation Within the Electric Industry," at a luncheon at the Palmer house yesterday. Mr. Insull pointed to a vast amount of wealth in the Chicago area still to be tapped by the electrical industry, and said that now is the time to fight for "the $1,140,830,000 in business in sight in the Chicago area."

SAMUEL INSULL JR.

"The time is not far distant when the saturation point of building in Cook county will be reached," Mr. Insull asserted. "We must then fight saturation with saturation by getting every bit of business possible from existing structures. As regards buildings that have been here for a long period, the saturation point in electrical equipment is low."

Cites Example.

Mr. Insull took as an example an $8,000 bungalow. Of its cost $5,560 went for construction, he said; $800 for embellishment, $1,240 for modernization, and $400 for electrical work. The amount spent for electrical work was a minimum, he explained, and he urged electrical dealers to try to raise this amount. Not only would the dealers gain, he explained, but the bungalow owner would benefit through the added cash value to his home given by adequate electrical equipment.

"There are 1,086,500 homes in the Chicago area," Mr. Insull went on. "And there should be $246,147,000 worth of electrical outlets now waiting to be installed in these homes."

Mr. Insull called attention to the great amount of unwired homes in the rural areas of the Chicago district, and remarked that the total in the city proper was of considerable number, and altogether here was a fertile field for additional business.

A proper number of outlets in each Chicago area home, he said, would mean it would be possible to sell $740,917,000 worth of electrical appliances. Of this Chicago proper would provide a market for $708,268,000 worth of electrical appliances, always assuming that the outlets were in place.

Estimates Grand Total.

Then there would be a sum in the neighborhood of $85,000,000 which would have to be spent on electrical energy to operate the appliances, he went on. And, finally, Mr. Insull asserted, the total amount involved through increased outlets, new appliances and the cost for energy to patrons would reach a grand total of approximately $1,140,830,000—a huge amount of business now dangling before interests engaged in the electrical business in the Chicago area.

Mr. Insull suggested that electrical contractors particularly would have to start the ball rolling to bring about increased wiring and new outlets in the homes. This in turn would start business for appliance manufacturers and the electric current producers. And he urged all interests in the Chicago electrical industry to coöperate with each other in going after this business.

Concluding, Mr. Insull called attention to the advertising campaign sponsored by the Commonwealth Edison company urging the public to modernize their homes through installation of adequate wiring outlets. "We are no Santa Claus," he concluded. "We have adopted this measure because in helping the public to help themselves we know that we are promoting our own business."

New York, April 29.—[Special.]—Bear forces continued to pound the stock market with heavy selling orders today. They battered more than fifty issues of varied assortment to the lowest price levels of the year and drove the whole list 1 to 3 points below the finals of yesterday's sweeping decline.

Losses at one time were considerably heavier than this, but bull leaders whooped up a rather forward-looking rally in the late dealings—in anticipation of the United States Steel corporation's earnings statement—and many of the leaders recovered most of their early losses. Some of them indeed replaced their forenoon minus signs with good healthy gains.

Trading was heavier than it has been in weeks overburdening the ticker and throwing the tape as much as twenty-three minutes behind floor operations at one time. A total of 5,410,010 shares changed hands during the five-hour session.

Selling again converged on the copper and rail groups, Anaconda, the recognized leader of the first-named coterie, falling to the lowest price in three years—59⅞. Fears of another cut in the metal rates and rumors

COMMENTS ON APRIL BUSINESS OF I. C. RAILWAY

April business of the Illinois Central railroad will show about the same declines from a year ago as was reported for March, according to L. A. Downs, president. "The decline in our traffic is due to a slump in business, but it in particular is caused by a substantially smaller movement of automobiles and manufactured products over our lines. The movement of traffic from the Chicago district to the Gulf of Mexico shows some decline, although our through passenger business is running below year ago. Our Chicago suburban traffic is doing exceptionally well," commented Mr. Downs.

April Brings Increased Demand for Nash Autos

The first fifteen days in April brought decided upward trend in national demand for Nash "400" cars and a marked improvement in the April business at the Nash factories, according to Sales Manager C. H. Bliss. "During this fifteen day period, orders for April shipment of Nash cars to distributers and dealers increased 43.8 per cent over the like period last year," he said. "From March 1 to March 16, the increase in orders was 24 per cent, indicating a healthy beginning of an improving spring demand.

"The April figures show a greater increase in these shipment orders than occurred during the entire month of March."

FOX FINANCING TO BE $55,000,000 ISSUE OF NOTES

Temporary public financing for the Fox Film corporation under the plan adopted by the new management will consist of an issue of $55,000,000 secured 6 per cent notes of the corporation. The issue will be marketed shortly by the company's bankers, Halsey, Stuart & Co.

The present financing has been decided upon pending readjustments in the corporation's affairs, expecting more advantageous terms when the present notes mature. It is understood that permanent financing will then be arranged.

Estimated net profit before taxes of Fox Film corporation for the first quarter of 1930 are shown as $4,604,684, as compared with $3,090,470 for the same period in 1929, an increase of $1,514,214, it was stated in a report to stockholders made public last night by H. L. Clarke, president. Gross income amounted to $12,369,364, against $9,673,503.

WHEAT PRICES DROP AGAIN ON NEWS OF RAINS

Track Deliveries May Be Permitted Here.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Around one-third of the total visible supply of wheat, which aggregated 136,090,000 bu on April 26, is expected to be controlled directly or indirectly by the Stabilization corporation on May 1 if the estimates by the trade as to the amount of cash grain that will be delivered that day are correct.

Indications are that considerable cash wheat will be delivered here and at Minneapolis and Kansas City, and it was the gossip of the trade that the corporation had given up considerable May of late in exchange for the cash article presumably held at outside points in the last few days. The result has been to decrease the holdings of the May future, which it is claimed are now well under the 19,000,000 bu officially estimated a short while ago.

There was talk during the day that track deliveries of wheat and possibly other grains would be permitted on May contracts at Chicago due to the shortage of public elevator room. Also that the 1,400,000 bu hard winter recently posted as out of condition in a local warehouse had been bought by the operator of the house at a price said to have been 5c under the May future.

Wheat Prices Decline.

Further rains in the southwest, Dodge City, Kas., receiving the best supply of moisture in five months, combined with a sharp falling off in the export demand resulted in general selling of wheat futures, which carried prices off around 2c from the previous close. The government was credited with having bought some May on the way down. Liquidation by longs was under way, with spreaders taking the May and selling the deferred futures, but the market showed little disposition to rally and the finish was at net losses of 1½@1⅝c, with May, $1.02⅞@1.03, and July, $1.05⅝@1.05½.

Buying against bids and short covering furnished the greater part of the support during the day, but there is little disposition shown to get very far from shore. One of the leading local professionals whose market operations frequently result in sharp price changes said he was doing little and did not care to speculate heavily with the government in control of the May.

The bulk of the low grade Canadian wheat from the crop of 1928 has been disposed of, according to Broomhall, and less competition with this grain with hard winters is anticipated. However, foreigners showed little anxiety to secure supplies during the day and purchases were limited. Argentine offerings abroad were small. Winnipeg futures closed 1¾@2c lower and there was some selling in Chicago credited to the Canadian market.

Corn Market Weakens.

Trade in corn was not large, with locals on the selling side due to the weakness in wheat, and the close was ⅞@1¼c lower, with May, 80¼@80½c, and July, 82⅜@82⅝c. Buying against bids checked the break. Kansas weekly report said corn planting was practically finished in the southern sections of that state and as much as 15 per cent completed in the north. Shipping demand was relatively slow and country offerings small.

Liquidation was on in May oats and it went to a fractionally wider discount under the July, with the northwest taking May and selling the deferred future around ¾c difference. Net losses were ⅝@1¼c, with May 40¼@40⅝c, and July, 41⅜c.

Rye finished ⅞@1⅝c lower, with cash interests buying May and selling July. May finished at 60c and July at 65½c.

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

Wheat sentiment, barring the action of the grain stabilization corporation, is bearish, but the experience of the last few days has indicated trouble for those who short the market heavily under prevailing conditions. The main obstacle is said to be the government's position and its action in supporting May in a moderate way on breaks and its disposal of cash wheat. Large operators found difficulty in covering their lines and express a disposition to reduce their commitments.

Chicago elevator interests who have May wheat sold against their cash holdings are said to have changed comparatively little of their May into July. So far as known there have been no overtures from the government to take cash wheat in Chicago in exchange for May, except a few small lots, the location and quantity is not given out by the government.

ADVANCE IN PROVISIONS

A better trade, with higher prices for hogs and products, featured the provision market yesterday. Considerable long lard was liquidated outright and a great deal of changing from May to distant futures was on at slightly reduced differences, 22½c from May to July and 42½c to September. At the close, lard was 2½@5c higher. Liverpool lard was unchanged and American hams is lower. Exports were 1,002,000 lbs.

May bellies were bid up 30 cents by packing interests, who reported offerings light, July advanced 12½ and September 15c. Cash trade in lard was said to have been larger on export account and domestic consumptive trade in both lard and meats was said to be better. There were also larger sales of lard for export. Exports of bacon were 522,000 lbs. Hog receipts were less than a week and a year ago at western points. Prices follow:

Vote 5 for 1 Splitup on Deere & Co. Common Stock

Stockholders of Deere & Co., farm machinery manufacturers, at their annual meeting yesterday approved the five for one split-up of the common stock. Following the stockholders' meeting directors placed the new stock on a $1.20 annual dividend basis by the declaration of a regular quarterly dividend of 30 cents. A stock distribution of 1½ per cent was voted. The new cash rate on common is equivalent to the rate on the old stock, which paid $6 annually.

POSTED WHEAT IS TAKEN BACK BY ELEVATOR

All of the 1,247,000 bushels of No. 1 and No. 2 hard winter wheat in South Chicago elevator C and annex, posted on April 7 as out of condition, has been taken back by the elevator company, it was announced yesterday. The Grain Stabilization corporation, the government's trading company, is said to have close to 1,000,000 bushels of this wheat. One New York house had 100,000 bushels and a Kansas City operator, 35,000 bushels.

The wheat was taken back by the elevator company and the May given in exchange at a price understood to be a 5 cent discount in Chicago. A special investigating committee has been at work for several weeks. In their supplementary report handed to the Board of Trade directorate yesterday, they announced the settlement.

The committee contemplates recommending certain changes with respect to the operation of public warehouses in Chicago with a view to fully protecting the interests of the public and the grain trade, it was stated.

The wheat is said to be of fair to good milling quality, although a 30,000 bushel lot recently removed from store inspected No. 5.

PLAN $100,000 ICE BOX PLANT FOR "MAJESTIC"

Grigsby-Grunow Awards the Contract.

BY AL CHASE.

Grigsby-Grunow yesterday awarded a contract for a $100,000 plant for its affiliate, the new Majestic Household Utilities corporation, to the Austin company, industrial engineers and builders. The factory will be erected on the grounds of the Grigsby-Grunow company's plant at 5801 Dickens avenue and will be used for the manufacture of the new Majestic refrigerator.

The new plant, which it is claimed will employ 100 men initially, is scheduled to be in operation in June, according to the Austin company. It will be one story, steel and brick construction, 155x240, and will require ninety tons of structural steel.

To Remodel Loop Building.

Work has just started on the complete rehabilitation and modernization of the seven story building at 162-66 West Washington street, just west of and across the alley from the twenty-five story 100 North La Salle street building, from plans by A. S. Graven, Inc., at a reported cost of $125,000. It has not yet been decided whether or not a new front will be installed. Nathan Flyer has the general contract.

A year ago it was stated that a twenty-five story addition to the 100 North La Salle building would be erected on this property. Later it was decided to remodel the present seven story structure and defer the taller improvement until business conditions warranted it. The site, 40x102, is held by the Buildings Development company under a ninety-nine year lease. The Buildings Development company is the owner of the 100 North La Salle street building.

A Pair of Leases.

Isadore Schuman has leased the store and basement in the one story building which he is to erect at 3252 Bryn Mawr avenue to the F. W. Woolworth company for twenty-nine years and nine months for a total rental of $151,275, according to the county records. The lease starts August 1. The store will be 28x125.

A Stein & Co., department store, have leased for fifteen years the building to be erected at 423-25 West North avenue by A. J. Lauer and Eugene Kersting. The cost of the new building, it is stated, will be more than $75,000 and it will be financed by the Immigrant State bank. Lester L. Bauer, Rubin J. Feldman, and Robert Elder were attorneys.

LEASES HALF OF 21ST FLOOR IN BOARD OF TRADE

Thomson & McKinnon, stocks and bonds, have leased the west half of the twenty-first floor of the new Board of Trade building, according to Albert H. Wetten & Co., renting agents. Other leases closed recently are with the following firms: G. E. Barrett & Co., Inc., Warwick corporation, G. F. Diehl & Co., Otte & Co., Edward R. Bacon Grain company, James Kidston & Co., Cooper, Dysart & Kuh, F. S. Lewis & Co., the Cleveland Grain company, F. N. Kneeland & Co., John J. Bittel & Co., Daniel F. Rice & Co., McKenna & Strasser, Rumsey Co., Robert P. Boylan, Peter J. Brennan and Peter B. Carey.

LEAD OUTPUT.

The world output of pig lead in March totaled 163,178 tons.

Estimated receipts at Chicago today, 6,000 cattle, 14,000 hogs, and 13,000 sheep.

Additional gains were scored in hogs yesterday, the general average moving up 10c at $10.00, which is highest in more than a week and within 35c of the highest since March 13. Activity featured the trade and only pen holders and a few lower priced kinds were left at the close, the high point of the day.

Supplies are falling short at all leading market centers, the total at eleven markets for the first two days of the week being smaller than any corresponding period in a number of years. Five markets today expect 50,000, against 54,700 last Wednesday.

July Hogs, $10.50.

Light hogs for July delivery sold at $10.50 on the futures market yesterday. Prices ruled higher. September mediums sold at $10.35. September lights were offered at $10.45, but bid $10.35 at the close. On the "to arrive" market lightweights for May 1 carried bids of $10.40, mediums $9.95, and heavy $9.85.

The cattle market was subjected to another drubbing yesterday and prices came down 25@50c more. The last sales of the day uncovered losses of as much as 75c to $1.00 since the close of last week's satisfactory market. The kinds eligible to Monday's final top of $14.65 were not available yesterday, although choice heavy were sold at $13.95 and only the "cream" of the supply passed $12.50.

Bulk of beef steers sold at $10.40@12.50. Mixed yearling steers and heifers of good quality sold at $12.35, averaging 850 lbs. Cows and heifers ruled weak to unevenly lower. Calves were steady. Stockers and feeders were scarce and weak.

Lambs Bring $10.25.

Lambs were in good demand at mostly 25c higher prices, the shortage in yesterday's supply bringing larger houses on the market earlier than usual. Competition continued brisk all day and closing sales were highest.

Choice wool lambs topped at $10.25, while bulk sold at $9.75@10.00 and shorn stock at $8.50@9.25. A few fair to good native spring lambs cashed at $10.00@13.00, although only smaller buyers were willing to pay the outside figure. Aged sheep and yearlings were scarce and strong. Feeding and shearing lambs were slow to sell.

PRODUCE MARKETS

Spot butter declined 1c due to increase pressure to sell. Fresh eggs were off ¼c to a new low for the season. Light weight hens advanced ½c with other poultry unchanged. Receipts by freight 3 cars. Warmer weather restricted demand for potatoes to some extent. Northern stock quoted as unchanged and Russetts easier. Receipts of old, 42 cars with 397 cars on team track. Receipts of new, 55 cars.

MOTOR SHARES REVIVE; OTHERS CONTINUE WEAK

Bendix Improves in Chicago Trading.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Recovery by motor shares and continued weakness in other sections of the list marked yesterday's trading on the Chicago Stock exchange. Short covering helped the motors to retrieve part of the losses sustained in last few sessions. Losses, though not severe, were general throughout the remainder of the list.

Outstanding in the motor group was the partial recovery of Bendix which snapped back 2 points to close at 44. Declaration of the regular quarterly dividend by Bendix directors took away much of the thunder of the bear operators and brought many of them in to cover their commitments. Borg Warner benefited from similiar covering and edged up 1½. Houdaille issues and Pines Winterfront improved about a point each.

Irregular Trend.

An irregular trend prevailed among the investment stocks. Continental Chicago common was higher on active trade, closing at 24, up 1½ net for the day. The certificates finished at 69½. Corporation Securities common was active but unchanged at the close. Chicago corporation improved a fraction.

Radios were uniformly lower. Transactions in Grigsby aggregated 58,090 shares and the issue sold above 25 during the day but finished down a minor fraction. Raytheon certificates on light trade sold down to 25. Ken-Rad Tube was off three points on early trades but recovered to 13 before the close. The company reports current production is running around 4,000 tubes daily.

Among the industrials Winton and Butler Brothers were off about a point and Electric Household was up a like amount. General Theaters netted nearly a point. Majestic Household had an erratic day, slipping to 45 then rallying to 48, to close with a net loss of 5.

Midland United Offering.

Utility stocks were soft. Most of the issues in the group suffered small reverses. North American Light and Power "A" was steady at 75½.

Public offering will be made today of 250,000 shares of convertible preferred stock, series A, of the Midland United company. The offering is being made by a syndicate headed by the Utilities Securities company. The stock carries privileges of conversion in addition to common stock purchase warrants giving the holder the right to purchase an equal amount of common at $28.50 a share up to and including Jan. 1, 1930. The issue is being marketed at $48.50 a share. The stock is convertible to Dec. 31, 1931, into 1.4 shares of common.

J. I. Case.

Will you please give me a report on J. I. Case? And do you consider the stock a good investment at the present price?—Mrs. E. F.

J. I. Case company, formerly J. I. Case Threshing Machine company, was incorporated in Wisconsin in 1880, the outgrowth of a business founded in 1842. The company is one of the largest manufacturers of agricultural machinery. Its main plant covers about sixty acres in Racine, Wis.

The introduction of an improved line of tractors and expenditures incidental to bringing its plant up to date resulted in a drop in earnings for 1929. Net profit for 1929 was $3,403,752, equal, after preferred dividends, to $13.75 per share on 194,471 common shares [par $100], compared with net profit of $3,986,889, equal to $25.01 per share on 130,000 common shares in 1928.

As of Dec. 31, 1929, current assets were $37,849,796 and current liabilities were $3,537,424, leaving a net working capital of $34,312,371, which compares with $23,669,948 at the end of 1928.

Surplus was increased from $9,439,066 to $14,477,682 during 1929.

The balance sheet at the end of 1929 indicated a total book value of $37,930,360, applicable to 194,471 shares of common, or $195.04 per share, which compares with $129.58 per share on 130,000 shares a year before.

Dividends on the common are $6 per year. The preferred stock is regarded as high grade. The common deserves a fairly good rating. The latter is subject to wide fluctuation on the market.

Low Priced Stocks.

I want to get in touch with a broker who makes a special study and investigation of the lower priced issues of merit [$16 and lower per share]. I am a small investor and my present broker only advises the $100 and up issues, and while they are all very good it means too large an investment. Your advice will be appreciated.—Mrs. S. J. T.

We do not know if there is any broker who makes a specialty of low priced stocks. It seems to us that you are making a mistake in favoring cheap stocks merely because you can get a larger number of shares for the same money than if you should buy higher priced stocks.

Although there are some good stocks that sell for a few dollars per share there are many in the less than $15 class that are dangerous for the small investor. Many of them can be bought cheaply merely because they are not worth much.

In buying stocks select them because of their merit, not because they are priced below $15 per share. If the capital that you have to invest will not buy ten shares of a good stock the proper place for your funds is probably in a savings bank or in good

SYNOPSIS.

Catherine West of Boston, on her way to Paris, meets Geoffrey Macadam in the Havre to Paris train. Macadam is an Englishman who lives in Paris. Catherine tells him that she is going to visit her cousin's widow, Mme. Belmont Bender. She is a little apprehensive about the coming visit because she had received just before sailing a letter from Hermione Cushing who tells her that Mme. Bender is far from well. Macadam is a lawyer and he tells Catherine that his firm handles Mme Bender's affairs, but he doesn't know the widow very well. He had heard that she was ill. Arrived in Paris Catherine is a little disappointed when her cousin's chauffeur is not at the station to meet her. Geoffrey sees her into a taxi, giving her his address and telephone number. He tells her that he will be anxious to know how things are at the Bender apartment and she promises to call him. Arrived at Mme. Bender's apartment, she is treated coldly by the servants and Jeanne, Mme. Bender's maid, suggests that she go to a hotel. Catherine insists on staying in the apartment as she is suspicious of the servants. Jeanne tells her that Mme. Bender attempted to commit suicide the night before. The next morning Catherine goes in to see Germaine Bender, who is pathetically glad to see her. She tells Catherine how she had taken poison by mistake.

Geoffrey invites Catherine to dine with him and it is a relief for her to get out of the apartment and to tell him of her vague fears. He is disturbed too. Geoffrey escorts her back to the apartment. The door is locked, but Geoffrey arouses Eduardo, who says he thought Miss West had come in long before.

The next morning Catherine calls on Miss Cushing, who takes her to her milliner, where she sees a man she has noticed hanging around the Bender apartment.

Back at the house Catherine finds the door to the picture gallery open and she goes in to look at a Manet she thinks is there. Everything is shrouded in dust covers. She finds the Manet has been cut from its frame.

INSTALLMENT XXVII.

A SHOCKING REVELATION.

Quickly Catherine made the round of the other paintings, feeling the canvas through the material one after another. Most of them were in place, but there were several missing, she could not say which. Very strange, this . . .

Next, her heart beating fast, she tugged at the enveloping linen upon the furniture, only to meet with a fresh shock. Every scrap of the eighteenth century tapestry, fit for a museum, had been removed, leaving the coarse lining. Last she turned over a corner of the dust sheet underfoot. As she expected, there was nothing between it and the perfectly laid parquet.

She remained rooted to the spot, while the blood sang in her ears. Who, she asked herself grimly, was responsible for these depredations? For that they were depredations she could not doubt. The artful way in which the absence of the missing objects had been concealed told its own story. Carpet and tapestries alone represented many thousands of francs, while the missing pictures might run into millions. Had they been secretly abstracted and sold?

A step ran lightly down the stairs outside. A pause, then in the doorway Jeanne appeared, a bunch of keys in her hand. Her brown eyes shot a rapid glance from Catherine to the muslin bag upon the floor and back again. In their hard gaze the girl caught the same expression she had seen in the mirror nearly three weeks ago—something alien, hostile. Now she fancied there was another emotion in them. Was it fear?

"Mademoiselle is searching for something?" inquired the crisp voice, edged with irony.

Catherine braced herself.

"Yes, Jeanne, I was looking for the little Manet. What has become of it?"

A shrug answered her, indifferently, chill.

The maid raised her brows and shook her head regretfully.

"Ah, the little Manet! It is sad, is it not? Monsieur parted with it, only a few weeks before his death. No wonder you are astonished to find it gone."

Incredulity swept over the girl. Cousin Harry part with the pearl of his collection? She could not possibly believe it. She still recalled the pride with which he had shown it to her four years ago. She kept her gaze riveted to the composed face opposite.

"Why did monsieur let the painting go without the frame? It is most extraordinary."

A shrug answered her, indifferently, chill.

"Who knows? A whim, perhaps. I believe I heard them say that the picture was bought by some gentleman from South America. No doubt he paid a large price; but why he did not take away the frame I have no idea."

"There are other pictures gone, as well. Also the carpet and the tapestry from the furniture. Were those sold as well?"

"About the same time, I think. I was away on my holiday, and when I returned I found the room as you see it. That was just before we sailed for America, and all was in confusion. I never heard what became of them, or why monsieur let them go. Perhaps he wanted to make a change."

"But madame? Has she never mentioned them to you?"

"Ah, poor madame! She does not occupy herself with these affairs. I doubt if she even remembers they were sold. I never dare speak of things which make her think of monsieur, as you well know!" She bestowed a cursory glance round the walls, then turned to Catherine with an air of polite dismissal. "And now, mademoiselle, if you have quite finished, I will lock up the room! It is safer, is it not?"

The answer was plausible, Catherine could not possibly refute it, yet as she heard the key turn behind her an instinct not to be denied told her that every word so glibly uttered had been a lie. Jeanne and Eduardo themselves had disposed of those paintings, were, in all probability, planning the sale of others. She had wondered what the butler was carrying just now in that oddly shaped parcel. Now she knew; it was a rolled up canvas, belonging to one of the empty frames.

The revelation shocked her so profoundly that her knees shook beneath her as she walked upstairs.

Jeanne—the paragon of virtue—was a common thief!

For the next few days Catherine was tormented by her suspicion. In justice she could not give it a stronger name, though from the first she was instinctively certain of the servants' guilt. Certain—but cold reason told her the thing would be difficult to prove. To breathe a word of the business to the invalid might shatter the very foundations of her being, and, except for Mme. Bender, there was no one at all likely to be acquainted with the facts. Hermione could not help, since at the time Jeanne declared the pictures to have been sold she had been absent from Paris. Indeed it was probable that for the past year no outside person had entered the gallery.

Uneasily she wondered if Jeanne guessed her belief. No one could say whether the woman's composure was that of innocence or of brazen sang froid. Since the single brief gleam which the girl had interpreted as terror, their positions might have been reversed, for it was Catherine who nervously shrank from facing the object of her suspicion, feeling self-conscious, almost guilty.

The evening after the upsetting discovery she shut herself in the salon and painstakingly examined its contents. For some time she could find nothing missing, though she fancied the vitrines contained rather less than their former store of bibelots; but at last she gave a gasp of triumph. A blue enameled patch box and a miniature set with pearls, both of which she had admired the day after her arrival, had disappeared. The final shred of doubt was brushed away.

She burned now to explore the locked bedrooms, but there was no means of doing so short of demanding the keys.

What ought she do to? The question haunted her day and night. Useless to assure herself that dishonesty was one thing, unkindness to an ill woman another, that she could put her finger on no instance of neglect or lack of consideration towards Germaine. The ugly fact stared her in the face that her cousin, helpless and ignorant of harm, was being hourly ministered to by an unscrupulous thief. Nor was this all. Over and above the tangle of moral values one idea stood out clear. If Jeanne could lie about one thing, she could lie about another. The thought was strangely alarming, though she did not draw any direct conclusion from it.

She resolved to consult Geoffrey as to a possible course of action. After all, he was not only a real friend, but he and his father were Mme. Bender's solicitors, so that no one could be better able to advise her. She was going to see him on Sunday, having been invited to his flat to meet his sister, down from Fontainebleau for the day. If she could get a moment alone with him she would tell him the whole affair.

Till then she was forced to go on as though nothing had happened, though to do so was increasingly difficult. Her sensitive eye detected a hard defiance in the servants' manner towards her, saw in their grudging politeness the mark of an armed neutrality.

By Mae Tinée.

Good morning!

Not a great flying picture, fans, but a good one, directed by William Wellman, who guided the destiny of young Buddy Rogers through "Wings."

"Young Eagles" is the picture adaptation of a combination of two short stories by Elliott White Springs, author of "War Birds." It furnishes interesting glimpses of the human side of fighting men, who in the midst of war remember that, under the skin, they are brothers, after all.

Buddy Rogers, boyish and appealing as ever, is the American flyer. Paul Lukas—fine actor!—plays the German ace whose decency to an enemy results in his capture—and who receives the best of treatment from his captors. Jean Arthur, capable and charming, portrays the woman in the case, while Stuart Erwin handles the comedy end expertly. Minor rôles are satisfactorily taken care of.

Judging from their applause, Oriental audiences are liking "Young Eagles" a lot.

Urges Public Appearances for Music Contest Winners

Springfield, Ill., April 29.—(AP)—Public appearances rather than prizes are most highly appreciated by musical contest winners, Mrs. Edmund J. Tyler of Chicago, president of the Illinois Federation of Music Clubs, said in her address at the federation's biennial convention here today. "There is great need," she said, "of working out definite schedules of appearances for contest winners. Prizes are not so much needed as arrangements for appearances in various towns. Contest winners want to be heard."

JOHN MASEFIELD MAY BE BRITAIN'S POET LAUREATE

LONDON, April 29.—(AP)—A man who has roamed the world in carefree hobo fashion and once was even a porter in a New York saloon may be the next poet laureate of England. Indications today were that Prime Minister MacDonald soon would appoint a successor to the late Robert Bridges and the name of John Masefield is most prominently mentioned.

Masefield has been a seaman, ship's cook, farm hand and hobo. After a long struggle for success in writing he finally attained it with three poems, "The Everlasting Mercy," published in 1911; "The Widow in the Bye-Street," 1912, and "Dauber," 1913. His most famous novel is "Sard Harker."

Masefield is 55 years old and has a wife and two children.

Child Experts Urged to Study Children to Curb Delinquency

Community clinics where workers become familiar with the problems of delinquent children and learn to understand their motives will do much to better the problem of juvenile delinquency in Chicago. Such was the opinion of Dr. Clifford R. Shaw of the Institute for Juvenile Research, who spoke last night at a meeting of the South Side Child Guidance center in the Chicago Woman's club.

"To treat cases effectively one must know the child's own interpretation of his life situation," Dr. Shaw declared.

Dr. Shaw told how the rate of delinquency in the districts adjacent to the loop had remained the same over a period of 30 years although the population has changed several times.

Fort Sheridan Scene of Brilliant Military Ball

The United States gymnasium at Fort Sheridan was the scene of a military ball last night. Two hundred officers and their partners attended.

In the receiving line were Maj. Gen. Frank Parker and Mrs. Parker, Rear Admiral Walter S. Crosley and Mrs. Crosley, Maj. Gen. Roy D. Keehn and Mrs. Keehn, Brig. Gens. Abel Davis, John J. Garrity, Frank R. Schwengel and their wives, and a number of civilians prominent in Chicago and north shore society.

Proceeds of the ball will help to defray the expense of shipping and installing in the Fort Sheridan chapel a pipe organ donated to the post by Msgr. T. V. Shannon, pastor of the church of St. Thomas the Apostle and editor of the New World, official organ of the Roman Catholic archdiocese of Chicago.

Half Million Gift to Help Arts of Healing

R. H. McElwee Memorial Affects U. of C. Plans.

A gift of $500,000 toward the construction of a surgical pavilion, to form a part of a $6,000,000 development of a complete medical unit in connection with the Presbyterian hospital and Rush Medical college of the University of Chicago, was made by Mrs. Elizabeth S. McElwee, it was announced yesterday.

Mrs. McElwee's gift to the Presbyterian hospital was made in memory of her husband, the late R. Harvey McElwee, formerly president of the Menominee Lumber company and a director of the Continental and Commercial National bank, now merged into the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company. Mrs. McElwee, a daughter of the late Jesse Spalding of Chicago, lives at 1010 East Deerpath avenue, Lake Forest.

The surgical pavilion, toward the building of which her gift was made, would be a part of the proposed program of building and endowing four principal departments, general medicine, general surgery, maternity cases, and the care of children.

In addition, the proposed program of development would include medical and surgical specialties, a school of nursing and a clinic. The entire cost, $6,000,000, as estimated, would provide for endowment as well as construction. Construction of the pavilion, it is understood, awaits other endowment and construction gifts.

Mrs. McElwee stipulated that provision be made in the surgical pavilion to care for charity cases, persons of limited means, and wealthy patients.

She also stipulated that the proposed pavilion be devoted not only to the care of patients, but to medical research and medical education. It is her hope, she said, that within the walls of the institution, new knowledge of disease may be formulated.

The corner stone for the Nancy Adele McElwee Memorial hospital for crippled children will be laid today on the University of Chicago medical quadrangle. The $300,000 structure will contain fifty beds with special facilities for crippled children.

This hospital was given by Mrs. McElwee as a memorial to her daughter, who died in 1896. The new structure will take over most of the work being done in the present Nancy Adele McElwee building at Paulina and Maypole avenues.

Vice President Frederic Woodward will preside at the ceremony, which will take place at 2:30 p. m.

The Inquiring Reporter

Every Day He Asks Five Persons, Picked at Random, a Question.

The Question.

Do you think you would enjoy a fifteen hour ocean to ocean airplane trip?

The Answers.

Miss Florence Cameron, 1743 Warren avenue, switchboard operator — Yes, indeed. I have never been to either coast, so an air trip across the entire United States would be thrilling. I would like to pilot a ship. I even would have the nerve to cross the ocean in a plane, if the pilot were someone like Col. Lindbergh.

Charles H. Cawley, 2026 Sedgwick street, automobile mechanic—I am game for that sort of romance; I'd like to start right now. I frequently flew as a passenger from Miami, Fla., to Havana, Cuba, on a Friday afternoon; going back on Sunday afternoon. If it is the last thing I do, I will learn to fly a plane.

Miss Julia Gudnas, 1442 South 48th court, Cicero, stenographer—I would more than enjoy it. I have seen the Atlantic ocean, but not the Pacific. Going west, I imagine, there would be little scenic variety until the plane began climbing over the Rocky mountains. That part of the trip certainly would be the height of excitement.

A. E. Mossner, 64 West Randolph street, blueprint maker—I would like such a trip in a large, multimotored plane offering the maximum safety. It would give a different slant on the country than I otherwise could get.

Miss Shirley Hill, 608 East 51st street, manicurist — I like any kind of a trip, airplane, automobile, train, bus, anything. I have been up in a plane, a sightseeing trip in Chicago, and I certainly enjoyed it. But I have never been either east or west. It wouldn't take me long to get ready to go almost anywhere.

THE STAGE

THE preliminaries in the annual Little theater tournament under the auspices of the Chicago Drama league will be held in the Goodman theater on the afternoons of May 5, 6, 7, and 8. Four one act plays will be staged each afternoon. The contestants are:

The Linderman Players, the Shawnee Players, the Wheaton Players, the Green Room Players, the Seminary Players, the Ray Players, the Town and Gown Playshop of Northwestern university, the College Club Players, the Woodstock Paint and Powder club, the Jewish Institute Players, the Bell Telephone Players, the Austin Players, the Guild Players of Northwestern settlement, the Uptown Players, the Amathayers, and the Olivette Players.

The four winners in the preliminaries will compete Monday evening, May 12, in the Goodman for the Drama League cup.

There will be a similar Little theater tournament in the Waldorf theater, New York, during the week of May 5 in competition for the David Belasco cup. Twenty groups of amateurs have entered, among them the Loyola Players of Chicago, the Little Theater company of St. Louis, and the Morse Players of St. Louis.

During the week of May 12, in the same theater, there will be a competition of amateurs in full length plays from original manuscripts. Here the winner will receive the Theater Arts Monthly cup. The plays and their actors will be:

"The Wooden Idol," by Leonard White, given by the Guild Players of the University settlement, New York; "Kith and Kin," by Wallace Mannheimer, given by the Thalian Masquers of the Bronx Y. M. H. A.; "Fore," by Marjorie Bartholomew Paradis, given by the Morningside Players of Columbia university; "Flying Blind," by Mary Aldis, given by the Lake Forest Players and the Playwrights' theater of Chicago, and "The Twelfth Disciple," by Mary Parmly Sachs, given by the Little Theater company of St. Louis.

Charlotte Greenwood's visit to the Erlanger theater in "Mebbe" will be brief, it seems. The management of a comedy called "Nancy's Private Affair" announces that it will begin an engagement at the Erlanger Monday night, May 12.

This play was written by Myron C. Fagan, and has Minna Gombell as its star. Others in the cast are Stanley Ridges, Mary Wall, Diantha Pattison, John Marston, Mary Robinson, Albert Ferro, and Gavin Muir. It has been acted in New York.

Queenie Smith and "The Street Singer" will end their engagement at the Apollo theater next Saturday night, a week earlier than announced. The Apollo will remain closed for six days, pending the arrival of "Sister of the Chorus," a new play that has Edna Hibbard as its leading personality. Saturday night, May 10, is the date fixed for that premiere.

Next week will be the last for "Ariadne" at the Goodman theater. John Galsworthy's "Escape," now in rehearsal, will be staged by the repertory company on Tuesday night, May 13. This production will probably be the last of the Goodman's season.

The Yiddish Art Theater company of New York will come to the Lawndale theater [on Roosevelt road] tomorrow night for an engagement of six performances. Matinee and evening performances will be given next Saturday and Sunday. "Jew Suss," by Lion Feuchtwanger, will be offered. This drama was the most successful of the company's season in New York, running for three months. C. C.

Passavant Hospital Plans for Further Development

The formal inauguration of the development program of Passavant hospital, announced recently by Lawrence H. Whiting, chairman of the development committee, will take place on May 12—hospital day.

Hospital day, which is celebrated nationally in honor of Florence Nightingale's birthday anniversary, will mean more than an open house to Passavant hospital, heads of the institution pointed out yesterday. It was Florence Nightingale, a friend of the Rev. W. A. Passavant, who inspired the latter to found the hospital. At that time she was at Kaiserwerth hospital in Germany.

Women Voters Sing in Old Kentucky Home

Visit Place Where Song Was Written.

BY KATHLEEN M'LAUGHLIN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Louisville, Ky., April 29.—[Special.]—On the trail of that spirit of Old Kentucky which Stephen Collins Foster embodied in the poignant verses of "My Old Kentucky Home" the National League of Women Voters' convention moved itself bodily this afternoon from Louisville to Bardstown, forty miles away.

Crowded in the central hall of Federal Hill, the gracious, spacious old house where the song was penned, hundreds of women from nearly every state in the Union joined in the chorus of:

Weep no more, my lady, O weep no more today;
We will sing one song of my old Kentucky home,
Of my old Kentucky home, far away.

As a special privilege for the guests the old drawing room was opened and Mrs. Ersilla Fanelli of Louisville caroled the verses as she stood beside the grand piano, still polished and gleaming, on which the melody probably first was played.

Then they walked back through the avenue of trees and the fragrant air of the dignified old homestead, built in 1795 by Judge John Rowan, United States senator from Kentucky. They climbed into snorting motor buses and returned to Louisville.

This morning the Sheppard-Towner maternity legislation and the substitute bill pending in congress intended to replace it since the act itself expired last July, absorbed the attention of half the delegates while the other half were occupied with a problem of women in industry.

Dr. Richard Olding Beard was none too complimentary in addressing the general assembly of the convention about the Cooper bill designed to take the place of the Sheppard-Towner act.

"It is unfortunate," he observed, "that the Sheppard-Towner act for the protection of the welfare and hygiene of maternity and infancy, should have lapsed before any satisfactory extension or substitution of it could be arranged. The gap is proving mischievous to the continuity of the service—the invaluable service of the United States children's bureau. Seldom if ever has any government bureau operated in the discharge of its duties under the law with such complete absence of any challenge of its methods as this bureau, under the capable leadership of Grace Abbott, has experienced. Only the reinstatement of herself and staff with full continuance of their service can the debt of gratitude the motherhood of this country owes her.

"The bills pending in congress are not satisfactory in this regard. The cause is richly fortunate in the support of President Hoover, but it must be frankly said that the measure which is reported to have the administration endorsement is the least desirable of them all. It is replete with flaws.

"We must have national control, and it should rest with the children's bureau. This should serve as the source from which public health education in this maternity and infancy field should proceed."

The child welfare committee this afternoon once again declined to include birth control as an item for study and support by the members of the league. That was contrary to the hopes of a contingent led by Mrs. Chauncey J. Hamlin of Buffalo, who claimed the support of a majority of the New York delegation, 45 in all, for the inclusion of that subject. A sharp debate on the floor of the convention still is predicted because of the views of Mrs. Hamlin, who, in Buffalo, underwrote a series of birth control lectures.

Mrs. F. Louis Slade of New York, who headed the independent women's committee for Herbert Hoover during the last presidential campaign, told the delegates in regard to political and economic problems:

"We need to stop the duel method and prepare for the duet. Not men opposed to women but men coöperative with women is the present trend. Women did not invade the economic world because they wanted to—they went because industry took over their home work and they had to follow into industry.

"Now women are going into politics for the same reason. It never occurred to men that while they were protecting infant industries that human infants needed protection, too. As soon as women got suffrage they began to get the Shepard-Towner and similar legislation for maternity and infancy."

Styles in Long 'n Short Hair Stay About the Same

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

We can't let a month go by without having conscience pangs if we do not report on the progress of hair, if any—progress, not hair.

So far as I can observe, it's all just about where it was at last report. It doesn't seem to be moving one way or the other. Pert little curls are breaking out here and there, rather of the "spit" than the nursery variety. We see rather lavish hints for curls and coifs in fashion books, but they are not taken up so rapidly, say, as the skirt length suggestions offered at the same time.

Long hair, for instance, hasn't broken out into any startling schemes of decoration. If anything, it is more conservative in treatment than the short hair. Its usual course is to be fitted closely to the skull, ending, as it has for several seasons back, in the tidy chignon at the nape of the neck.

There's more originality in the struggle to manage the so-called shoulder length tresses, which, if really shoulder length, would classify as long hair. But there is usually too much of the growing pains look about most of the heads of half short and half long hair to be impressed by any style attached to it. Some, it might be added in all honesty, look terrible.

However, a verdict offered for what it is worth, was rendered recently by a famous hairdresser in the sentence that "no woman over 30 should consider letting her hair grow." You are privileged to accept the verdict or take it to a higher court, according to your own good judgment.

A persuasive clause from the same oracle insists that long hair adds ten years to the age of a woman over 30, and we gals know that no woman over 13 (or is it 87) relishes the idea of tacking on a decade that can so easily be kept bobbed.

However, hair beauty keeps on being a most important feature of the moment. Whichever way the locks are trained, they must be becoming; they must look as if they were dressed for a party, along with the party frock; the head must be treated as the most distinguished feature in the whole group of features, and that means, of course, that you and your mirror, or you and your hairdresser, must keep on working to bring out every single bit of charm a head can evolve.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

W. S. K.: THERE IS NO OINTment which will remove moles. Unless the mole is particularly disfiguring it is advisable not to interfere with it. The ordinary mole, which is light brown in color and elevated and about the size of a pea, can be removed successfully by the electric needle if the work is done by a skilled operator.

ROSE F.: CURVE YOUR HAIR well out on your cheeks, if your face is round, to conceal some of the surface. Part the hair on the side and wear it well off the forehead. In this way you may materially reduce appearance of facial circumference.

Miss Litsinger, Wilbur Smith to Wed Today

BY THALIA ——.

The wedding of Miss Edwina Litsinger, the Edward R. Litsingers' daughter, to Wilbur Smith, son of Mrs. Theodore White Smith, which is to take place this afternoon, seems likely to be the most spectacular nuptials Chicago has had since the elaborate ceremony at which Loretta Hines and Howell Howard were wed.

About 1,500 guests have been asked to the service which is to be read at 4:30 o'clock at St. James Episcopal cathedral and to the wedding reception at the Drake hotel afterwards. The Rev. Stephen Keeler, rector of St. Chrysostom's church, which the Litsingers attend, but which is too small to accommodate the wedding, and Dean Duncan Browne are to read the ceremony.

Coe Glade of the Civic Opera company is to sing.

The bride's attendants will include her sister, Miss Elinor Litsinger, as maid of honor, and as bridesmaids, Miss Theodosia Smith, Miss Georgianna Whitcomb, Miss Charlotte Eckhart, Miss Rosemary Baur, Miss Helen Hardenbergh, Miss Henrietta Countiss, Mrs. Donald LaChance, and Mrs. Mather-Smith de Bujac. Willard Cummings is to be best man, and Mr. Smith's groomsmen will include Edmund Mansure, Edward Wilson, Vojta Mashek, Harry Drake, Charles Meyer, Blake Blair, Donald LaChance, and William Drake.

The wedding proper concludes weeks full of gay parties for the bride and groom, and it is said that the wedding gifts that have been sent to the young people appear to represent the stock of a good sized department store. They are to sail in a few days on the S. S. Augustus to spend a 2 months' honeymoon in Italy, and on the Riviera, after which they will return to occupy the Lake Forest house that the Litsingers are giving their daughter.

Out of town guests who are here include Mr. and Mrs. John T. Mitchell of Greenwich, Conn., Mrs. Frank Shannon [formerly Hazel Ford of Chicago], Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Ford of Scarsdale, N. Y., Mrs. Frank Ford of Philadelphia, and Miss Frances Ford.

The opera box committee is to hold its weekly luncheon meeting today at the Woman's Athletic club, with Mrs. George J. Jaeger as hostess.

Reservations for the annual meeting and dinner of the English Speaking union tomorrow night have been made by Mr. and Mrs. Frederick T. West, Mrs. Joseph B. Long, who is to have a group of guests with her; Mr. and Mrs. Rush Clark Butler, Mr. and Mrs. Alan C. Dixon, the John V. Farwells, Mrs. Joseph Adams, and the John M. Zanes.

The recently organized Parent-Teacher association of the University School for Girls is to hold its first social meeting next Tuesday afternoon at the school. They have planned a tea and a program of songs to be given by Ann Mathea. Mrs. Homer L. Dixon and Miss Anna R. Haire will be assisted in receiving by Mrs. A. E. Bastien, Mrs. Philip S. Wrigley, Mrs. Walter F. Braun, and Mrs. William V. Young.

At the tea tables will be Mrs. Joseph Schreiner, Mrs. Edwin W. Sims, Mrs. George McMurray, Mrs. Henry S. Farleigh, Mrs. Robert Graf, and Mrs. Donald R. Cotton. Members of the senior class are to usher.

The women of St. Chrysostom's Episcopal church have set the date for their bazaar for next winter, Dec. 4, to be exact. They are starting to talk about it now, so everybody will be sure to know of it. Last winter, they didn't have one. Mrs. D. Mark Cummings and Mrs. Harold Eldredge are co-chairmen in charge of the arrangements.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hamline Jr. have taken an apartment at the Deerpath Inn for the summer months.

Thomas D. Jones and Miss Gwethalyn Jones of 1435 Astor street left Santa Barbara, Cal., where they make an annual winter stay, yesterday, and will open their Lake Forest residence on Green Bay road shortly after their return.

Miss Jessie and Miss Catherine Colvin of Lake Forest departed on Monday to drive south. They plan to go to see a number of old Virginia gardens and homes that are opened this month.

Mr. and Mrs. George H. Macy, who have been living in Evanston for the last six months, are returning from the east to take up their residence at 151 East 79th street.

The Scott Durands have evidently landed in California after their trip around the world, as they are listed among the guests Mrs. Darius Miller entertained at a dinner party last Friday evening at the Hotel Huntington in Pasadena.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Selz of 2130 Lincoln Park West, who have been in Florida since the first part of January with their sons, Preston Oldfield and Henry Jr., have returned to Chicago, having stopped for several days at French Lick Springs, Ind., on their way back.

Details of Ceremony

New York, April 29.—[Special.]—Miss Virginia Chapin, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Simeon Brooks Chapin, and Francis Augustus Drake, son of Mr. and Mrs. Tracy C. Drake of Chicago, were married tonight in the Collegiate church of St. Nichols, 48th street and 5th avenue. It was a candle light wedding. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Malcolm James MacLeod.

The bride was escorted by her father. She wore a medieval gown of ivory colored panne velvet, made on long straight lines, the full skirt ending in a long train the shape of an inverted calla lily. Her voluminous veil of tulle fell over her train. Instead of a bouquet she carried an old family prayer book.

The bride was preceded up the aisle by Mrs. Carlos C. Drake, Mrs. John Louis de Ruyter, Mrs. John Ashley Merriman, Mrs. George F. Hackl Jr., and the Misses Patricia Silverthorne, her cousin; Iris Sellar, Mary Gertrude Finucane, Jane Brand, Helen Millington, Jane Erdmann, and Dorothy Havemeyer. Miss Justin van Rensselaer Townsend was maid of honor and Mrs. Kenneth A. Patterson, sister of the bride, was matron of honor.

Carlos C. Drake was best man for his brother. The ushers, who led the bridal procession, were Simeon Brooks Chapin Jr., brother of the bride; Kenneth A. Patterson, Albert Keep, Alphonse Kenison Jr., John Bertram Whitelaw, John Cutler, Hyde Gillette, Eben Knowlton, John R. Toop, Thomas Field, Walter Howe, and Hamilton Southworth.

The ceremony was followed by a reception at the home of the bride's parents, 950 Fifth avenue.

Mr. Drake and his bride after their wedding trip will live in New York. They will pass the summer with Mrs. Drake's parents at their home, Flowerside farm, Lake Geneva, Wis.

Special Day for Girls.

Girls will have a special day at the Health and Education exposition at the Coliseum, May 17 to 25. Exhibits and a program will be prepared by Girl Scouts, Girl Reserves, Life Saving Guards of the Salvation Army.

Fine Singing of Paulist Choir Pleases Critic

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Orchestra hall was crowded last night by an audience desirous of hearing the spring concert by the Paulist Choristers of Chicago. It was a greeting entirely due this famous choir, for it is both a fine singing organization and learned in the traditions of liturgical music. No finer or more uplifting performance of motets of the old school could be desired than what the organization did in its first group.

Under the direction of the Rev. Eugene O'Malley, himself a former singer in the choir, a set of four was presented, representing Palestrina of the Roman, Byrd of the English, Vittorio of the Venetian schools, all of the sixteenth century, and Lotti of the seventeenth century Venetian school. Here was a lofty and noble art, serious, inspiring music, which at the same time managed to be expressive and touching.

After this admirable performance there was another group of colorful modern Russian motets, the second part of the program being devoted to secular songs. Choral music was varied by solo numbers by such artists as William Jordan and John Rogers, boy sopranos; Walter Curran, tenor; George Lane, baritone, and Frank M. Dunford, bass. Applause was cordial in a high degree, and encores were numerous, more frequent among the soloists than by the choir.

Indians Are Coming for Outdoor Show to Start Monday

Indians, in costumes of their tribes, will arrive Friday morning from the Flambeau reservation in Wisconsin to pitch their tepees and dance at the eighth annual national outdoor life exposition May 5 to 10 in the Coliseum.

Two bear cubs from Pickerel lake and a live musgy from Eagle river are among the first of the wild things to make definite announcement of their presence at the show. Besides the cubs there will be full grown bears, deer, muskrats, badgers, mink, raccoons, porcupine, wolves, skunk, red fox and bob cats. Beavers will be shown at work building dams. Wild turkeys from the state game farm of Wisconsin, Canadian geese, pheasants, and mallard ducks, will represent the bird life, and there will be a large display of fish, both live and mounted.

Wisconsin, Michigan, Minnesota and South Dakota will be officially represented at the show. All will send exhibits of fish and game, log cabins, and scraps of wilderness to show their summer offerings to vacationers. Canada will be represented for the first time with exhibits from the Nipigon, Rainy Lake, and the Canadian Soo.

Paul Bunyan, the giant hero of the lumber camps, will be in the show for the first time.

Pretty "Emily" Appears Best of This Exhibit

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

Norman Wright is a young Chicago artist. An exhibition of his paintings has just opened at the National Academy of Art, 230 East Ohio street. There are ten canvases in the group and the most charming among them is the demure, precise, prim and lovely "Emily," a young girl with blue eyes and bobbed brown hair sitting in an aura of Florentine atmosphere. The second most engaging painting is the "Interior Ocho Rios," a quiet room of brown floor and gray ceiling, purple walls and green door framed in blue, which opens into a farther bedroom where a huge mahogany four poster spreads its snowy surface inviting one to nap.

The "Villa Ocho Rios" is a theatrical villa, tropical in architecture, open to all the breezes that blow, colorful, attractive, hospitable and charming, framed by a tree that juts a stalwart bough in the best Egyptian dance attitude. The "Bay Ocho Rios" is rather highly varnished. It shines and glitters and the sky is full of well nourished little clouds that seem a bit heavy for the thin blue air. A palm tree shields the worst of the glare from the water from one's gaze.

But these three or four normal pictures merely skim the surface of the exhibit. To get down to bed rock, you have seen nothing unless you have seen the abstractions. Those are remarkable. Abstractions number one, two, three, and four need in turn a torrent of words in the very latest manner of the very best modernist criticism. For instance you will get the feeling of "Prelude" if you murmur this incantation over three or four times quickly: Whisper, white, peasant, woman, stout, stolid, gray enveloping wraith; a child to come, hush, future, maternity. And you will get the essentials from "Interlude" if you picture a young girl distraught, on one hand a wicked, leering old man with a menacing eye, on the other a youth vigorous and beautiful with a lantern in his hand. Which path shall it be?

The abstractions one, two, three, and four are full of disjointed articles such as fruit, pickles, canoes, skulls, flowers out for a fling, a stove that keeps a maternal eye on the jazzing petals, a cold sheeted ghost just beyond the door, the threat of winter, a woman with a thick baby, a man in the background building bricks without straw, a hundred bundles of sandwiches tied with brown string heaped on a counter, a house, housework, domesticity, marriage, fate.

If you like modern puzzles, puzzle out that one. The paintings are no clearer. The exhibit will continue through the month. "Emily" is worth seeing.

Marriage Mistake Needn't Cripple Any Woman of 25

BY DORIS BLAKE.

So disgusted at 25 that living is unbearable, Mrs. P. T. sums up her case. She has a small girl of 5, who, she claims, means everything to her. But her husband treats her miserably; comes home at all hours of the night, gives her little money to get along on, and lately has taken to drinking, and this puts the dark complexion on life.

Enough to, I honestly agree, if I am not getting merely a one sided version of the domestic situation. It is always possible that the defendant in any complaint can make out a case for himself, too.

This does look, however, as if the man were a bad egg. He didn't want the youngster to be born. He has borrowed money ostensibly to buy necessities for the home, the woman and the child, and lied about the loan being denied him.

What you are going to do with a man like that on your hands can be solved only by one's prejudices for or against divorce. Advice about divorcing, however, is one of the things I keep hands strictly off of, for several reasons. One is because I usually hear one side of the case only; another because divorce would seem to be a matter for the conscience of the individual concerned and not for an outsider to urge.

But of life being unbearable at 25—that is something in which an outsider may help. With a child who means everything, life at 25, regardless of the domestic grief, is still an adventure worth pursuing. Worth putting a great deal of heart into the pursuit, too.

A marriage mistake need not cripple one. With quite a large number of women it has been the impetus for action that ended in great success. Especially where there is a child involved, the urge to make amends for the broken home has led a number of women on to heights undreamed of. Not only success in the sense of providing for self and dependents has been theirs, but in rebuilding faith in men and in marriage and in life itself.

No woman of 25, no matter what her troubles, need go down under a domestic blow.

FARM and GARDEN BY PAUL POTTER

"I like to see a man proud of the place in which he lives. I like to see a man live in it so that his place is proud of him." That statement is credited to Abraham Lincoln, who throughout his life held a love for homely and homelike things.

It is applicable, horticulturists find, in describing results which may be obtained through correct selection, planting and care of shrubs, for large or small areas, from the hardy and high growing privet to the low growing spirea and Japanese barberry.

Be sure to know the final height to which it will grow, is the advice the planner is told in selecting shrubs. Plants cannot always be judged by their size when they arrive from the nursery, for the tall growing may be smaller stock than the lower growing species. Compact species are best for planting near walks or drives, keeping the shrubs back four feet from a walk to avoid difficulty during winter with drifting snow.

Unpack shrubs immediately upon their arrival. If you cannot plant them at once, place them in a trench and cover the roots with earth to prevent drying. When planting, do not leave the shrubs lying about the lawn, for great care should be taken to prevent injury to the roots by exposure to wind and sun.

Special precautions, briefly, include such axioms with experts as the following: Soak the roots for 15 or 20 minutes if they are very dry. Heel-in the plants if planting is to be delayed. Prune the roots, removing broken or bruised portions; prune the tops. Prepare the soil thoroughly, a large enough hole to hold all the roots and to permit setting the plant as deep as it stood in the nursery row; covering the roots with a fine, moist soil, compacting this well around the roots, but leaving the top soil fine and loose.

Be careful in the use of water, shade small plants if set in the bright sun; do not let manure or fresh sod touch the roots of the plant. During dry weather, mulch the plants.

Common high growing shrubs include the Armor and Polish privets, bush honeysuckle, Japanese lilac and purple and white in varieties, and red twigged dogwood. Medium growing shrubs, five to eight feet at maturity, include Weigela, winter berry, Regel's privet, white bush honeysuckle, Japanese rose, American cut leaved elder, and early flowering spirea. Low growing kinds, three to five feet, include Japanese barberry, summer snowball, fragrant sumach, prairie rose or Illinois rose, and dwarf white spirea.

Old doctor's idea still helping Elderly People conquer constipation

DR. CALDWELL made a startling discovery shortly after he graduated from medical school back in 1875. He found great numbers—especially older men and women—suffering from constipation, who were taking harsh laxatives and purgatives. So he concluded that many things people take for constipation do more harm than good, and physicians of today are of the same opinion.

This thought made Dr. Caldwell conduct a search, and out of it came the prescription which made him famous. Over and over he wrote it, when he found people bilious, headachy, out-of-sorts, weak or feverish; with coated tongue, bad breath, no appetite or energy. Its action was so thorough even in the most obstinate cases, and yet so gentle with women and children.

The product you get from your drug store, today, when you ask for Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is put up exactly in accordance with this prescription. It has become the world's most popular laxative. It is a pleasant tasting mixture of fresh herbs and other pure ingredients; it is a real corrective for constipation for men, women and children.

When hospitals point the way you need look no further for sanitary guidance

Kotex absorbent is used today in 85% of our leading hospitals. That is your assurance of safety in sanitary protection.

YOU want to feel perfectly safe in choosing sanitary protection. And there's one way that you can be absolutely sure you are making the right choice . . . that is to follow the guidance of hospitals. 85% of our leading hospitals now use Kotex absorbent for all sorts of surgical dressings.

This is why hospitals prefer Kotex absorbent

It's not an accident that Kotex absorbent is so quickly replacing surgical cotton in dressings. It is so much more absorbent, you see. It is made of a marvelous product called Cellucotton (not cotton) absorbent wadding. This is not cotton, but a cellulose substance which, for sanitary purposes, performs the same function as the softest of cotton, with five times the absorbency.

These layers and layers of Cellucotton absorbent wadding make Kotex light and comfortable, cool and easy to wear.

There are so many refinements of comfort in Kotex: It deodorizes perfectly, completely, in a way that makes one dainty all the time. It is fashioned to fit snugly and securely under the closest fitting gown, and you know what a comfort that is these days.

Because Cellucotton absorbs so quickly and so thoroughly, it stays soft longer, and this lasting protection is one of the most desirable of all Kotex features. Then, too, it is easily and quickly disposed of. Kotex Company, Chicago, Illinois.

KOTEX IS SOFT. . .

1—Not a deceptive softness, that soon packs into chafing hardness. But a delicate, fleecy softness that lasts for hours.

2—Safe, secure . . . keeps your mind at ease.

3—Deodorizes . . . safely, thoroughly, by a special process.

4—Disposable, instantly, completely.

Children Are Entitled to Their Mistakes

By Mrs. Gladys Huntington Bevans

A list of toys and playthings for children from babyhood up will be sent by Mrs. Bevans on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

It was a simple job the 10 year old was doing for her mother—cutting a small white card to fit a name plate in an apartment house entrance, and printing the names on it. Simple as it was, her mother began to give her directions.

"Be sure your corners are right angles or it won't fit. Be sure you allow for the edge of the brass when you print, so it won't cover up part of the name. Use ink, you know—pencil smudges."

In every case she saved the little girl time and energy by her directions. But what did she leave for the child to put into the undertaking? And how was she giving her an opportunity to learn something about planning, spacing, and durability?

If, instead, she had let her child alone, one of several things would have happened. Either her little daughter would have done a good piece of work in which she would have been able to feel some pride, or she would have succeeded through a trial and error system. Or if she had let her daughter alone until she had finished, the card could have been criticised and she could then have made a new one, learning something in the doing over.

Do you find yourself trying to "run" many of the things the children do—giving them directions before they've had a chance to work things out in their slower and less experienced way? Even though I know better, it's often hard for me to refrain from giving suggestions sometimes, to save a child the making of errors.

Some writer has put it, "A child is entitled to his mistakes." He most certainly is. And I think it is one of the hardest lessons parents have to learn — especially those fathers and mothers who are quick and efficient themselves.

"Or I'd rather do it myself—give it to me," is a disastrous remark to make to a child. If you'd rather do it yourself, then do it in the first place and say nothing. But if you give your child something to do, let him or her finish it. And if he is working on some concern of his own give him only what advice he asks for or just as much as he needs to go on with it to the end

Tailored Satin Solves the Afternoon Question

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—Special Correspondence.]—Paris couturiers are kept busy this spring trying to figure out ways of reconciling the opposed factors of the new double standard chic. Now that morning is sartorially divided from afternoon, and town from country, there can be no question of serialized fashions. The couturier has to think of the time, the place, and the girl, if he is to evolve a successful creation.

The formal afternoon vogue is the third corner of the clothes triangle and this angle must be treated with tact if the ménage is to be kept off the rocks. A satisfactory solution of the formal afternoon problem is the tailored afternoon ensemble of silk or satin. The feminine softness and richness of the material makes it dressy enough for any before dinner occasion and yet the simplicity of its tailored lines make it easily wearable for the woman without a limousine.

Doeuillet Doucet, whose ladylike clothes are liked by so many women prominent in the social life of Paris, uses the two faces of pearly gray crêpe satin for this tailored afternoon ensemble. The frock is made crêpe side up. Inset bands of the shiny side trim the sleeves and outline the neck and the full shirred panel in the front of the skirt. The frock has an amusing redingote line, the lower skirt being made of gores mounted in scallops on the long tunic like bodice, which is fitted at the waist by means of small darts.

The shiny side of the satin makes the long Directoire coat, of which the front is shown on the small figure at the left, while the back appears on the large one at the right. The crêpe satin makes the little pointed yoke and collar, which extends into bands edging the coat all round. Crêpe bands also border the cuffs, the smart Directoire pocket flaps and the coat tail which are mounted at the waist line of the fitted top.

TRIBUNE COOK BOOK

BY JANE EDDINGTON.

Lemon Service.

Those who exploit this fruit have worked out a great number, or an almost inexhaustible number, of lovely ways to cut the lemon when it is to be used as a garnish. Just to look at a page of pictures of these cuts is to be delighted with the idea of using the lemon in all its lovely color and quality as a garnish.

There are plenty of reasons for leaving lemon out of tea. Its astringent quality in other connections may be a delight, but with tea some of us object to it, unless we think a hot lemonade made with tea instead of plain water is desirable.

Boiled fish is made almost eminent with a garnish of lemon. Perhaps it is not generally enough recognized that it enhances other broiled and fried foods. A slice of fried eggplant with a thin slice of lemon which may be made green with dry chopped parsley can be recommended, particularly if the eggplant is cooked in such a way as to be creamy. A high class broiled veal kidney is never more nearly just right than when it is well cooked and has as a seasoning a little lemon juice, which may be squeezed out of a section of lemon used to garnish the dish.

Lemon juice is quite universally used today as a seasoning for honeydew melon, but it is not so easy to squeeze the juice out of a section of lemon without getting an acid shower; therefore we think it is worth while to serve the lemon juice in this case, although it should be reamed just before the melon is to be served. The lemon reamer which we also use in getting our orange juice is an attractive utensil which should be in use in our homes every single day, and, of course, we are fortunate if it is arranged over a container attached to electric power for reaming out the juice.

Cut lemon is used frequently to garnish a fine dish of greens like spinach, but in serving the greens hot one of the best ways to get the seasoning of juice is to have it in a teaspoon and drop it over the hot and buttered greens here and there. Cauliflower seasoned with drops of lemon juice is good, and if you try dropping a few drops of almost any sort perhaps you will be converted to the practice.

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Request for Ukuleles.

"A group of children who come to classes in the playground here are anxious to learn to play the ukulele. We could organize a class easily enough and give them instruction but many of the children cannot buy the instruments. It occurred to me that your helpful column might help us secure them. F. D."

A year or so ago when ukuleles were so popular almost every family where there are young people boasted at least one of these instruments. If you no longer want yours, won't you give it to this group of children who are so anxious to learn to play the ukulele?

LONDON, April 29.—(AP)—At Brompton Parish church this afternoon Miss Helen Mackenzie, niece of Randolph Bruce, lieutenant governor of British Columbia, was married to Julian I. Piggott. Mr. Bruce gave the bride away.

War Lesson Shows Way to Peace Time Success

A. E. F. Vet Wishes he had remembered three years earlier

© Comm. of Pub. Inf.

ON Armistice Day 1918, Mr. William E. Higgins of 2118 —14th Avenue, Minneapolis, got the injury which taught him the most valuable lesson of his life. His battalion doctor gave him the right advice but he did not follow it at that time. Three years later a friend, noticing his run down condition, suggested that he try Nujol. That reminded him of what his army physician had told him, so he finally decided to give Nujol a trial. "Since that day" he says, "I've been a different person."

"Nujol," he continues, "has been responsible for what success I have made of myself in the business world, it has contributed to my health, my happiness, to my very joy of living. Without Nujol I should have gone on grumbling and complaining, muttering at fancied injustices, overlooking entirely that this world is just what we make it. Now I know what it means to get up in the morning smiling and rested — ready to do my daily work with zest; what it means to eat with no thought of the consequences; to live within the bounds of good health."

Our bodies, like any other intricate machine, need lubrication. Nujol is not a medicine; it contains no drugs; it is tasteless and colorless as pure water; it cannot hurt you; it forms no habit. All it does is to clean out regularly as clockwork—easily, normally—those poisons (we all have them) which make us feel sick and generally out of sorts.

It is hard to believe that anything so simple can do so much for you—but you can prove it yourself in a very short time, as millions of other people have done: get a bottle of Nujol at any drug store in its sealed package. It costs but a few cents and it will make you feel like a million dollars. Don't expect results over night from so simple and natural a treatment; keep it up for a couple of weeks, and you will have the answer. If you want to feel fine, start tonight—and remember to insist on Nujol!
